F&H Foundation Scholarship Recipients Talk About Career Plans

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — In the summer of 1994, Eric Wenger, 4-H ambassador, returned to the U.S. from a trip to Poland as part of a three-week exchange trip.

What he brought back was not only an understanding about the differences and similarities between the two countries, but an abiding love for work in international business affairs.

Along with many others who joined 4-H and learned much about the world, Eric put himself to work. Before the final months as a Manheim Central senior, Eric accumulated four years of Spanish education, to the point where he wants more challenge — perhaps a trip this summer to a Spanish-speaking country.

The 18-year-old son of Nelson and Alma Wenger, Manheim, Eric joined six other scholarship award winners who hope to make their dreams come true. They met with family and friends at the annual presentation of the 1995 Lancaster County Farm and Home Foundation Scholarship Award winners on Tuesday evening at the Farm and Home Center.

In all, $1,400 was awarded to each recipient, an increase of $400 from last year, according to John Schwartz, extension director.

Eric, with plans to study agribusiness accounting at Penn State, wants to work as a certified public accountant, perhaps in internation-

Penn State Ag Council Gets New Name, Honors Retiring President

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — The Penn State Agricultural Advisory Council has a new name. At the regular semi-annual meeting, the members voted without recorded dissent to change the name to Penn State Agricultural Council. The meeting was held this time at Hershey's Mill Golf Club for a reception for Joab Thomas, returing president, Penn State University. Officials said the new name reflects the enlarging role of the group into advocacy for the college and the agricultural industry, in addition to its service as an advisory board.

The new name came on top of the group's approval of updated by-laws that also more clearly define the current purpose and operation of the council. This stated mission is to enhance the effectiveness of the College of Agricultural Sciences at Penn State University in the planning and

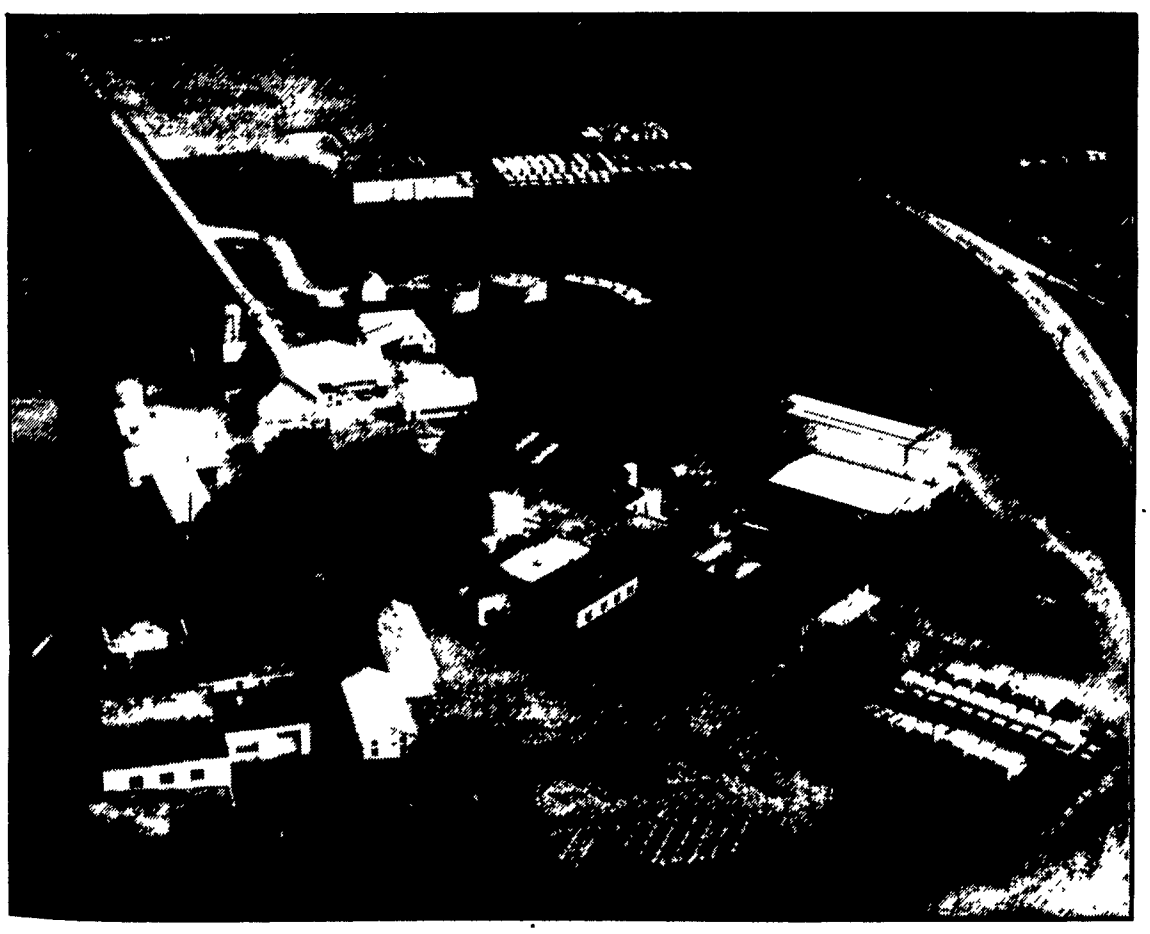
Rutter's Family Farm Is Nation's Oldest



Today, the brick home and stone barn are still part of the Rutter family farm, though almost completely surrounded by the corporation's dairy complex. Around the dairy barn and equipment sheds, left center, are the corporate headquarters, processing, refrigeration, and loading facilities; truck fleet maintenance garages, lower left; and at top center, the former bakery, now leased to a plastic milk jug manufacturing operation.

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.)—Flat, rich and turning green in the spring sunshine, the fields of the Rutter farm stretch away from the buildings with the beauty of a patchwork quilt.

This land has been owned by the Rutter family for nearly two and a half centuries—that's right, centuries—a fact that recently earned the York County dairy operation the distinction as the oldest family farm in the country.

After a nationwide search, that honor has been bestowed on the Rutter farm by Farming Magazine, an agriculture publication headquartered in Wisconsin.

"Never, ever sell the land," is the sage advice passed down from generation to generation of Rutters who tilled the soil and raised prize-winning dairy cattle on the farm located north of the city of York.

Today, 12 of the eighth and ninth generations of Rutter descendants tend the historic farm, as well as administer the annual $85 million, 750-employee business which includes dairy processing facilities, ice cream manufacturing, convenience stores, family restaurants, and a real estate division.

"I started dipping ice cream when I was 12," recalled Joann Rutter Hartman, who presently owns the farmland with her two cousins, brothers Leo and Mike Rutter. Following her graduation from high school, Joann worked in the Rutter's Dairy offices for eight years.

Leo and Mike went to work for the family operation at an early age, too.

"We started helping with the cows when we were just little; we got paid 25 cents per week" grinned Leo Rutter, who still oversees the field crops operations and works with the herd.

POULTRY ◆ MARKETS

Delmarva Broiler

EDISON, NJ
MAY 17, 1995

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was good at most plants, particularly on the under 3 pound sizes which were tight. Seller offerings generally centered on the irregularly available supply of heavier sizes. Live supplies were moderate; weights remained in a full range, but were mostly desirable to heavy. Processing schedules were very heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 51 to 62 cents. Trade sentiment was mostly steady. In the parts complex, breast items were available and slow in clearing. Inquiry for leg quarters was increasing. Wings were generally tight.

MAY 15, 1995

Prices were about unchanged compared to last Monday's report. Availability for this week's slaughter was fully adequate to ample and processing time was booked to full capacity. Offerings for next weeks continue to easily satisfy requirements. Finished sales were seasonally slow. Trade sentiment was barely steady to weak.

TIPS TO IMPROVE EGGSHELL QUALITY...

Dr Milton Scott
Nutritional Consultant

"Check calcium separation"

Samples taken at different locations in the same feed line at the hopper outlet, the far end of the house and at the return, often show a wide variation in calcium levels. Both excessive levels (which cause hens to back off feed) and low levels---prevent adequate calcium intake and cause poor shell quality. Oyster shell's specific gravity (0.86) is close to that of a typical layer ration. This helps prevent Ca separation and build up.

For details on sampling for Ca separation, and the use of oyster shells, contact The Fox Co., PO Box 708, Newfield, NJ 08344.

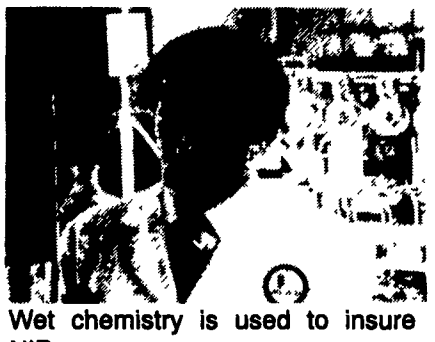
PENNFIELD TESTING LAB - LANCASTER

NIR provides fast and accurate forage results.



Wet chemistry is used to insure NIR accuracy.

ADF (acid detergent fiber) and NDF (neutral detergent fiber) are used to determine available energy from forages.

NO CHARGE FORAGE TESTING:

The primary job at Pennfield's Testing lab is the accurate testing of the feed ingredients used to make Pennfield feeds. You can not consistently make a quality feed unless you know the analysis of the ingredients to be used. Pennfield uses the feed testing equipment to process over 10,800 forage samples annually.

National Egg Market

ATLANTA, GA
MAY 17, 1995

Prices were unchanged to higher for the large sizes in the Northeast and Midwest, and the balance of prices were unchanged. The market tone continued steady to firm. Demand was fair to very good, best where featured and where fast food promotions were in progress. Supplies were usually adequate or available with extra supplies maintained with confidence. Breaking stock supplies were adequate for the light to moderate demand, and the undertone was at least steady; prices were unchanged to higher. Live hen offerings remained fully adequate for the unaggressive demand.

National Grain Market

ST JOSEPH, MO
MAY 17, 1995

Wheat bids finished mostly lower on planting optimism and profit taking on the board. Corn bids extended gains due to continued rain delayed planting and good export demand. Slight weakness noted in bean pits stemmed from profit taking after yesterday's sharp gains and ideas corn acres may be switch to beans. Wheat 4 to 9 cents lower except Portland 4 cents higher. Corn 2 to 4 cents higher. Sorghum 2 to 7 cents higher. Soybeans 1 cent lower.

Spring wheat planting progress in parts of the Northern Plains and dryer weather expected, pressured wheat bids. Upcoming harvest pressure offered weakness as winter wheat crop still looking good. Export sales improved today but this week's orders have been small. Additional gains in corn bids were due to continued heavy rains and flooding in many areas of the Corn Belt. Forecasts call for more moisture throughout the week. Concerns that corn acres may be switched if wet conditions persist, added strength to bids. Export demand has been good this week and today's substantial purchase from South Korea was positive. Active fund buying on the board was also noted.

Soybean bids inched lower on ideas more beans may be planted due to wet weather in parts of the Corn Belt. Profit taking after sharp gains in Tuesday's trade, pressured bids. Export demand improved slightly with Taiwan's offer but sales are down.

Export demand:

The Perfect Place To Discuss Your Banking.

When farmers like you have financial needs, you don't have to come to us, we'll come to you. After all, running a successful farm doesn't leave much time for running to the bank. It's this kind of personal attention that farmers in Lancaster County and surrounding areas have been getting from Bank of Lancaster County for over 125 years.

So if you need working capital, a way to finance machinery, land, livestock, buildings, or a loan tailored to specific needs, look to the bank that's committed to your industry and to our area. At Bank of Lancaster County, decisions are made locally. And for you that means fast turnaround and flexible terms.

Why not give Bob Badger or Stan Michonski of our Agricultural Loan Division a call at (717) 397-7941? We're looking forward to talking to you about banking on your terms...on your farm.

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC THIS WEEK WITH

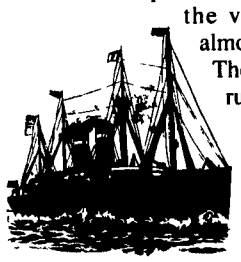
SAVANNAH CROSSES ATLANTIC

In 1819 the steamship Savannah began its Atlantic crossing from Savannah, Georgia, to Liverpool, England. Though called a steamship, the Savannah carried only enough fuel to run 80 hours. Her 29½ day eastward crossing was made mostly under sail. It was many years before steamships (powered by paddle wheels in their early designs) rivaled the records set by sailing vessels. The clipper James Baines made the Boston to Liverpool run in 12 days 6 hours, a record for the voyage, which usually took almost 3 weeks for sailing packets. The return trip, on the westward run, took about twice that long.



Call on God, but row away from the rocks.

TIP OF THE WEEK

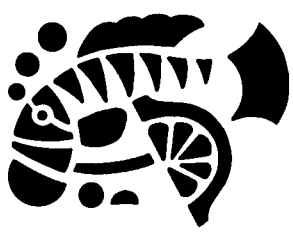
KEDGEREE

3 hard-boiled eggs, chopped
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 cups hot, cooked rice
2 tablespoons melted butter
2 cups cooked, flaked fish
1/3 cup cream
1/8 teaspoon pepper
dash of mace or nutmeg

Thoroughly combine all the ingredients in the top of a double boiler. Heat over water, stirring occasionally, until heated through. Serve for breakfast (traditional) or lunch.

Serves 6 to 8.



The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

Seaweed dry, sunny sky; Seaweed wet, rain you'll get.

Dry May, Wet June.

Cold, wet May, Barn full of hay.

For an east wind in May 'tis your duty to pray.

Lancaster Farming

OPINION

To Stay In Farming, Sign Up

Act 319, commonly called Clean and Green, has come into play all across Pennsylvania where local governments have reassessed agricultrual land. Usually, these reassesment values are based on what the land is worth for development rather than the value based on what the land will produce for agricultural purposes.

This week, reassessment notices have been mailed in Lancaster County. And as one local reporter wrote, "farmers panicked." Not only did they receive word that their reassessments had increased farm values by "sometimes staggering amounts," the deadline to apply for Clean and Green relief was set for June 1. This gave farmers about two weeks right in the middle of spring planting to make decisions that can have eternal consequences for the future of the farm.

Due to the work of Jane Balmer, Lancaster County Farm Bureau president, several precedents were found to extend the June 1 application deadline. Susquehanna County Commissioners in 1993 successfully petioned the courts for a deadline extension for the Clean and Green Act. Centre County later succeeded in the same type of petition. So the stage is set in Lancaster County court at 9 a.m. Monday for the same type of extension. We hope this will happen.

The Clean and Green Act does give production farmers a more realistic tax burden in relation to farm income. If you have 10 acres or produce more than $2,000 worth of agricultural products, you likly should apply for the relief. It's true, if you want to change the use of the farm later, the would-have-been taxes at the development rates will needed to be paid for the last seven years, along with six percent interest. The difference between the Clean and Green value of the best ag land in Lancaster County of $1,220 and the $4,000 to $6,000 or higher value of land for development would not likely keep a developer from buying the farm. But it is a pile of money that will need to be considered.

As for the story going around that in the Clean and Green you must allow the public on your property at will, we have clarified this fear to our satisfaction. There are three classifications of land that can be placed under the Clean and Green Act as follows: (A.) production agricultural land as defined above; (B.) land that has the capability of being farmed but is not in active production; and (C.) forest reserve areas for the growth of trees.

According to John Bell, Pennsylvania Farm Bureau's legal representative, only the "B" catagory (land that has the capability of being farmed but is not in active production) would need to be opened to the public under the Clean and Green Act.

On another note, in Lancaster County the best soils in Clean and Green are assessed at $1,220 per acre and in neighboring counties the same soil type is assessed at less than half this value. Because of this fact, there may be legal grounds to contest Lancaster County's assessed per acre value. Maybe if a farmer would have been part of the assessment committee, we could have avoided this glaring discrepancy.

Even so, the reassessment value of your farm is only half of the equation. Reassessment by law may not increase the county's total tax take by more than five percent in the first year. The main feature of reassessment is to redistribute taxes according to the market value of each of the properties in the county. So the reduced millage rates will really determine your new total tax bill. Some property owners will pay less in taxes under the new reassessment.

But if you consider everything, and you plan to stay in the business of farming for some time into the future, you will likely need sign up for Clean and Green.

Now Is The Time

To Harvest High Quality Alfalfa

High quality alfalfa is valuable in the ration of high-producing cows. However, there is more to quality than just the protein content of the feed.

Cows also need a certain amount of effective fiber for the rumen to function normally. Early bud and pre-bud alfalfa is high in protein but deficient in fiber. In the bloom stage, protein levels decline and fiber levels increase. When alfalfa is beyond the early bloom stage, fiber levels become high enough to the point where they start to reduce digestibility and dry matter intakes.

In view of this, the optimum time to harvest alfalfa is around the late bud stage. However, in spring you may not have good drying conditions at that precise stage of maturity. In that case, a better guideline might be to cut the crop in May at the beginning of a predicated break in the weather regardless of stage of maturity — even if you have to let the corn planter sit idle for a few days. It may be the only good break in weather you receive for the next few weeks. Thus, you will enjoy knowing that you harvested the first cutting at a young stage of maturity, hopefully without a lot of rain damage, and the second cutting is growing as you finish your corn planting. In the meantime, you have set yourself up for an extra cutting for the season.

Remember, if the first cutting was removed at a very young stage of maturity, the next cutting should come into bloom in order to maintain the vigor of the stand.

To Control Prickly Redroot

Many farmers are experiencing a preponderance of prickly redroots in their pastures and sacrifice lots.

According to Glenn Shirk, extension dairy agent, one way to control this pesky weed — along with some other bothersome weeds such as thistles, horseneettles, buttercups, etc. — is to apply a herbicide such as Ally in late spring to early summer.

Ally will also kill legumes. However, the legumes may be reestablished a year latter after the weeds are under control and the herbicide residue is gone.

As always, when applying pesticides, read the label and follow all instructions including weeds and crops the pesticide is labeled for, withdrawal times, and personal protective clothing required.

To Run Productive Meetings

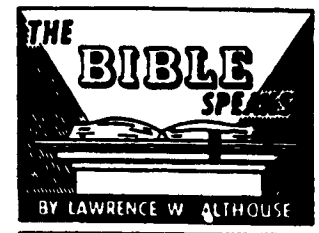
Every week I attend more meetings than I care to count. Many are very productive while a few leave something to be desired.

I have learned to keep meetings productive. Organizers should keep meetings on a fast track, leaving time for group interaction. This helps to develop understanding and builds support for what will need to be done after the meeting is over.

Some ideas on how to get more done per meeting minute:

- Prepare a written agenda. Distributing an agenda in advance gives people time to prepare for the meeting. Also, an agenda helps you set a time table for the meeting.
- Follow the agenda. Check off the items as they are completed. Note comments and ideas.
- Start and stop on time. Starting on time is a simple courtesy to those who are punctual. It also gives full amount of time to the agenda. Finishing on time takes discipline. An agenda and firm ending time keeps the meeting moving and productive.
- Discourage repetition of comments. Reach consensus and move on to another point.
- Generate clear outcomes and assignments. At the end of the meeting, review tasks identified by the group and make assignments to people to work on these tasks.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "Do not wait for extraordinary opportunities. Seize common occasions and make them great."



THE REAL REASON WE DON'T SHARE
May 21, 1995

The Real Reason We Don't Share
May 21, 1995
Background Scripture:
II Corinthians 8 through 9
Devotional Reading:
Matthew 25,:31-41

I have frequently deluded myself that I would be happy to share more with others if I had more. It is a harmless exercise because there is not the remotest chance of such a windfall. So, satisfied that I would be heroically generous, I get a lot of satisfaction over what I would do if circumstances were to change.

But then Paul persuades me that abundance of giving is not tied to the abundance of having. He points to the Macedonians, "for in a severe test of affliction their abundance of joy and their extreme poverty have overflowed in a wealth of liberality on their part." The Macedonians could have claimed exemption from the collection: they were poor and in affliction. Nevertheless, they managed "a wealth of liberality" that overflowed. Not only did they give generously, but they had begged Paul "earnestly for the favor of taking part in the relief of the saints" (8:4).

So their exemplary example was not in their means, but in themselves. Their concern for others flowed out of their "abundance of joy" that prevailed despite their circumstances. Their situation did not have to change before they could be generous. And neither does ours!

First, Themselves

So, if we are not limited by our means, why are we not more generous? First, we do not give of our means because we do not actually commit ourselves to Christ. We tend to forget that, basically, what Christ wants of us is not votes of memberships, but discipleship, living as he did. "First they gave themselves..."

The second reason is that we don't really have faith in God. The failure to share is really a failure to trust in God. We do not share more, because we believe we do not have enough to share. That is really a denial of what God has already done for us. The Macedonians had comparatively little, but they rejoiced over what they did have, an "abundance of joy." By comparison, the Corinthians had considerably more, but failing to recognize and appreciate their abundance, they didn't have the joy.

Joy is what God provides for us makes all the difference in the quality of our lives. A study of Japanese men with cancer found that those who were thankful for the time they had left had better chances for survival than those disturbed over the time that was gone. To accept God's gifts without thankful joy is the greatest poverty of all.

Enough and More

Holding back in sharing also means that we don't trust God to provide for us. Giving, says Paul, is accompanied by a promise: "And God is able to provide you with every blessing in abundance, so that you may always have enough of everything and may provide in abundance for every good work" (9:8). Although nagged by the fear that we won't have enough, he assures us: "He who supplies seed to the sower and bread for food will supply and multiply your resources..." (9:10).

If we believe this promise, how can we not share with those in need? We don't have to wait for better circumstances. We can give generously now and trust God to supply us with that we need. That's the key: do I trust God to keep his promise? The answer is not a "yes" or "no" but a generous response to someone in need. And what about you? Do you trust God enough to go out on a limb for others? Yes, there is a risk in all this. "He who sows sparingly will also reap sparingly and he who sows bountifully will also reap bountifully" (9:6). Trust in God enables us to give generously and also reap bountifully. What we get in the long run is not restricted to what we keep for ourselves, but what we share with others.

WITH NEW EXCEED, THE BROADLEAVES UP HERE DON'T HAVE A CHANCE.

FOR THE NEXT 30 DAYS, NEITHER DO THE WEEDS DOWN HERE.

There's a new postemergence herbicide for corn just out from Ciba Crop Protection that knocks down your toughest broadleaves, then keeps them down with longer residual control. It's called Exceed.™

Exceed knocks down 27 different broadleaves, including velvetleaf, ragweed, pigweed, cocklebur and lambsquarters. And it delivers up to four weeks of residual control.

But the benefits don't stop there. Exceed also gives you a wide application window and excellent crop safety. There's still time to include new Exceed in your crop plans for this year. See your dealer for details on this powerful new tool. Exceed. It gets more weeds. It gives you more time to get them.

MORE WEEDS. MORE TIME. Exceed

90 Cow Tie Stall Barn—Atglen, PA
Lapp's Barn Equipment can install a high-performance/high efficiency tunnel ventilation system in your barn. A tunnel ventilation system will give you an even air flow throughout your barn of 2-5 mph. This gives you the advantage of better controlling temperature to give your cows more comfort which means more milk!! Also, a tunnel ventilation system eliminates circulating fans, provides summer and winter ventilation and controls fly problems! An optional unit can even automate your ventilation so you will never even have to worry about it when you're not there, so you can concentrate on other things!
At Lapp's, we sell high quality ventilation systems manufactured by Acme Engineering, Acme products feature such things as:

- Galvanized Construction
- Wide Cambered Propeller
- Rivited Blades
- Unique Captured Bearings
- Vertical Support Frame
- Screens Pre-cut
- Totally Enclosed Motors
- Optional Discharge Diffuser Cone
- Optional Belt Tightener

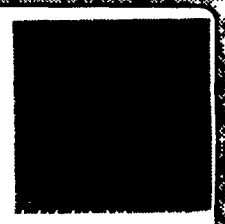
FLOORING

BOSS HOG WOVEN WIRE

Woven wire is generally used for hog flooring but is not limited to this use. Elevator fencing, fork truck safety cages, wire truck tailgates, etc. can also be made from the same construction. Call for your specific job needs.

- Excellent for farrowing/nursery pigs
- Does not retain bacteria
- No extra charge for custom size
- Easy cleaning
- Surface is non-porous
- Low cost flooring

AP Plastic Flooring



Sanitation - Constructed of solid plastic material. Some plastic floors are foamed. As these floors wear down their micro air pockets fill with bacteria which make the floor difficult, if not impossible to disinfect. This flooring features a triangle underside design which diminishes the need for high pressure washing from below to completely clean, as the floor can be cleaned sufficiently from above.

Outstanding Traction - Unique "High-low" finger design provides traction for pigs of all sizes, while enhancing safety and comfort.

WayPig

WayPig Litter Scale
An entire litter can be placed in the portable WayPig at one time. The new oversize scale gives a clear readout of the weight in pounds and kilograms. The compact design allows it to glide easily through aisles and around tight corners.

WayPig 500 Animal Scale
This rust resistant steel scale is used for weighing up to the largest hog. The entire unit serves as the weighing area so that an animal leaning on the sides won't prevent an accurate reading.

Leaders Learn Trust, Cooperation At Lancaster FFA Conference

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — FFA leaders from all the county chapters found out what it's like to learn to cooperate.

At group workshops, they learned many valuable lessons, such as: Don't be afraid when they help you through an obstacle course. Learn to trust others to stop your fall.

Joy Young, county president from Solanco FFA, welcomed nearly 100 FFA'ers to the fourth annual Red Rose Leadership Conference last week at Lancaster Mennonite High School, home of the Hans Herr FFA Chapter.

State FFA officers present to help the Lancaster County leaders included, front, Kelli Zeigler, state central vice president and Marci Harnish, state vice president. In back, from left, Chad Slusser, state treasurer and Tony Miller, state sentinel.

FFA leaders from the various schools in the county learned that "the sky's the limit," the theme of the conference, which tests the abilities of the FFA'ers to manage others, to learn, and to lead.

Leaders had a chance to interact with and learn from the experience of other FFA members in managing personalities in their organizations, working cooperatively, and to learn some of the difficulties when working with a team.

State FFA officers present to help the leaders included Kelli Zeigler, state central vice president; Marci Harnish, state vice president; Chad Slusser, state treasurer; and Tony Miller, state sentinel.

Young, Solanco High School FFA and president of the county FFA organization, told those attending that the conference encourages incoming officers to "get to know fellow FFA members and take the ideas and the enthusiasm shared here home to the new members."

At the conference, county officers attending included Erin Huber, Manheim, secretary; Lisa Witmer, Manheim, northern region vice president; Joy Young, Solanco, president; Randy Miller, Pequea Valley, sentinel; Kerry Martin, Garden Spot, chaplain; Andy Young, Solanco, southern region vice president; Jess Weaver, Garden Spot, treasurer; and Andrea Kreider, Solanco, reporter. Rob Heath, Garden Spot, served as student adviser.

Various workshops were conducted to help train chapter leaders to perform their duties.

At the meeting, county officers attending included, from front, clockwise, Erin Huber, Manheim, secretary; Lisa Witmer, Manheim, northern region vice president; Joy Young, Solanco, president; Randy Miller, Pequea Valley, sentinel; Kerry Martin, Garden Spot, chaplain; Andy Young, Solanco, southern region vice president; Jess Weaver, Garden Spot, treasurer; and Andrea Kreider, Solanco, reporter. Rob Heath, Garden Spot, served as student adviser.

At one workshop, leaders spoke to the chapter historians and reporters from the county on how to cover an event and submit stories to newspapers. Some details were provided on how to create an inclusive and eye-appealing scrapbook to record the events of the chapters.

Other workshops focused on the aspects of proper record-keeping, conducting successful fund-raising activities, holding meetings, and other events.

In the evening, outdoor activities included the teamwork obstacle course, which stressed trust and cooperation, and similar events.

Andrea Kreider, county FFA reporter from Solanco, reviews how to assemble a scrapbook with Josh Troxell, former county FFA reporter, Grassland FFA, at the leadership conference.

BETTER FILTRATION.

New Della-Flow™ Milk Filters from Alfa Laval Agri are designed to perform better than any other filter on the market today. Seventy-five percent of the dairymen who tested the New Della-Flow filters believed they retained as much sediment as the top-rated orange-stripe filters currently on the market and a full 25% believed New Della-Flow filters retained more.

This superior filtration is due to a special fabric weave that exceeds burst strength needs by almost 100% and more easily traps small particles. And the more sediment that's retained, the higher the quality of milk and the greater the potential for profits.

BETTER MILK FLOW.

In long-term testing among dairymen, nearly 90% rated the New Della-Flow™ Milk Filter as excellent in terms of milk flow.

This superior milk flow is achieved because of New Della-Flow filter's special fabric design and a seam that's sewn, rather than glued like the competition. The sewn seam not only makes the filter easier to install, it provides 4-10% more surface area for better milk flow. And better milk flow means faster milking and less wear and tear on valuable milking system components.

BETTER VALUE.

The special fabric weave and sewn seam add up to a better value for you. Why? Because those features enable us to fit more of the New Della-Flow™ Milk Filters into each box than the orange-stripe and other glued-seam competitors. In fact, you'll find 10% more filters in each New Della-Flow box — for about the same price. That's a savings you can pocket immediately.

What's more, the savings you'll realize from the New Della-Flow filter's better filtration and milk flow will just continue to add up.

BETTER GIVE 'EM A TRY.

Better filtration. Better milk flow. Better value. If that's not enough reason to try New Della-Flow™ Milk Filters, here's another: A free trial sample. To get your free trial sample, mail this coupon, see your nearest independent Alfa Laval Agri™ dealer or call 1-800-495-8377 today.

Farm Safety, Occupational Health Board Appointed

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—In an effort to reduce farm-related injuries and fatalities, Agriculture Secretary Charles Brosius recently chaired the first meeting of the Pennsylvania Farm Safety & Occupational Health Advisory Board.

The Farm Safety and Occupational Health (FSOH) Act of 1994 empowered the state Agriculture Secretary to appoint a 13-member board to monitor farm safety in Pennsylvania and make recommendations to incorporate its voluntary educational strategies.

"Agriculture is the number one industry of Pennsylvania, with $3.67 billion in cash receipts and nearly $40 billion in related economic activity," Brosius said. "However, agriculture is also ranked the most hazardous industry in the nation."

Brosius signed a memorandum of understanding with Lamartine Hood, dean of Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, to lead the way in developing and implementing a comprehensive farm health and safety program to benefit Pennsylvania farmers, their families and their employees.

"We intend to maximize our resources and work together with the farm community, insurance and university specialists to improve the safety efforts of our rural citizens," Brosius said.

Brosius selected the following individuals to serve on the advisory board:

- Dr. Timothy Dutt, a chemical industry representative from Fogelsville;
- Rick Flinn, Pennsylvania Emergency Health Services Council;
- Arthur Glatfelter, Glatfelter Insurance Group;
- Joel Hersh, state Health Department;
- Josef Jordan, Pennsylvania Emergency Management Agency (PEMA);
- Robert Junk, a livestock and crop farmer from Uniontown;
- Dr. Ron McAllister, New Holland North American, Inc.;
- Dennis Murphy, Penn State University;
- Doyle Paul, Berlin Brothersvalley High School;
- Nick Place, Susquehanna County Extension Office;
- Anna Swailes, a dairy farmer from Willow Hill; and
- Leroy Welk, a dairy farmer from Quarryville.

The meeting also was attended by Rep. William Lloyd (D-Somerset) and Rep. Ed Krebs (R-Lebanon), prime sponsors of the farm safety legislation.

The next meeting of the Farm Safety Advisory Board will be held in Harrisburg on Monday, June 12.

EMPIRE LIFT DECK

The Empire Lift Deck is a new approach to an age old problem; worker comfort. Today's larger herd sizes mean many more hours spent in the milking parlor than ever before. Empire Agri-Systems, Inc. of Auburn, NY, has designed a parlor pit floor that will adjust up or down to meet each milkers' desired working height. A milker 6'2" tall or 5'6" tall can each work the same parlor with equal comfort.

The Empire Lift Deck is made of special PVC planking with a non-skid surface, supported by a galvanized steel frame, and raised up and down via a stainless steel cable suspension and linear actuator drive system. The cushion like flexibility, non skid surface of the PVC decking offers increased worker comfort that leads to higher productivity demanded by today's larger dairy farms. The new PVC decking offers a non corrosive, easy to clean surface and eliminates the need for heavy rubber mats. This new concept is sure to be a part of many new parlor units.

al business. The 10-year 4-H member and Manheim Central senior accredits the Poland trip and his experience with public speaking as essential to his career decision.

Jason Wivell credits his many years of working with dairy cattle in his decision to major in ag science at Penn State. Jason, 18, son of Rebecca Wivell, Elizabethtown, has worked the past five years for the Ken Myer dairy in Elizabethtown, taking care of the Red and White herd.

A 10-year 4-H member, as an Elizabethtown FFA'er Jason garnered much work experience in raising and showing cattle. He said he is considering a career in some aspect of dairy nutrition, perhaps in ag sales. He believes that college will provide him with ideas to take with him from a college with a "great reputation in agricultural education."

Eugene Barton, Jr., 17-year-old son of Earl Ruhl, Lititz, has plans to study ag engineering at Penn State.

Eugene, who has worked on a hog farm in Manheim the past two years, wants to manage a farm someday. He is a senior at Elizabethtown High School.

Andy Bollinger plans to attend a college that specializes in training dairy specialists at Hutchison Technical College in Minnesota. Andy said he made the decision to attend the technical college by information obtained from an uncle who lives there and works with an accountant.

The college provides a one-year certificate in dairy management with an emphasis on business.

"I grew up on a dairy and I like it a lot," said Andy.

What makes the study at Hutchison so important is the emphasis on veterinary experiences and livestock management aspects, such as hoof trimming.

"They explain those types of things and ways to build your own dairy setup and obtain the proper training," he said.

Andy, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bollinger, Lititz, is a senior at Ephrata. As part of his four-year FFA experience, he was worked with his father on the dairy. Andy has also served as county officer and obtained a great deal of leadership training through FFA.

Karen Greineder, 18, Lancaster, has used her experience in education and teaching for a career as a dietician. Karen will study in the fall at the University of Pittsburgh, which provides internships for those to obtain the necessary "hands-on" training in dietary nutrition.

Karen said she visited the Pittsburgh area twice. A friend of the family mentioned some of the opportunities available, which appealed to Karen. Karen said she "really, really liked" what she heard and saw. "There are many demands growing through chemistry."

Karen, 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Greineder, Lancaster. A chemistry honors student, Karen also credits her chemistry teacher at Lancaster Catholic, Mr. Scott Bailer, "a really excellent teacher," she said, for her career decision.

Laura Watson has made plans to attend the Philadelphia College of Textiles and Science to study fashion design.

Laura, 17, daughter of John and Kay Watson, Lititz, enjoyed much of the work she did in sewing and art as a youngster and also took several courses through Warwick High School. She said the field is "very competitive" and considered other schools, such as the University of Delaware, as possibilities.

The work of her home economics teacher and her mother inspired her to someday be a leading fashion apparel designer.

Jessica Homyack, Cocalico High School senior, wants to work in some program of wildlife management after graduating from West Virginia University at Morgantown, W.Va. She said that she has spent a lot of time on hunting trips with her family.

Jessica, 18, daughter of Elena White, will study wildlife and fisheries management at West Virginia University. After graduation, Jessica indicated she will be flexible about deciding where she wants to start her career. "It doesn't matter where I work — maybe even out West," she said.

The scholarships are awarded to those students who study at an approved college. Money is available from the Elmer Espenshade Trust.

Field Clinics July 11, 13

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Two field clinics are scheduled to improve the agronomic management skills of industry personnel, extension and public agents, crop consultants and farmers at the Penn State Agronomy Research Farm here on July 11 and 13.

The Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center, located nine miles southwest of State College on Rt. 45, will host the clinics. Specialists from Penn State and the agricultural community will provide hands-on diagnosis training in crop production, soil fertility and conservation, and pest management.

Participants can choose from a variety of topics and have ample opportunity to diagnose, solve, and discuss crop management problems and situations. Also, commercial and private pesticide applicator license credits can be obtained.

The program includes nutrient factors affecting plant development, management of alfalfa diseases, root feeding insects, and weed management scenarios. Also included will be discussion on cool-season grass growth and development, forage varieties overview, estimating leaf area loss in soybeans, growth and development of small grains, methods for conducting stirp trials, assessing soil compaction, and evaluating landscapes and estimating soil loss.

A registration fee of $25 covers lunch, refreshments, and support materials.

Register by calling Lisa Cryster in the Department of Agronomy at (814) 865-2543 or mail the $25 fee to the Field Diagnostic Clinics, Attn: Lisa Cryster, Dept. of Agronomy, The Pennsylvania State University, 116 ASI Building, University Park, PA 16802. Registration deadline is July 6.

Center Posts Bull Sale Results

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Meat Animal Evaluation Center has announced the results from Pennsylvania's 22nd Annual Performance Tested Bull Sale.

There was a tremendous crowd on hand to appraise this outstanding set of performance tested bulls — 107 bidders registered from nine different states.

The first bull in the ring was the Lot #1, Polled Hereford bull. This bull, owned by Ralph Strouse, State College, was the top-indexing Polled Hereford this year and received the award recognizing this achievement from the Pennsylvania Polled Hereford Association. This bull very appropriately received the top price paid for a Polled Hereford. Smith Farms of Bradford, bid $2,400 to purchase this top-gaining Polled Hereford.

The second highest indexing Polled Hereford bull consigned by Bernie and Debbie Chubbuck of Laceyville, returned the second highest Polled Hereford price. Tom Mullinix from USDA, Beltsville, Md. selected the bull for $2,300.

The eight most popular Polled Hereford bulls averaged $2,050 indicating a very strong demand for the best Polled Hereford bulls. There was a total of 24 Polled Hereford bulls. The entire group of Polled Herfords, which may have exceeded the demand, averaged $1,308.

The Angus bull division started with the top-indexing Angus bull owned by Darron Smith. This bull received the Top-Indexing Angus Bull Award presented by the Pennsylvania Angus Association as well as the top-indexing bull over all breeds award presented by the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association. Sidney Witmer of Liverpool, purchased this fastest-gaining, most efficient Angus bull for $1,500. The second highest indexing Angus bull revived the enthusiasm in the sale and recorded the top Angus sale price of the day. Deborah Hoover of Tyrone, offered the successful bid of $2,500 for this Angus bull with the top EPD index and the top adjusted 365-day weight. This complete Angus bull was offered by Paul and Bette Slayton of Bedford. The third highest indexing Angus bull returned the second highest price recorded for an Angus. David Hendricks of Zionsville, paid $1,800 to own this lightest birth weight EPD bull from Clarence Robinson of Smithfield. The 18 Angus bulls offered averaged $1,503, which was the top breed average of the day.

The Simmental division started with the Lot #44 Simmental consigned by Dr. Bruce Laidig of Newburg. This bull was the fastest gaining bull over all breeds and he also was the most efficient bull of all breeds, recording a feed efficiency of 3.74 pounds of feed per pound of gain. This well-bred bull sold, on order, to Johns Lanting Enterprises of Hollister, ID for $3,000, which was the top price paid for the sale. The second highest price offered for a Simmental bull was $1,550, which was bid for both the 2nd and 3rd Indexing Simmentals. Both of the bulls were owned by Messick farms of Middletown and sold to Ray W. Brown of Three Springs and Tina Marie Clark of Hustontown, respectively. The 11 Simmental bulls averaged $1,382.

The two Charolais bulls in the sale were both consigned by Raymond Bratton of McVeytown. They sold for $1,200 and $1,100 to Bernard Farabaugh of Carrolltown and David Seamens of State College, respectively.

The lone Limousin bull in the sale, consigned by Seth Everhart of State College, sold to Scott Stone of Williamsburg for $1,500.

The single Beefmaster bull consigned by John Lehr sold to Luther Upton of Portsmouth, Va. for $1,800.

The entire group of 57 bulls grossed $79,150 to average $1,389. This sale average would qualify this sale as successful, especially when taking into consideration the economic outlook for the beef industry. When considering the economic advantage, research has shown, that by using performance tested bulls, there were many bargains to be purchased.

For more information on Pennsylvania's performance testing programs, contact Glenn Eberly, Director, PA Department of Agriculture's Meat Animal Evaluation Center, 651 Fox Hollow Rd., State College, PA 16803, (814) 238-2527 or (814) 865-5857.

US Senate Ag Committee Chair Proposes Bill For Pesticide Use

WASHINTON D.C.—U.S. Sen. Richard G. Lugar (R-IN), chairman of the Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition and Forestry, has introduced legislation to help ease the regulatory burden on farmers and agribusiness by allowing them more flexibility in pesticide choice and reregistration while maintaining food safety.

Lugar's bill, "The Minor Use Crop Protection Act of 1995," would help expand manufacturers' flexibility during the reregistration process and thereby maintain farmer access to minor use pesticide choices.

In addition, Lugar hopes to "provide incentives for manufacturers to maintain or develop new safe and effective pesticides for minor uses without compromising food safety or adversely affecting the environment," Lugar said in a statement today. The bill was introduced today with 41 cosponsors.

Farmers utilize minor use pesticides for regional pest or disease problems, usually on a small amount of acreage. A 1988 Environmental Protection Agency law requires that all pesticides registered before November 1984 must be reregistered with the agency, which could limit some pesticide options for farmers.

Given the significant economic and scientific resources involved in reregistering minor use pesticides, many manufacturers may abandon reregistering several pesticides if they believe that their market is limited because of farmers' regional or narrow use of the product.

"Loss of minor use pesticides could cause substantial production problems for many fruit, vegetable and ornamental crops," Lugar said. "Farmers also fear that loss of minor use pesticides will put them at a competitive disadvantage with foreign producers who would still have access to the pesticides.

"Burdensome regulations impose unnecessary costs on agriculture production," Lugar said. "Quality U.S. products must be given every opportunity to compete in international markets."

In another effort to ease regulatory burdens, last month Lugar introduced the "Edible Oil Regulatory Reform Act of 1995," which would separate shipping regulations on vegetable and soy oils from those of "hazardous" petroleum oils.

Lugar's bill, a longtime initiative, would block the Clinton administration's continued attempts to impose hazardous cargo restrictions on vegetable oils shipped on U.S. waterways, which add costs to the products.

Previous protests prompted the U.S. Dept. of Transportation to withdraw its proposals and place vegetable and petroleum oils under separate shipping classifications.

Rutter's Family Farm

Mike Rutter, who heads up the dairy processing side, also started his career in the family corporation doing milking chores with the Rutter Bros. registered Guernseys.

"My first job when I went to work at the dairy was loading trucks," said Mike, now president of Rutter's Dairy. "We all worked our way up."

The Rutter family first sank roots into this rich, flat land in 1747, when Jacob Rutter and his brother-in-law, Nathaniel Lightner, received a grant for 370 acres from William Penn's great-grandson, Springettes Penn. The original sheepskin deed, framed and preserved, is a family keepsake that has passed down through the generations.

In 1795, the grant was split and 200 acres deeded to Andrew Rutter by Nathaniel Lightner. Until the highway department took 13 acres for Interstate 83, the deed had undergone no other changes in more than 150 years.

Brothers George and M. Ebert "Bud" Rutter, implemented one of the operation's first major business changes in 1921, when they began selling milk from the family herd door-to-door. Joann Rutter Hartman is the daughter of George, and Bud was Leo and Mike's father.

A natural spring on the Rutter farm was utilized to keep the fledgling dairy's milk cool until it could be marketed to customers in nearby York.

On their first day of delivering milk, the Rutter brothers sold 13 of the 15 quarts of milk they had bottled, at the price of 8 cents per quart. Business grew rapidly and by 1929, Bud's brother-in-law, Lehman Crist, joined the Rutter brothers in the family's milk enterprise.

A citation was handed down on the dairy in 1938, from the state's Milk Standards Marketing Regulatory Agency, when Rutter's milk was found to exceed the maximum 8 percent allowable butterfat.

The resulting publicity, rather than harming Rutter's reputation, boosted the dairy's image among the community's consumers for marketing high quality milk.

In the mid-1960s, Rutter's faced another potential disaster when the dairy's largest customer, a supermarket chain, purchased its own milk processing facility. The younger generation convinced their parents to venture into the convenience store business, a new way to market milk that was just taking hold in the region.

Since the first Rutter's Farm Store opened in 1968, the convenience store side of the business has boomed. Their Farm Store Division now includes 54 stores dotting York County and surrounding areas, including northern Maryland.

As the farm store operations developed, Rutter's Corporation added a Real Estate Division to handle the land acquisitions and construction details.

A bakery added to the Rutter's complex a few years ago was later closed and leased to a firm that uses the facility to manufacture 750,000 plastic milk containers daily. Milk jugs from that plant travel directly to the Rutter's dairy processing complex via a transport system connecting the two facilities.

In addition to Mike and Leo, other division heads in the family team include Dale Crist, president of the Ice Cream Division, Stewart Hartman, president of the Convenience Store Division, and Jay Crist, president of the Restaurant Division. Several children from their families also hold key staff positions in the corporation.

Though nearly surrounded by the maze of buildings from which the corporation operates today, the Rutter homestead, with its 125-year-old brick home and beautiful stone barn, still houses dairy cows.

Leo's daughter, Cindy Rutter Johnson, is herdsman for the farm's milking string of 90 registered Guernseys and Holsteins. Her two young daughters are the tenth generation to live on the Rutter land.

Hundreds of school children annually learn about milk and dairy farming on field-trip tours of the Rutter's Dairy production and processing facilities. The tours have been tradition at the Rutter's operations for many years, and now welcome young visitors from schools not only in the York area, but from numerous surrounding counties.

Still keeping Rutter's abreast with the changing markets, the dairy's fleet of white delivery trucks with their familiar red and yellow lettering is presently undergoing a colorful face-lift. Grass-green truck cabs will compliment the eye-catching farm scene, featuring red buildings and black-and-white cows, that will soon be rolling along area highways.

But while changing generations, expanding building complexes, business diversifications—even new truck logos—evolve and modernize to keep the Rutter's Corporation a growing business, the land itself remains constant.

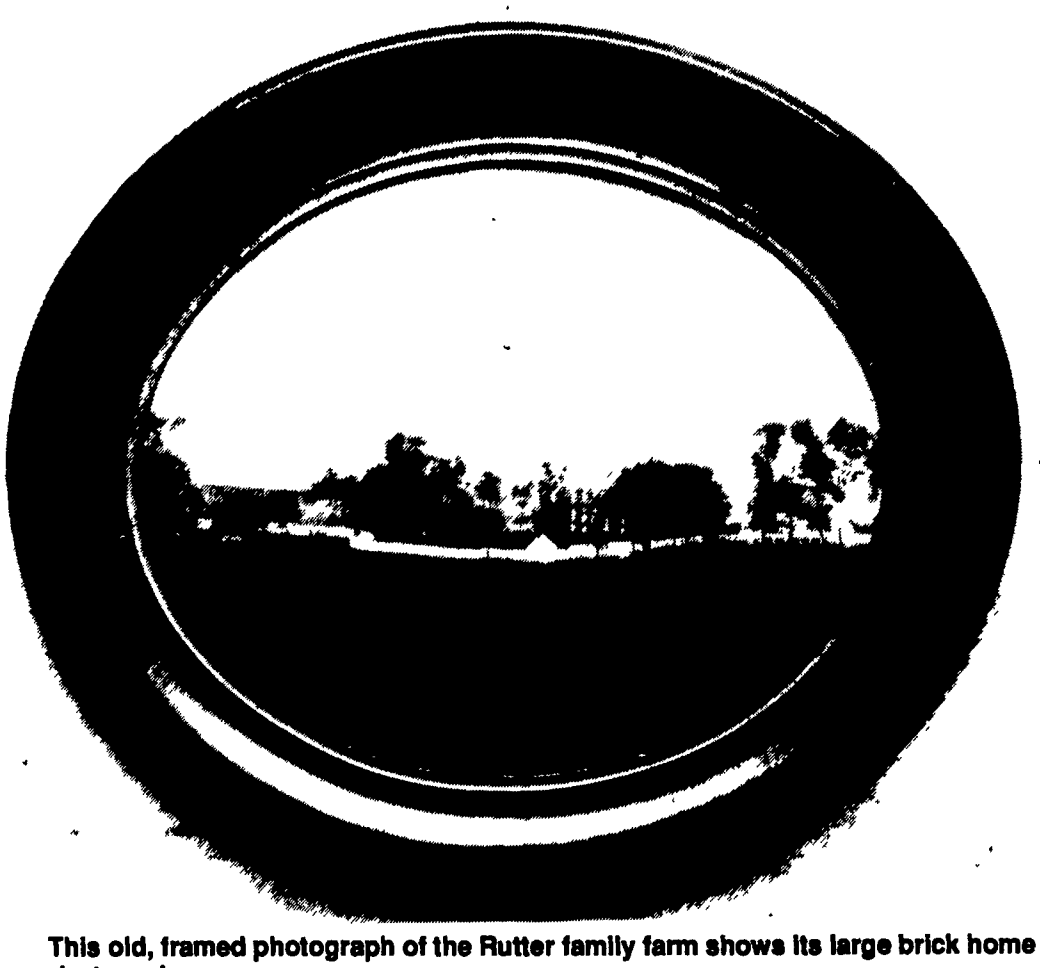
Corn and hay once again push through the moist soils of springtime and the hoofs of dairy cows trod through the pasture forage, enroute to the daily milking.

Keep the land, they said and the Rutter family has.

In fact, they've just added a purchase of land that adjoined the farm and will somewhat extend the neat strips of crop plantings.

Jacob Rutter would no doubt be pleased.

Rutter's Dairy gets a new look and this is the first refrigerated truck off the line with the new logo and paint job.



This old, framed photograph of the Rutter family farm shows its large brick home and stone barn.

Leo Rutter, standing next to the family farm corporate sign, holds an artist's rendering of the business's new truck design and logo.

MEDIA ADVISORY

MAY 1995

GENERAL AG NEWS

- GYPSY MOTH SPRAYING SLATED
The Maryland Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with federal and county agencies, plans to spray for gypsy moths on about 64,500 acres statewide during the spring of 1995. This year's hot spots include the Eastern Shore and Charles County, which contain more than 80 percent of the spray sites. MDA has provided a toll-free information number for landowners to find out about treatment schedules. The number is 1-800-492-2105 for counties east of, and including, Baltimore County. For Anne Arundel County, Southern Maryland and areas west of Baltimore County, the number is 1-800-492-2106.

- MARYLAND TOBACCO AUCTIONS COMPLETED
The 1995 Maryland tobacco auctions have been completed. The average tobacco price for the season was $163.46 per hundred pounds. The auctions spanned a four-week period with fifteen sale days. The 1995 price increased from $151.22 per hundred pounds garnered in 1994. The record average price for Maryland tobacco came at the 1991 auction at $187.19 per hundred pounds. This year's auction sold 11,751,296 pounds of tobacco produced on some 8,500 acres. In 1994, 11,838,461 pounds of tobacco grown on 9,500 acres were sold. For more information, contact Harold Kanarek at 410-841-5882.

- PRECISION AGRICULTURE FIELD DAY SET FOR JUNE 19
A Precision Agriculture Field Day is set for June 19 at the USDA-ARS Beltsville Agricultural Research Center (BARC), located a short distance north of the Washington Beltway at 100300 Baltimore Ave. (U.S. Highway 1). Field day plans are being coordinated by the Potash and Phosphate Institute (PPI) Foundation for Agronomic Research (FAR), the Fertilizer Institute and BARC.

  Visitors will see how space-age technology is providing important tools for nutrient management and other aspects of modern crop production. Exhibits will open at 9 a.m. in tents on the BARC grounds. They will show computer hardware and software, as well as related technology developments. A joint House and Senate agriculture hearing will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the auditorium of the Administration Building.

  Noon lunch will be provided by the Maryland Grain Producers Association and the Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board. The afternoon program includes bus tours to see live demonstrations of precision farming experiments at BARC. Barley harvesting and alfalfa fertilization will be demonstrated.

  Participants should register by May 26 for the lunch and bus tours. Call Dr. William K. Griffith at 703-450-4835 for registration information.

- CHANGES SLATED FOR CONSERVATION RESERVE PROGRAM
The Consolidated Farm Service Agency has announced three major changes for the Conservation Reserve Program. During 1995, producers enrolled in the program will be able to extend the maturity of existing contracts for one year, withdraw certain land from the program, and begin land preparation before July 1 with proper approval (applies to producers whose contracts expire this year). Certain restrictions and requirements apply. Call the Consolidated Farm Services Agency at 410-381-4550 for details.

ALLEGANY COUNTY

- POND MANAGEMENT WORKSHOP PLANNED
The Allegany Soil Conservation District is sponsoring an evening pond workshop on Thursday, June 8 at 7 p.m. at Spring Valley Fishing Lake in Oldtown. The meeting will target citizens who own or manage a pond. Various government officials will be available to offer information on permits required for maintenance and repairs, chemical algae control applications and fish species and populations. For more information, contact the Allegany Soil Conservation District at 301-777-1747.

- ALLEGANY SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT WORKS WITH BOY SCOUTS
The Allegany Soil Conservation District is working with the Potomac Council of the Boy Scouts of America to perform water quality monitoring on 6.2 miles of Allegany County streams in the Upper Seven Springs Run Watershed. A major portion of the stream system feeds a recreational pond located on Scout property which suffers from algae blooms. The project gives the scouts an opportunity to meet requirements for the Environmental Science Merit Badge Program, while addressing water quality issues in their own back yard. The results of the monitoring work will be used to develop an action plan for pond management. Funding for the program was made available through the Chesapeake Bay Trust. For more information, contact Ben Cooper at the Allegany County Soil Conservation District, 301-777-1747.

DORCHESTER COUNTY

- ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE COURSE SET FOR JULY 10-14
The Dorchester Soil Conservation District is sponsoring an environmental science course for county high school students entitled, "The Land and Water Connection," July 10-14 at the Horn Point Environmental Laboratory in Cambridge. To register, call Christine Evans at 410-228-3733.

IT'S A JUNGLE OUT THERE!

MAKE SURE YOUR GRAZING CATTLE GET THE NUTRIENTS THEY NEED.

During late spring and early summer, your lush pasture may seem fully nutritious and sufficient for your grazing cattle. But BEWARE!! As the heat of summer sets in and pasture matures, its nutritional value will drop dramatically, which may show up in slow weight gain, decreased milk production, or even poor herd health.

The best way to ensure that your herd is getting all the nutrients it needs is by having Mol-Mix® Free-Choice Prime or Prime with Bovatec Liquid Protein Supplements available.

They will:
- Improve weight gain
- Increase dry matter intake
- Shorten calving intervals

Mol-Mix Prime and Prime with Bovatec are both available for your herd in a convenient lick tank — there's no labor to put it out in the field, and all you have to do is monitor intake so you know when you need a refill. There won't be waste due to weather (extreme heat, rain, etc.). This all proves to be very economical!

So don't trust the nutritional value of the lush pasture jungle — call 1-800-GO-AGWAY or your local Agway Feed Sales Specialist today to find out more about supplementing with Mol-Mix Prime or Prime with Bovatec!

MOL MIX® Liquid Supplements

Harpster Receives Teaching Award

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.)—The Penn State chapter of Gamma Sigma Delta has honored Harold Harpster with its Teaching Award, to recognize his significant accomplishments in teaching animal science courses at Penn State. The award was presented at a reception at the Nittany Lion Inn recently.

Harpster, whose teaching efforts focus primarily on nutrition courses at both the undergraduate and graduate level, was among the first faculty in the college to adopt computer-assisted technology in classroom teaching.

In addition to incorporating computer-assisted instruction in the classroom, Harpster uses weekly laboratories to provide learning experiences in both icon-based and DOS-based microcomputer technology for solving animal nutrition problems.

Harpster has shared his computer-assisted instructional experience with fellow educators at professional meetings and was featured in an article in the Chronicle of Higher Education.

After earning a bachelor's and master's degree at Penn State, Harpster was awarded a doctorate from Michigan State University in 1978. He has been on the Penn State faculty since then, with a split appointment in research and teaching in the Department of Dairy and Animal Science.

Harpster has received numerous awards for his contributions in teaching over the years, including the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council Award for Outstanding Teaching and Research in 1989 and the College of Agricultural Sciences Alumni Society Excellence in Academic Advising Award in 1992.

Gamma Sigma Delta seeks to encourage high standards of scholarship and attainment of excellence in all branches of agricultural science and education, and a high degree of excellence in the practice of agricultural pursuits.

Biannie Bowen, Gamma Sigma Delta president, left, presents the group's Teaching Award to Professor Harold Harpster in recognition of his accomplishments in teaching animal science courses at Penn State. Harpster is a faculty member in the Department of Dairy and Animal Science, and Bowen is the C. Lee Rumbuger and Family Professor of Agriculture in the Department of Agricultural and Extension Education.

Video Describes Pequea-Mill Creek Project

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)—Lancaster County, because of its intensive land use, faces unique water quality challenges.

Over the past four years, local USDA agencies, the Lancaster County Conservation District, and Penn State Cooperative Extension have worked to meet these challenges through a special water quality program called the Pequea-Mill Creek Project. A video highlighting these efforts is available, according to Jerry Martin, project assistant with Penn State Cooperative Extension in Smoketown.

The 18-minute video describes the Pequea-Mill Creek Project and the positive steps being taken by farmers, agencies, and businesses to address water quality issues facing agriculture in the central Lancaster County area. Because of its local focus, this video is an excellent educational resource for community and civic organizations interested in learning more about conserving and protecting their water resources.

The activities in the project have focused on innovative, cost-effective practices to meet three objectives: One, reducing nutrient, bacteria, and sediment pollution of streams from barnyard runoff and livestock concentrations near streams. Two, reducing nitrates and total nutrient loads in surface and groundwater through the proper use of manure and fertilizer. Three, reducing pesticides in surface and groundwater by implementing integrated pest management programs and protecting wells and sinkholes.

Participation by local dairy farmers, businesses, and other agri-professionals has been an important part of the project in this intensive agricultural area. The watersheds of the Pequea Creek and the Mill Creek, consisting of 135,000 acres, are located in the heart of Lancaster County. With 55,000 dairy cows, dairy is the dominant agricultural enterprise. If these two watersheds were to comprise a state, they would rank 36th in the nation in the number of dairy cows.

Organizations interested in viewing the video as part of their meetings or program activities should contact Jerry Martin, project assistant. For more information, call the Pequea Mill Creek Project office, (717) 396-9423.

Clean and Green Subject Of Meeting

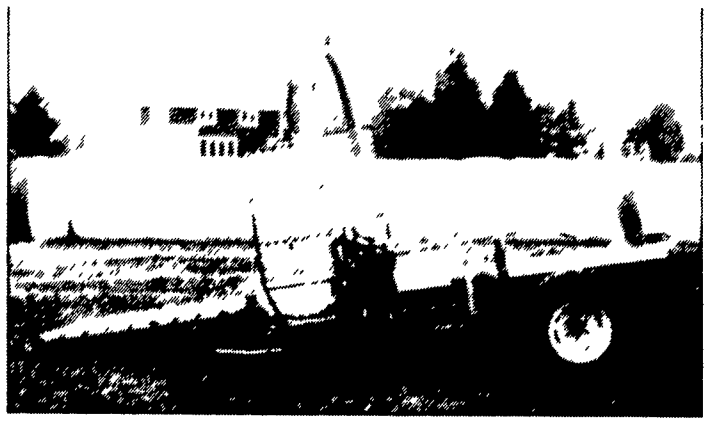
EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — County Extension Director John Schwartz; James A. Shirk, manager, agricultural services of Lancaster Chamber of Commerce and Industry; and Barry Keiffer, notary public were present at a meeting of the Ephrata Area Young Farmers (EAYF) to aid the group of approximately 75 members and farm families in the processing of entries for Clean and Green (Act 319).

A scholarship in the amount of $200 a year for four years was awarded to Andrew S. Bollinger. A motion was made to place the granted scholarship funds in a separate account to ensure the availability of the funds as needed.

Judy Brown, new ag teacher at the Ephrata Senior High School, was introduced. Ernest Orr, high school ag instructor, presented ideas of ways the EAYF can be helpful to the FFA.

The next meeting will be on June 6 and the topic will be bird pests.

TUBE-LINE BALEWRAPPER



Gray's Patented Tube-Line Bale Wrappers offer the best of both worlds between individual wrappers and in-line bag machines.

By wrapping only the barrel of each bale, up to 40% less film is used, but since each bale is wrapped tightly, no air pockets can form between bales of unequal size.

Models available to accommodate all sizes of both round and large square bales

New for '95 - Fully automated machine with twin 30" pre-stretchers.

Plushanski Kong For Testing

HUGHSON, Calif.—Plushanski Oscar Kong-et, a young bull bred by Plushanski Farms, Kutztown, has been selected for sampling in the young sire proving program of Landmark Genetics, an International artificial breeding company.

His semen has just been released for use in herds on official DHIA test throughout the United States.

As a member of Landmark Genetics' Genetic Opportunity "GO" Program, Kong is undergoing testing. He has successfully passed his health tests and the goal now is to get a minimum of 50 daughters milking in 40 herds across the U.S. for a high reliability on his first proof.

Kong is a son of Art-Acres Ned Boy Oscar-et TL and Plushanski Cleitus Farci. Farci is VG 87, excellent mammary, with records to 39,680M, 4.6% 1,826F and 3.6% 1,425P.

Semen from Kong will be available for sampling in the "GO" Herd Program for the next 60 to 90 days. For more information contact Landmark Genetics (209) 883-4001.

'Incredi-bull' Ballistic Brothers At Rodeo

BUCK (Lancaster Co.) — Billed as the biological brothers bent on brutalizing bullriders, three Simbrah bulls from Tulsa, Okla. are coming to the Buck Tractor Pull Stadium for Dave Martin's Championship Rodeo on Monday, May 29 at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m.

Recently, the "incredi-bulls," affectionately known as the Ballistic Brothers for starting out like projectiles, blasted through the April Bullride Mania in Harrisburg. They were introduced to the audience as "hard to handle." The brutalizing brothers are the result of breeding a polled purebred Brahma bull to a herd of Simmental cows. Their names? Iron Man, Hang Man, and Demolition Man.

By the way — Iron Man was named the American Professional Rodeo Association's "Best Bucking Bull of the Finals" and APRA Bucking Bull of the Year. His career record is out 118 times, ridden successfully only 4. The four rides were scored 85, 83, 84, and 88. He was purchased in Ft. Worth at the Cowtown Coliseum Bucking Stock Sale for $8,000 in the fall of 1993.

Iron Man's half brother Hangman was purchased in October 1994 at the bucking stock sale in Glen Rose, Texas for $3,500. The third bull, Demolition Man, was purchased in March 1995 in Huntingdon, W.Va. for $10,000.

For more information, contact Dave Martin's Championship Rodeo, Gettysburg, (717) 334-7724.

◆ FARM FORUM ◆

Editor:

This letter is being written in response to your editorial of May 13, 1995, in which you expressed support for private landowner compensation in matters involving the enforcement of environmental/ natural resource related regulations.

As patriotic Americans who serve as stewards of our country's land and water resources; as a people that appreciate and respect God's creation, why must we be paid not to destroy or damage fragile environmental resources such as springs, seeps, streams, wetlands, and endangered species' habitat such as bald eagle nesting sites?

Paradoxically, it is more frequently the case that private property values are increased by taxpayer or government investments in such improvements as roads, utilities, parks, and by favorable zoning. Should not the property owner reimburse the government in these cases in order to be consistent with your philosophy? Also, should not a private landowner reimburse his or her neighbors when the use or abuse of their property results in a decline in value to his neighbor's property? And should not the landowner, when his exceptional stewardship of his property results in increasing the value of surrounding properties, be compensated?

Private property rights need to be protected. Just compensation when land is purchased by the government is critical. (Also purchase of eminent domain needs to fully be justified before being applied.) Landowners, however, need not be paid to be good stewards. That is our responsibility and accompanies the right to own land.

Editor's Reply:

Thanks for your thoughtfully written letter. We can easily agree with your "philosophy" if we may also add a prentheses.

(The taking of wetlands and the protection of endangered species must be fully justified before applied.) Landowners, however, must be paid when good stewardship has nothing to do with the taking of land for environmental reasons. That is the government's responsibility and accompanies the right to take private land for hidden agendas to disrupt food production and/or the disruption of the use of America's God-given vast wealth of renewable resources, such as timber or corn.

LEBANON® EXTRA
Granulated Starter Fertilizer

"THERE'S MORE TO IT THAN JUST NPK"

For over 47 years, farmers throughout the Mid-Atlantic Area from New York to Virginia have produced millions of dollars of crops using Lebanon Extra fertilizer.

Lebanon Extra is an ammoniated, homogenous. granular NPK fertilizer. With the increased emphasis on using less and precise applications of plant food, Lebanon Extra provides the nutrient sources that you can depend on, and not just NPK but also secondary and six micro-nutrients. The nutrient integrity of Lebanon Extra is superior to bulk blend fertilizer products. When using row applications or banding accurate amounts of plant food it can be important to use a safe, quality, uniform grade product. If you are using a blend with MAP compare the value of Lebanon Extra.

DHIA Is Family Affair

DAVID BIGELOW
Training Coordinator

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — When traveling through Susquehanna or Wayne counties in the early morning hours, and you pass a vehicle along your route, chances are good that you passed a member of the Williams family.

Gary, Scott and Gale Williams are deeply committed to providing top notch service for Pa.DHIA.

Currently the Williams' family is responsible for serving parts of Susquehanna and Wayne County. This includes servicing a total of 78 hyerds. Usually Gary is responsible for 36 herds and Scott is responsible for 42 herds, while Gale serves as an assistant.

Along with working for Pa.DHIA, the Williams family is deeply involved in community projects and organizations.

Gary has been a state constable for the past 10 years. Gail is currently president of the Starrucca Borough Council where she has served for the past 10 years.

After taking a quick look at the past history of the family, it doesn't take long to realize that they are not afraid of hard work and commitment.

Gary has been a Pa.DHIA technician for the past 12½ years. He retired from the U.S. Air Force in 1982, after 21 years service, and having achieved the rank of senior master sergeant.

One special award that Gary received while in the Air Force was the Airman's Medal for Heroism, an honor he received in 1979.

In the past, Gary also had the opportunity to work with the Boy Scout program for 16 years, where he earned the Silver Beaver Award. He said this award was very special because he also was recognized as an Eagle Scout in his younger days.

He also has an associate degree in business management.

Scott has been a Pa.DHIA technician for eight years. He said that strong leadership within the family unit gave him the encouragement to strive to earn the Eagle Scout Award.

Along with the everyday duties of a technician, Scott also serves as a representative on the Technician Advisory Committee.

In addition to a full circuit, Gary also serves as a senior technician. The job duties of a senior technician include assisting the region manaer with promotion, training, and substituting for other technicians.

Pa.DHIA is proud to have such a hard working, committed family representing them in today's every-changing DHIA world.

If we can assist you with you dairy operation, please contact Pa.DHIA at (800) 433-8378.

implementation of its research, teaching, and extension responsibilities.

The council has the following objectives as part of the new by-laws:

- To convey to the College the needs, concerns, and support of the various constituents represented through each member organization;
- To bring from the agricultural community to the College ideas and suggestions for innovative ways in which the College can carry out its responsibilities;
- To provide quality feedback to the College on behalf of the entire agricultural community, represented through the member organizations as program initiatives are presented by the College for Council review;
- To advocate to the constituent groups represented by the member organizations the needs of the College for public and private support, and to motivate the agricultural community to work for that support;
- To educate individuals and groups outside the College and outside the industry about agricultural and related issues, and about College programs, in order to improve their understanding and to build public support.

Dean Lamartine Hood in his college update said undergraduate enrollment has increased 60 percent since 1989 and 11 percent since 1993. Now with more than 3,000 students, Penn State is the largest College of Agricultural Sciences amoung the Big 10 schools and ranks sixth nationally. Several majors have shown enormous growth in recent years. The Environmental Resources Management major, for example, has increased 300 percent in the last four years to 800 students.

While student numbers have increased, funding from the state has not. Forty-one percent of the College's operating budget comes from the Commonwealth. In 1987, an increase in state funding came for extension, and in 1989, research funding was increased. But since 1990, appropriations from the state have remained flat or as in one year, reduced. To meet increasing employment and program costs, programs have been cut and faculty, staff, adminstrative, and extension positions have been eliminated. The increase in number of students along with these reductions have caused a stress on the college system.

"This is really starting to have an effect on our college," Hood said. "I am concerned. Because of the enormous program stresses placed on our people as a result of this reduced budget.

"In spite of all the planning for program and cost cuts that we have done, its hard to implement because of the spirit of commitment and service our people have. It's hard for a county agent to say no (when someone makes a request for help.)"

But with the improving economy and the estimates of surpluses in the commonwealth's budget, Hood sees a "window of opportunity" for the college. "I believe the money is available now to rebuild our system," Hood said. "If we don't get our share of this (surplus), I will be very distressed."

President Thomas said that his grandfather was a farmer and his father was superintendent of schools but his father also proved himself to be a good farmer. During the Depression, when for three years he was not paid at all, except in script, the family was fed from off the land. A large vegetable garden, fruit trees, home-raised broilers, a cow, and sometimes a pig provided the family's sustenance and the valuable lessons about values and what's important.

"I was born and grewup with the land-grant philosophy," Thomas said. "When I first came to Penn State, I was alarmed to learn that you had 32 trustees. I thought that was somewhere between a crowd and a mob. But the fact is, that having trustees from many different segments of the land-grant mission provides great strength. This diversity, strength, and continuity bodes well for the future."

Thomas said initiatives have been developed in recent years that he believes will position Penn State very well to capitalize on the opportunities of the future. "We have narrowed our focus a little because of financial problems," he said. "But on the highest priority items that are under way, the improving undergraduate teaching gives sharp focus to the importance of research, basic and applied. Our undergratuate students participate in research, and it becomes one of the most productive and important learning experiences for these students. It's the kind of learning that I think is going to be most important to these young people as they move into problem-based society. They learn how to solve problems, learn how to find and and use data, and learn how to learn.

"This is the kind of thrust that has positioned the University to serve the people well."

The next Council meeting is planned for October as part of a tour event between Harrisburg and the Berks Campus for legislators to become better acquainted with all that Penn State does for all the people of Pennsylvania.

Report Crops To CFSA

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — All USDA Consolidated Farm Service Agencies are accepting acreage reports for 1995 plants.

The reporting dates have changed for 1995.

Fall grains and orchards should be reported now.

Spring seeded small grains, such as oats, should be reported by May 31, and other spring seeded crops must be reported by July 17.

In order to preserve a cropping history for the farm, or to be covered under USDA's risk management programs, reporting is necessary.

USDA is offering a non-insured assistance disaster program for certain crops in 1995. The protection afforded growers under this program is only offered if a timely acreage report is filed.

Contact a local CFSA office for more information.

Turnpike Farm Markets Debut Friday

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The more than a million holiday travelers expected to hit the Pennsylvania Turnpike this Memorial Day holiday weekend are to have two brand new farm markets at which to stop and shop.

According to Sharon Fulginiti, state Department of Agriculture coordinator for a pilot program for establishing roadside farm markets along the Pennsylvania Turnpike, Friday, May 26, is to be the grand opening of two farm markets on the Pennsylvania Turnpike — one at the Allentown Service Plaza in Lehigh County, and the other one at the Sideling Hill Service Plaza in Fulton County.

The markets are to be open Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday. Exact times were not certain at presstime, but bylaws tentatively set the markets for opening for business at 11 a.m. Fridays and Sundays; 8 a.m. Saturdays and Monday-holidays.

Fulginiti is with PDA's Commodity Promotion Division of the Bureau of Marketing Development and has been working with Pa. Turnpike Commission staff to develop the pilot program markets.

The Turnpike Commission operates the toll highway and a number and variety of rest and service stops along the route.

Early last year, state Rep. Sheila Miller, R-Berks, introduced legislation to authorize a program whereby the state's agricultural producers could directly market to the millions of travelers and tourists who use the tollway.

While that bill was killed under the then Democratic-controlled House, the administration picked up on the idea and initiated the pilot program without the legislation.

This year, with a Republican-controlled House and Senate and administration, Miller reintroduced the legislation as House Bill 844, which the House passed.

Currently it has received first consideration by the full Senate. A bill can only be passed by the Senate upon third consideration.

With the Senate scheduled to be back in session on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, it's possible the bill could be fowarded in the legislative process, but very unlikely that it would be passed and signed into law in time for the grand opening of the pilot markets.

Miller's bill would allow more market access, as would be determined is safe and reasonable.

In a recent news release, Miller praised the alliance between the Turnpike Commission and the PDA that occured after she introduced the concept.

"This is proving to be a very positive alliance. Travelers along the Turnpike will experience the rich agricultural history of our commonwealth in its most direct and simplest form.

"Furthermore, our farmers will tap into an extraordinary market of interstate travelers along the turnpike," she said, adding that, "This will provide farmers with an opportunity to boost revenue while showcasing and promoting the variety and quality of Pennsylvania's agricultural products."

The reason Miller has pushed for legislation to authorize the farmers markets is to prevent the possibility of possible partisan politics from hurting the program, or in other words, to maintain continuity in the program.

And she said she wants the program to grow as big as it will through the initiative of the farmer-participants themselves, not through a government-created and mandated program.

In the meantime, the pilot program has developed with the organization of groups specific to each of the two pilot farm market sites.

Each farm market group has 10 approved members and a set of bylaws that the farmer-producers created for themselves.

The bylawys outline general business conduct, responsibilities, qualifications for vendors, hours of operation, a minimum number of people working the markets, and products approved for sale.

While the two sets of bylaws are slightly different, both are generally the same, and require that member-vendors must be Pennsylvania producers who grow not less than 50 percent of the products marketed through the turnpike service area markets.

Furthermore, the products must be grown in Pennsylvania.

For those who run short of their own state-produced product, the bylaws allow them to supplement with additional stocks, as long as they are Pennsylvania-produced.

While business activity that results from the pilot program is envisioned as being complimentary and representative of the state and its agricultural producers, the nature of the actual markets is expected to evolve as customers and vendors conduct business.

According to the section in bylaws concerning the Pennsylvania-grown products approved for sale at both the Allentown and Sideling Hill markets, vendors are to be allowed to sell: vegetable (no slices); cider (not less than ½ quart); flowers; canned goods; baked goods (whole pies, load bread, etc. no slices, cookies or scones); fruits (no slices); preserves (in jar); bedding plants; honey products; eggs; nuts; herbs; fruit baskets; potted plants; maple syrup products; melons (may be sold in halves); and ornamentals, such as gourds, corn shucks, etc.

The Sideling Hill market is to also offer meats, but no single servings.

The reason for some of the restrictions on how the products are to be packaged or in what amounts they are to be sold is to prevent the farmer markets from competing with the snack shop and convenience meal franchises already operating at the service centers, and to encourage venders to promote and market whole Pennsylvania products that consumers take home, or along on vacation.

Also, the bylaws make clear that all food safety, sanitation, health permits and labeling issues that apply to items being sold must conform with the requirements of the law.

Also, state sales tax is to be collected on products which are not eatable, as is required by law.

Facilities at the two sites are to start off simply, with pole supported pavilions.

On Wednesday, Bill Capone, assistant director of marketing for the Turnpike Commission, said that simple pavilions are to be constructed this coming week, just in time for use.

He said that the commission intends to upgrade the facilities as needed and as the markets evolve.

For now, both facilities are to be open-sided, 30-foot by 60-foot structures located in grassy areas in front of restaurant buildings at the two service centers.

Capone said the siting of the pavilions was done so as to not interfere with regular center visitor traffic, but also to allow easy access. There will not be any special parking sections for the opening weekend, and none planned, unless the situation warrents a change.

"The reason for these two areas," Capone said, "there are lot of grass areas and we had a lot of room to work with.

"At most of the other (service centers), with a couple of exceptions, it's difficult to find safe, convenient locations, that are attractive and appealing as well."

The commission is absorbing the cost of building the facilities, with an estimated cost of $8,000 at Sideling Hill to $12,000 at Allentown.

Capone said eventually the pavilions may get electric hookup and water, and "Down the road there may be other things, rain gutters, maybe walkways, lighting ... we will address things as we get into it. We're wiling to enhance the buildings as we go along, to try to keep them as attractive and functional as we can."

Another reason for selecting the two sites for the pilot program was because they are accessible from both directions of traffic. The majority of service centers along

Restoring Woodland, Restocking Wildlife Garner Recognition For Forest Stewards

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HALIFAX (Dauphin Co.) — Ten years ago, Pat and Lloyd Kauffman left behind the encroaching development, the expensive land prices, and the worries of urbanization in Lancaster County to literally live in the woods.

They purchased 71 acres of woodland in the Wieser Forest District, surrounded by lush forest, abundant pastureland, and amazing trails home to a diverse amount of wildlife.

Only problem was, how to help pay for the costs of restocking a fledgling pond, plant enough native plants for the denizens of the forest, and achieve the diversification they so intensely desired?

A few years back, through the suggestion of the local conservation district, Pat called up the Bureau of Forestry in the state Department of Environmental Resources. She was looking at the possibility of signing up under a federal program to help rebuild the forestlands.

However, Pat was reluctant. If she signed up, what were the restrictions? Would the "government" tell her which plants she could stock or make her open the land for hunters?

Pat quickly found out that the funding was available. Indeed, there was even money to hire a forestry consultant, which they did — Rob Northrop, from North East, Md. It wasn't long before a Forest Stewardship Plan was developed to cull old trees, get rid of invasive species of plants, and restock the pond to attract more wildlife.

In 1990, after starting with the plan, Lloyd, who operates his own independent owner-sampler milk testing business, helped plant about eight acres of buckwheat. While little of the soil was Class I (mostly Class III and IV) when the Kauffmans purchased the farm, the planting proved beneficial. The soil improved. Flocks of turkey hens moved in to brood. The fields attracted wild turkey. Deer grazed the land. And rabbits loved it.

For their efforts in forest stewardship, the Kauffmans — who manage about 71 acres, including 40 acres of forestland and the remainder in pasture — were honored as forest stewards by the Bureau of Forestry.

"I've been really impressed with these programs," said Pat. While it was difficult to pay for many of the improvements began at the Kauffman farm years before they signed up, the Kauffmans did all they could to improve the forestland and natural wildlife. "The programs have allowed us to do things we wouldn't know how to do. It's given us resources as far as the loaning of the (tree) planting bars and a source for purchasing the trees.

"I was really surprised at the programs available for the landowners," she said.

Under the program, for the past three years, about 500-650 new tree seedlings per year have gone into the acreage. In many similar plantings, few survive. But the Kauffmans have been surprised just how well their plantings have done.

"We've found that we've had a very good success rate so far," said Pat. "The trees planted two years ago are doing great. Trees we planted last year are doing wonderfully. We've just been fortunate with the weather."

Where old and fallen trees have been removed by loggers, new seedlings, including evergreens, make their appearance. With the return of trees, the wildlife have returned to nest in a great deal of their woodland in the Armstrong Valley.

One day last week, Pat and Lloyd were busy putting in about 75 new seedlings along the creek which runs through their property. Trout still swim in the local Armstrong Creek. With the renewal of the forests, new species have made their way onto the Kauffman woodland.

Quail have returned in numbers. So have the wild turkeys, and of course deer.

Also, woodcocks favor the refurbished land.

"I had never seen a woodcock until we moved up here," said Pat. "They are the strangest looking things. You don't see them often."

Also, grouse have thrived. Possum, chipmunks, and other small animals are in abundance.

Pheasants are hard to maintain because of the cover, and they are hunted extensively by the owls and hawks that lie in wait.

Lloyd said he saw a coyote one time. When they first moved to the land, great black bear tracks were found. Cubs were removed from trees in the borough, said Pat.

Although the Kauffmans have a pond, it is unlike the ponds she was used to in the farm country — dug out and quickly stocked with fish, with a few trees and fine for swimming in the summer or ice skating in the winter. The Kauffman pond measures about two acres and ranges anywhere from five to 25 feet deep. It's bank-full in the winter and, in a drought, can lower to six feet or less and measure only a few yards across.

The water level in the pond last week was shallow, almost summerlike. The area was short about four inches of rainfall for the season.

"It's not a pretty pond," said Pat. But she said the naturallly occuring drainage area makes it a great place for real diversification of wildlife. In the spring come the wood ducks, according to Lloyd, followed by the Little Blue and the Great Blue Herons and King Fishers. In the winter come the deer and of course the racoons and groundhogs make their presence known. Wild geese also make up a great deal of the wildlife that continues to return to the natural pond.

At one time, the Kauffmans tried to stock the pond with bass. It worked — until the drought of 1988. Then, the water level fell and the Great Blue Herons came and fished out the bass.

"We never would have a chance to experience that kind of thing down in Lancaster County," said Pat. "It's gotten so populated down there."

Pat said that they couldn't afford the price of farms in Lancaster. And "we found that this area was the way Lancaster County was maybe 20 years ago. In the interim, (the Halifax area) is getting more urbanized."

Pat and Lloyd grew up in the Pequea Township area in southern Lancaster County. Pat worked on her father's dairy. For a time, Pat was working as leader of the 4-H dairy and 4-H horse programs, in addition to time spent as a staff writer with Lancaster Farming.

But the urge to have access to woodland, ponds, pastureland, and wildlife drove them up to the mountain areas of Dauphin County.

"Here, we get a real diversification of wildlife," she said. She said the Forest Stewardship Plan helps them organize and direct a plan to not only attract wildlife, but manage it effectively.

"Unlike many who put 10 or 12 acres in, we put all 70 acres in, because we're managing it both for the wildlife and the forest," said Pat. As part of the plan, less desirable trees and invasive species such as the sumac, a rapidly growing, weedy, poisonous tree, were removed.

This allows more desireable species, such as red oak or white oak — and the ash, hickories, and poplar — to grow abundantly.

"We're ordinary people given a chance to do something interesting with these programs that we would not normally have the resources to do," said Pat.

Pat Kauffman, right, said that they couldn't afford the price of farms in Lancaster. And "we found that this area was the way Lancaster County was maybe 20 years ago. In the interim, (the Halifax area) is getting more urbanized." She stands with husband Lloyd next to materials from an 1860s post and beam corn barn, obtained in Lebanon County, that will go into their new home overlooking the Susquehanna River.

'We found that this area was the way Lancaster County was maybe 20 years ago.'

For their efforts in forest stewardship, the Pat and Lloyd Kauffman — who manage about 71 acres, including 40 acres of forestland and the remainder in pasture — were honored as forest stewards by the Bureau of Forestry. Photo by Andy Andrews

One day last week, Pat and Lloyd were busy putting in about 75 new seedlings along the creek which runs through their property. Trout still swim in the local Armstrong Creek. With the renewal of the forests, new species have made their way onto the Kauffman woodland.

Turnpike Farm Markets

the turnpike are accessible from one direction of travel only.

The turnpike averages 300,000 vehicles per day. That can be expected to increase dramatically during a holiday, and as a result, over the four days, more than a million travelers can be expected to have an opportunity to stop and shop.

Also, banners are to be errected along the turnpike within the vicinity of the farmer markets, to alert motorists.

Don't expect to see any other markets open this year, as development of other markets depends somewhat on how well the pilot programs develop.

However, there have been requests to start similar markets near Pittsburgh, and another at the Valley Forge Service Center. While those requests are being considered, they wouldn't open until 1996.

Fulginiti said that the producer-run organizations operating the pilot markets are full and every member who started with the process has stayed with it.

However, those interested in being considered for future membership can submit their request and will be put on a waiting list.

For members of the turnpike farmer market organizations, the pilot program is an example of something that state government should be doing — helping existing, tax-paying, instate production businesses market their products.

In fact, according to the Pennsylvania Manual, the state Department of Agriculture, created in 1895, was given responsibility for conducting such programs.

"The secretary of agriculture is charged with 'encouraging and promoting agriculture and related industries throughout the commonwealth."

John Whitesell, a member of the Sideling Hill group, on Thursday said he was excited about the program.

Whitesell's main farming business is a partnership with his son Edward, in which they raise small grains, corn, soybeans, wheat, and oats on about 300 acres.

However, his other business is beekeeping.

Whitesell said he lives about a 45-minute drive from the Sideling Hill site, and he and his wife Mary Jane will be marketing honey from his 80 to 90 bee hives.

Up until this opportunity came, Whitesell said he had been marketing his honey locally in Bedford, and also at the Bedford Fall Foliage Festival.

He said that through his experience with the festival, and through his discussions with other beekeepers, he decided that, along with the close proximity of the propose turnpike farmer's market, it was a risk worth taking to try to enhance the marketing of his honey.

"It sounds like its going to be a worthwhile venture," he said, adding that this is the type of program that state government ought to be conducting.

"I think it's a good idea. I think it's a good experiment. It's probably one of the things that should be tried in other places," he said.

"With the government encouraging farmers to go into sustainable agriculture (and other non-traditional roles) ... you just can't establish markets like that overnight."

According to Whitesell, the turnpike program is an example of the way government can help farmers find those markets that enable them to try altnerative practices. "It goes a lot faster and better for everybody," Whitesell said."

1995 Brown Swiss Futurity Nominations Due June 1

FREDERICK, Md. — The second annual Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Futurity is scheduled to be held Sept. 3 at the Maryland State Fair in Timonium, Md., but the deadline for making a final nomination is June 1.

The first Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Futurity was very successful with 14 2-year-old entries vying for the honor.

The winner was an entry by Pennsylvanian Gary Mase, of Lebanon. Brown Swiss breeders in Maryland and surrounding states are anticipating another strong competitive event, according to Cindy Warner, chairman of the futurity.

"The first year of the futurity held in 1994 was a strong indication of the interest in Brown Swiss in the Mid-Atlantic states," Warner said.

"We look for this event to continue to grow and get bigger and better each year."

A project of the Maryland Brown Swiss Association to stimulate interest in breeding and developing outstanding registered Brown Swiss, regardless of individual herd size, three nominations are required for each animal.

The nominations are entry fees paid into the show to demonstrate commitment to showing the animal.

The nomination scheduled is spread out over the two years from birth/registration through the final nomination. The first nomination is made when the animal is a calf, the second is made when the heifer is a yearling, and the final nomination is made June 1 prior to the actual Futurity, held in conjunction with the Maryland State Fair.

All funds collected are then returned to the participants in the form of a class purse.

The actual Sept. 3 Futurity is to be held during the Brown Swiss show, set to begin at 12:30 p.m.. The Futurity is to follow the heifer and dry cow classes, leading off the milking classes.

The final payment for the 1995 Futurity is $8, and should be sent to: Cindy Warner, 7417 Round Hill Road, Frederick, Md., 21702. For more information, call Warner at (301)371-5206.

Adams Farm Bureau Picnic Aug. 6

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — A special invitation has been extended to all 900 farm members of the Adams County Farm Bureau to attend the annual summer picnic to be held on Sunday, August 6, beginning at 1 p.m.

The Adams County Farm Bureau will provide a chicken barbecue, rolls, and beverage. All members attending are requested to bring a covered dish to serve a family and table service. Dinner will be served at 1 p.m.

During the program, service representatives of PFB, (insurance, FMB, Market Master, etc.) will be available to discuss problems or concerns.

Special entertainment will include children's games and kids and adult pedal tractor pulls. An antique farm tractor show will also be on hand. Prizes will be presented by popular vote. Volleyball, horseshoe, and softball games can be arranged. Bring sports equipment.

The safety poster contest winners will be announced and will receive a $50 savings bond as well as personalized T-shirts.

The Pennsylvania Foundation for Better Living teacher participant for the 1995 workshop will be on hand to relate experiences gained through attending the seminar at Penn State during July.

Reservations are needed by July 23. Contact secretary Pam Ketterman, Gettysburg, (717) 337-2845.

S.D. State University May Get Brown Swiss Herd

BELOIT, Wis. — The Brown Swiss Cattle Breeders' Board of Directors unanimously approved a plan to cooperate with South Dakota State University (SDSU) in bringing a herd of registered Brown Swiss to the university.

The proposal calls for 60 head of Brown Swiss heifers to come to SDSU through member donations which will be fully tax deductible for the donors.

SDSU has a new dairy cattle unit complete with a state-of-the-art, double-eight parallel milking parlor and a drive-thru center feed free stall housing area.

Capacity for the new unit, opened in November 1994, is 160 head. Currently the unit houses 80 Holsteins with a herd average in excess of 21,000 pounds of milk.

Dairy department chairman Dr. John Parsons said, "The addition of Brown Swiss will give us an added teaching dimension, increased exposure to the breed and the opportunity to have significant cow numbers for vital research."

The goal is to have Brown Swiss breeders donate an animal or for two breeders to donate one together.

Bred heifers are being sought to form the nucleus of a herd, starting this spring. When the project is complete the new herd should have a year around calving schedule, a genetic mix and unlimited opportunity.

According to project coordinator and assistant professor Dr. Michael Brouk, "SDSU will work closely with BSCBA on all relative association programs including PTPR, young sire proving and computer mating services."

The return to Brown Swiss breeders, according to Dr. David Schingoethe, a dairy science professor at SDSU, is numerous projects utilizing Brown Swiss cows and Brown Swiss milk to identify the advantages of the high proteins in processing. They will also look at feeding and management techniques that maximize the production of high protein milk.

All research project results will be regularly reported through the Brown Swiss Bulletin magazine and at the annual meeting.

SDSU combines a modern, practical curriculum in dairy science together with what is regarded as the top dairy product processing and manufacturing program available for undergraduates and post graduates. The demand for SDSU grads far outstrips the supply.

The new dairy facility and the addition of Gene Stegeman as dairy herd superintendent, now allows for a full range of management short courses to be offered. The first was offered in March of this year.

If you are a Brown Swiss breeder interested in this project, please call the national Brown Swiss office at (608) 365-4474 and let them know you are interested in the SDSU "Send a Cow to College" project.

Donated animals should be from above breed average dams for protein, sired by a plus proven sire and bred to a plus proven sire or a young sire with an above average pedigree value. Dams should be at least Good Plus in mammary. Brown Swiss Enterprises will work with donors to establish a value of the donation for tax purposes.

In reaching the agreement to endorse this program, SDSU agreed to maintain a herd of a least 50 registered Brown Swiss cows for a 25-year period.

As an added bonus Dr. John Bryant, dean of the College of Agriculture and Biological Sciences announced that a scholarship fund will be started from funds generated by the salvage value of the original donated animals when they eventually leave the herd. This scholarship will be offered to incoming students attending SDSU and coming from a Brown Swiss farm

Precision Ag Field Day June 19

NORCROSS, Ga.—The Potash & Phosphate Institute (PPI), Foundation for Agronomic Research (FAR), The Fertilizer Institute (TFI), and the USDA/ARS Beltsville Agricultural Research Center are coordinating plans for a Precision Agriculture Field Day on June 19 at the USDA/ARS Beltsville Agricultural Research Center, located on U.S. Route 1 just outside the Beltway in Beltsville, Md.

Visitors will see how space-age technology is providing important tools for nutrient management and other aspects of modern crop production. Site-specific or precision management in crop production could enable U.S. agriculture to remain a competitive player in world markets and at the same time to safeguard our environment. Those attending will also learn how farmers can begin to set the stage for using this available technology by developing record systems and management plans for their fields.

Exhibits will open at 9 a.m., displaying various hardware, software, and related technology developments. Representatives will be on hand to answer questions.

The joint House and Senate Agriculture Hearing will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the 500-seat Beltsville Center Auditorium. Leading experts will testify on the technology available, how it is being used, and expected future advancements. Farmers from various sections of the U.S., who use precision agriculture techniques, will testify and discuss their experiences.

Lunch will be sponsored by the Maryland Grain Producers Association and the Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board. Exhibits will remain open during the lunch hour. In the afternoon, bus tours will include live demonstrations of on-the-go yield monitors, variable rate input applications and other components of the system. Analysis of results can be observed based on grid sample soil tests and other site characterizations developed prior to the field day.

Precision or site-specific management is rapidly evolving as a component for maintaining a viable agriculture. This could become an important technology in the environmentally sensitive region around the Chesapeake Bay. The field day will provide the opportunity to observe and learn more about recent developments.

Preregistration is required. The deadline for receiving preregistration forms is Friday, May 26. For information, contact Bill Griffith, 865 Seneca Road, Great Falls, VA 22066, fax (703) 450-4835.

Acreage Reports More Vital Than Ever

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)—Farmers were reminded that their crop insurance and certain U.S. Department of Agriculture benefits are in jeopardy if they fail to file their planted acreage reports on time.

The reminder, from Kathryn Baxter, acting CED of the Consolidated Farm Service Agency, said that crop insurance acreage reports must be signed by the insured or a designated agent by the required deadline, which differs by crop and locality.

Acreage reports for farm program purposes must still be filed at the CFSA office; however, crop insurance acreage reports must also be filed with the insurance provider. If insured through a private crop insurance agent, the crop insurance acreage report must be submitted to that agent.

If farmers purchased the basic catastrophic insurance coverage (CAT) through the CFSA office, they can sign their crop insurance acreage reports at the same time they report acreage for farm program purposes, Baxter said.

The other major risk management program, termed the Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP), applies only to those crops for which insurance is not available. NAP provides a comparable level of benefits as that offered under CAT, but no premiums are charged. Planned acreage of NAP-covered crops must be reported on time to the CFSA office or no NAP benefits will be paid if a crop loss occurs.

The CAT and NAP coverages replace the ad hoc crop disaster programs of past years. Unlike previous disaster programs, however, they require timely reports of planted acreage to receive benefits.

Uninsured crops must be reported by July 15. There are various dates for reporting crops that are insured. The next reporting date is July 15 for corn, soybeans, tomatoes, grain sorghum, potatoes, tobacco, and peas. The report date has passed for other crops insured. Contact the CFSA office for assistance.

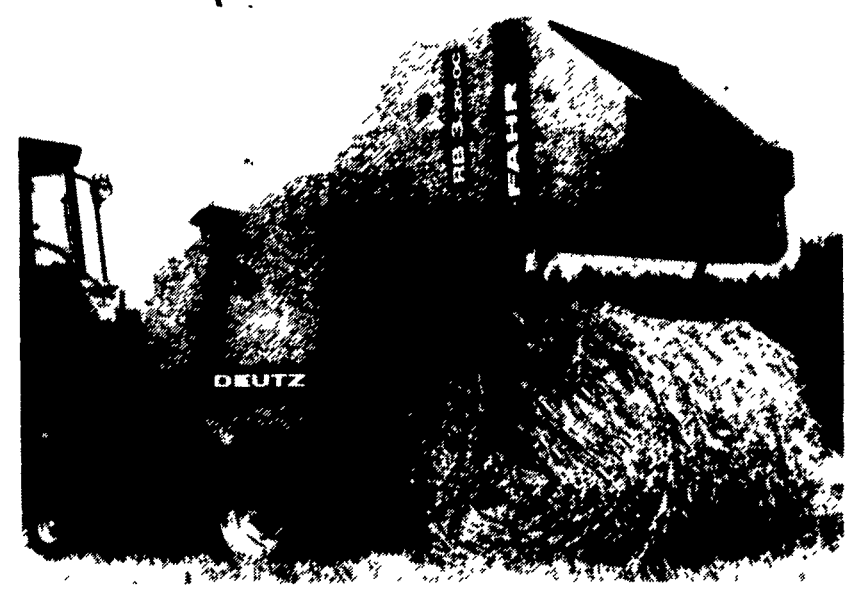
DEUTZ FAHR Round Balers

GREENLAND

DEUTZ FAHR

Quality Equipment To Preserve Quality Crops.

Deutz-Fahr round balers have established a worldwide reputation for innovation, durability and performance.



Here Are Just A Few Reasons Why....

Standard Equipment on all Balers include:

- Hydraulically controlled pickup with dual pneumatic gauge wheels, baffle plate and galvanized scrapers.
- Efficient pickup tine spacing and open throat design to gently handle even large windrows without plugging.
- Internally re-enforced ribbed profile rollers, (17 on GP230, 22 on GP250) are designed to eliminate wedging and wrapping in wet crops, and reduce leaf loss in dry material. Ribbed profile rollers are less aggressive than large "dimpled" sheets.
- Driven roller shafts are splined, not keyed, for long life. No external chains and rollers bearings to replace either!
- Extra sturdy fixed chamber design:
  GP230 makes 4x4 bales
  GP250 makes 4x5 bales
- Central control, tractor mounted "Pilot Box" for electronic and hydraulic functions with both audible and visual indications.
- Single acting hydraulic remote is all that's needed for all hydraulic functions.
- Automatic chain lubrication system.
- Fully automatic "twin-fix" twine tying system, the fastest in the industry. (14 seconds!)
  (Optional net wrap attachment can be added any time)
- Bale ejector with extendable ramps.
- Safety light package.
- Wide angle PTO shaft.
- Wide, heavy ply tires.

"Opticut" models available to increase high moisture bale density and bale feedability.

All these features translate into outstanding performance and long life.

Three breed sales were also held in conjunction with the Ohio Spring Dairy Spectacular. The Brown Swiss sale, managed by Modern Associates, averaged $2,266 with the high seller at $7,500. The Buckeye Dairy Club sale featured Jerseys with a $1,365 average and a high selling animal at $4,000. The jointly managed Buckeye Dairy Club and Ohio Holstein Association Holstein sale was topped by a $6,500 heifer and averaged $1,503.

Youth participation was tremendous. More than 500 youth participated in the 4-H and FFA Dairy Judging Contests from Ohio and surrounding states. Three age divisions of dairy showmanship brought more than 100 participants into the contest. The Ohio PDCA Judging School officiated by Steve White of New Castle, Ind., had nearly 60 registered participants. Individuals in this group make up the official judging list for many Ohio shows and fairs.

The dates for next year's Ohio Spring Dairy Spectacular are set for April 4-6, 1996.

Antique Show June 2-4

KEMPTON (Berks Co.)—The Antique Engine, Tractor and Toy Club, Inc. will hold its 10th annual show on June 2-4 at the Kempton Community Center located on Rt. 143 north of the Kempton exit of I-78.

On Friday, setup will begin at 8 a.m. and continue throughout the day. There will again be organized tractor pulling by the Pennsylvania Tractor Pullers Association.

A tractor skill driving competition will begin at 6 p.m. Friday and continue throughout the evening. Exhibitors of the engine club will be running antique engines and farm equipment during all days and evenings.

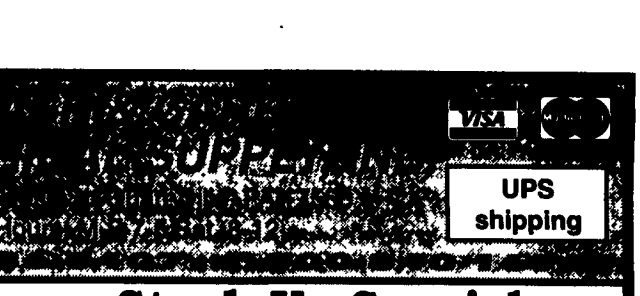
On Saturday morning, the slow engine contest will begin at 11 a.m. followed by the antique tractor parade at noon. At 1 p.m. there will be a slow tractor race, 2 p.m. a teeter-totter competition, and at 3 p.m. antique tractor pulling. To qualify as an antique tractor for the competition, the manufacturing date of the tractor must be before 1959 and the tractor may not be modified. Following the antique pull, the 5,500-, 7,500-, and 9,500-pound stocks will be run.

Sunday morning at 11 a.m. there will be a slow engine contest (winning engines of the previous day may not compete) and at noon an antique tractor parade. At 1 p.m. there will be a kiddie pedal pull, at 2 p.m. a barrel rolling contest, and at 3 p.m. a blindfold driving contest. At 1 p.m. there will be pulling in the 11,500-, 13,500-, 15,500-stock tractor classes followed by two pulling classes of 4-wheel drive street legal trucks, 365 c.i. and under and those over 365 c.i.

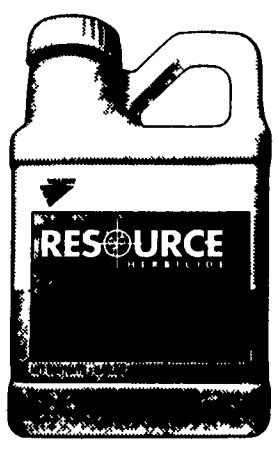
Flea market, crafts, and vendors' spaces will be available for the duration of the show. Antique car and truck owners or clubs are invited to exhibit. Overnight, self-contained camping will be permitted. Refreshments and bake sale items will be available. Exhibitors will be permitted to unload and park their vehicles next to their antique engine display.

A parking donation of $2 per car will be requested at the gate. No alcoholic beverages will be allowed upon the show grounds.

For more information about the show or flea market space, contact David Semmel, show secretary, at 5731 Paradise Road, Slatington, PA 18080 or call him at (610) 767-4768. Tractor pullers can contact Gerald F. Miller, Pennsylvania Tractor Pullers Association, 6432 Abbey Road, Wind Gap, PA 18091, (610) 863-8060.



The complex formula for killing weeds.



Add

Subtract

It's that simple. Add RESOURCE® post-emergent herbicide to your tankmix, and velvetleaf, lambsquarter and other hard to kill broadleaf weeds won't be around much. It works in corn and soybeans, without rotation restrictions. So these weeds don't stand a chance.

Shellenberger Receives Penn State Alumni Society Award

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Dr. Paul R. Shellenberger, professor of dairy science at Penn State, has received the 1995 College of Agricultural Sciences Alumni Society's Excellence in Academic Advising Award.

The award recognizes faculty with outstanding skills in academic advising, career planning and personal counseling. Advisers in the college are nominated by alumni, students, faculty and administrators.

Shellenberger has been at the forefront of advising in the college since 1967, coordinating advising and teaching in his department and serving on college and university committees devoted to advising issues. He currently advises 66 undergraduates in the animal bioscience and dairy and animal science majors and advises incoming students during summer counseling programs.

"Dr. Shellenberger is the most student-oriented professor I have met at Penn State," said one advisee. "He took a complete interest in my goals and ambitions, and has provided nothing but positive advice and direction."

"He has helped guide me in my academic pursuits as well as personal goals," another advisee said. "At a big campus such as University Park, it is reassuring to know that he will listen and genuinely care if I need someone to talk to."

"Even now, six years after my graduation, Dr. Shellenberger asks about my career goals, and it is not just casual conversation," stated an alumnus. "I guess he is still my adviser."

"Dr. Shellenberger has worked tirelessly over the years to improve student academic advising," said Dr. Gabriella Varga, associate professor of animal science. "He truly cares about students and does everything he can to help them have a highly productive and rewarding undergraduate career at Penn State."

Shellenberger has received many university, local and national awards for excellence in advising and teaching.

In 1991, he received the Excellence in Advising Award from Penn State's Undergraduate Student Government Academic Assembly. In 1985, he received the AMOCO Foundation Award for Excellence in teaching Performance. In 1975, he received the Christian R. and Mary F. Lindback Award for Distinguished Teaching from Penn State.

Shellenberger joined Penn State as an assistant professor in 1967 and became a full professor in 1977. Before joining Penn State, he was an associate professor of agriculture at Tarleton State College in Texas and a dairy specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service of Texas A&M University.

Report Assesses CRP

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The Conservation Reserve Program, the USDA program that over the last decade has compensated landowners for idling and preventing erosion on 36.5 million acres of the nation's most erodible cropland, would benefit from stricter enrollment criteria, streamlined administrative procedures and more flexibility, according to a new report.

Issued by American Farmland Trust and the Iowa Natural Heritage Foundation, the report indicates only the most environmentally sensitive lands should be enrolled in CRP and removed from production. It suggests the program should be simplified to allow producers to enroll at any time, not just during specified sign-up periods. It says the CRP should offer a variety of flexible enrollment options, including multi-year leases and permanent and term easements. In addition, it states that some limited, economic use should be allowed on enrolled land, provided such uses remain compatible with the program's conservation objectives.

"This report shows that there is strong, grass-roots support for the continuation of the CRP into the 21st century," said Bryan Petrucci, director of Resource Conservation Programs for American Farmland Trust. "It's one of the best examples we have of a voluntary, incentive-based program working to protect the resource base, and with a few minor changes, it can be even better."

The report, "The Conservation Reserve Program: An Assessment Based on State Leadership Workshops," summarizes discussions of seven state workshops held throughout the Midwest and Great Plains in late 1994. AFT, a national farmland conservation group based in Washington, D.C., and the Iowa Natural Heritage Foundation, sponsored by workshops in cooperation with local agriculture and conservation groups in Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Nebraska, South Dakota and North Dakota. Farmers and landowners, representatives from key state and federal agencies, as well as conservation, agriculture and wildlife groups all participated in the workshops.

Discussions focused on key areas of the CRP, including conservation targeting, needed administrative changes, costs, benefits, federal budget concerns and potential new enrollment incentives. The report reflects workshop discussions on these issues, highlights areas of agreement and concern and identifies matters needing further review.

Other report highlights include:

- Desire for more local input on identifying resource concerns and targeting land for enrollment.
- Allowing states with qualifying land retirement programs to assume CRP oversight and administrative functions.
- Using CRP as a tool for economic development and a way to help beginning farmers acquire land.

The report was funded, in part, by The Joyce Foundation. Limited quantities are available. Contact American Farmland Trust at (202)659-5170 for further information.

CHORE-TIME ...nobody knows more about feeding

The Right Choice in broiler feeders

Feed broilers and pullets your way! As the world leader in poultry feeding systems, Chore-Time offers you the best choices in feeders. You will love what our newest feeders —the Model C2™ and Model H2™—do for you.

Features include (1) labor-saving Patented Feed Windows that open to let chicks eat from day one—without additional feed on paper or "lids", (2) feed-saving features like easy feed adjustment settings, and (3) cost-saving all-plastic designs with Chore-Time Warranty.

Pick a Chore-Time feeding system—including our rugged feed bins and Genuine Chore-Time FLEX-AUGER® Feed Delivery System, plus ventilation—and you know you've made the Right Choice—because it's from Chore-Time, the leader!

CHORE-TIME EQUIPMENT
Milford, Indiana

New Shape
The difference is the shape of the feeder's trough (at right). ULTRAFLO II's higher trough lip reduces feed waste by keeping it in the trough and not on the floor or in the pit.

The Right Choice in cage feeders

Chore-Time's popular ULTRAFLO® Cage Feeding System is now even more outstanding! We've developed and tested the second generation of ULTRAFLO feeders and named it the ULTRAFLO® II.

ULTRAFLO II offers you even greater reliability, durability, and outstanding feed-saving performance—up to 1 gram of feed per bird per day—over the original ULTRAFLO. And even the original ULTRAFLO was beating our competitors in feed savings!

So, join the cage feeding leader. Contact us today. Find out how Chore-Time and ULTRAFLO II can help you be a leader, too!

Task Force To Fight Late Blight

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—A special task force has been formed to help Pennsylvania's potato and tomato farmers minimize late blight damage to their 1995 crops, Acting Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius said.

"The Department has joined forces with The Pennsylvania State University to combat late blight disease, which is a threat to commercial growers," Brosius said. "We also will work together with the farming community and federal regulators to try to minimize crop losses."

Late blight (Phytophthora infestans) is a fungal disease affecting tomatoes and potatoes. Brownish to purplish-black spots appear on leaves or stems of plants. The disease can occur at any time during the growing season when humid, rainy conditions occur.

Under favorable conditions, the disease develops rapidly. If late blight occurs on potato or tomato plants, spores of the blight fungus can move quickly from field to field.

The Pennsylvania Late Blight Task Force met to recommend a variety of ways late blight disease could be detected and controlled. As a result of the first meeting, testing arrangements were developed, education and training efforts were detailed, and a request was made to the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) for a crisis exemption to release the fungicides Dimethomorph and Cymoxanil (Curzate) to control late blight disease.

After hearing recommendations from the task force, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture agreed to provide staffing, equipment, and telephone support for a 1995 effort to minimize the impact of late blight in Pennsylvania.

Growers should take several measures to protect their crops against late blight disease. They should select seed potatoes that meet or exceed USDA standards for late blight. They also should scout through their crops a minimum of two times per week soon after crop emergence and utilize the Department of Agriculture's Integrated Pest Management hotline (1-800-PENN-IPM) by mid-April for occurrence information and management tips. They should apply fungicides as environmental conditions (blightcast) warrant. Cull piles or potatoes that were not dug up last year should be killed with the proper herbicides or buried under.

Commercial growers potentially affected by late blight may receive further information about the management program by contacting their professional associations, county extension agents, and/or specialists at The Pennsylvania State University.

Pennsylvania's commerical potato crop was valued at $29.5 million in 1994. The 1994 commercial tomato crop was valued at $16.5 million, ninth in the nation.

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

ATGLEN (Chester Co.) — The wraparound porch on Joe and Sandy Lusby's farm is the perfect spot to regain equilibrium after a harried day.

The chirping sounds of birds of many varieties intermingle with the distant honk of the geese nesting in the meadow pond. A soft breeze ripples through the green meadow grasses and skips over the contoured fields that stretch toward Rt. 41. Aromic whiffs from full-blossomed trees camoflage barn smells.

But all the evidence of a busy farm life remains.

A tractor parked next to two silos jutting toward the sky gives evidence of a hasty retreat. A contented moo escapes from the herd in the adjacent stone barn.

Most of Sandy's quilting is done for the church Sewing Circle, but she finds some time to do some for herself and friends.

Bikes of all sizes, fishing gear, and window screens scattered across the porch seem surprisingly in place. The beginnings of a tree house and a trampoline confirm that this is a family-oriented home.

"I'm sorry I'm late," Sandy Lusby announces, "but I had to go for parts."

Sandy is a farm wife doing a busy job that allows her little time to relax on her porch with its magnificent panoramic view.

"Farm wife is an excellent description for people like me," Sandy says. "We're married to the farm."

With 140 acres and 60 Holsteins to milk in addition to caring for a husband and three children, life can become a bit hectic despite Sandy's cheery, trim, and unruffled composure.

The Lusbys own the farm that Sandy's parents had farmed.

Her dad, John Umble, was well known for show cows, especially for the Swampy Hollow Sweet Cow.

"Growing up I was so proud of my dad. It was really special to accompany him to a show," Sandy said.

"But I think it's important for our children to see us giving time in volunteer positions. I hope our children pick up the joy of doing things for others."

Times have changed. Requirements for top cows have changed. With some reluctance, the priorities at Swampy Hollow Farm has changed.

"Some people think you need a full 12 hours between milkings, but I guess I like my time off too much."

The family seldom shows cows today because of the work and time demand involved. But top producing cows are still a priority. At last year's end, the herd's milk production averaged 22,535 pounds milk, 878 pounds fat, and 729 pounds protein.

Lusby said the farm had a complete dispersal in 1983, although Swampy Hollow is still considered to have one of the oldest herds on test in the county.

"I bought back some of the cows and kept some that I had started on my own," he said. For dairy goers, the '83 dispersal is remembered as the sale that topped prices everywhere in Pennsylvania.

Joe wasn't raised on a farm. He was 15 years old when he began working as a hired man for a neighboring farmer.

After Joe and Sandy married, Joe worked for an equipment company before farming with Sandy's dad. For awhile there was a three-way partnership with John Umble, his son, and Joe.

After the dispersal, Joe took over the farm.

"Sometimes we wonder if our son will be able to farm even though he wants to," Sandy said."

Fifteen-year-old Joey prefers farmwork over schooling at LMH, where he is a sophomore. After getting up a 4 a.m. to milk cows and spliting and stacking wood all day, Joey said, "I love the feeling of working hard after a long day."

He arises about 4:30 a.m. to help Sandy with morning milking about three times a week.

"In the evening we try to be out of the barn by 5:30. Some people think you need a full 12 hours between milkings, but I guess I like my time off too much. We haven't noticed any drop in volume and it sure suits our schedules better," Joe said.

The family believes it's important to have activities other than farming. Because Jessie, 12, and Rachel, 8, both attend West Fallowfield Christian Day School, the Lusbys are involved in several volunteer jobs at the school.

Joe is a school board member and Sandy chairperson of the hot lunch committee. She also is a committee member for the church's LIFT program, a women's outreach ministry, and is part of a Thursday morning prayer group.

No. Rachel isn't jumping out of a tree. She and her siblings are quite adept at trampoline acrobatics.

"Sometimes my children say I can't believe you do all that work without getting paid," Sandy said of her volunteer duties. "But I think it's important for our children to see us giving time in volunteer positions. I hope our children pick up the joy of doing things for others."

Sandy is also active in Sewing Circle activities at her church. She has fond memories of accompanying her mother to the monthly meetings and is pleased that her daughters absorbed pleasant times while accompanying her.

When the Lusbys' youngest daughter started kindergarten, she told her mother: "Tell the ladies at Sewing Circle that I'm sorry that I can't be there, but I must go to kindergarten."

Lusby also helps with county dairy promotion by serving milkshakes at various events.

An adament hunter and fisher, Joe heads for the mountains several times a year while Sandy takes over farming chores.

"When everything goes smoothly, it's fine, but when thing go wrong — they really go wrong," Sandy said of the equipment breakdowns that are bound to occur from time to time.

"I love the feeling of having worked hard after a long day."

Joe's experience as a former equipment serviceman comes in handy on the farm.

His wife said, "He can repair almost everything. That really saves expense and is a great benefit."

It also helps with updating the farm. Last week Joe was using a jack hammer to rip the floor out of a Harvestore in order to install a silo unloader.

Last year, the Lusbys installed tunnel ventilation in the barn and are quite pleased with the results. The cows are kept in the barn during the day when the weather is hot and put out to pasture at night. In the winter, the cows are let out to the bulk feeder and then let back in the barn.

Sandy sometimes thinks she's in the wrong profession because she is hates to see animals become sick and die.

"My husband tells me that as long as we have cows, death happens. I wish I could learn to accept that, but everytime I see one sick, it's so upsetting."

But much more frustrating than dealing with animal sickness and death, the Lusbys say, is coping with all the government regulations.

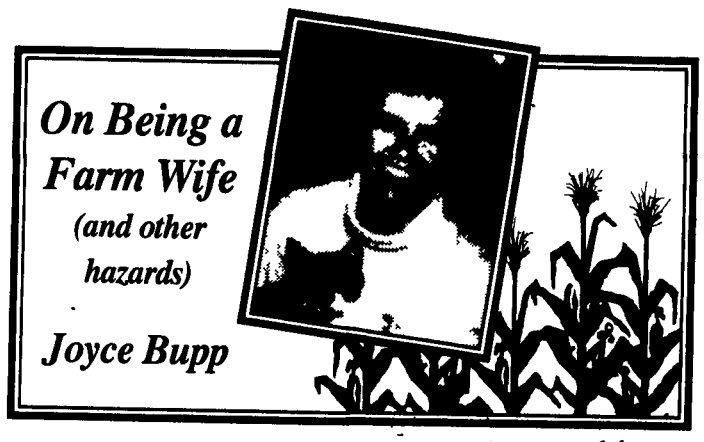
IRENA COLLECTIBLES



Who would have ever dreamed it?

At this stage of my life, I'm suffering an identity crisis.

Or, maybe, identification crisis would be more accurate.

We arrived home from an overnight stay with friends two weeks ago to discover about a tractor-trailer load of stuff we can't identify unloaded all over the place.

Our basement couch was piled toward the ceiling with boxes. One head-high box semi-blocked the path to the first floor. In the spare bedroom were assorted computer system components, and the living room boasted a soft, cushioned office chair which the cat promptly claimed. A pickup-truck load which followed later now shares the garage with trash cans, the car, a canoe and my flat-tired bike.

And one whole barn floor, the one which I use (make that used) daily as a staging point for the movement of calf feed, hay and bedding is shoulder-heighth with the neatly-stacked contents of a life.

Well, not a whole life, but a couple years' worth.

Our son has moved home.

Now officially a Penn State graduate, The Farmer II has returned to join The Farmer in our dairy and crops operation. With him came everything from his collection of kayaks to miscellaneous computer games. Those I can identify. Contents of the stacks of boxes in the basement, lumpy plastic garbage bags, and miscellaneous bumps protruding from the pyramid on the barn floor, however, are anyone's guess.

File cabinets, glimpses of corners of a braided rug are obvious. A long metal pole looks like it might have something to do with a television antennae installation. And the hard, round object which rolled over my foot when I set out the trash for pickup was identifiable as a helmet — for one of his sports.

Beyond that, the contents remain intact in their storage spots and largely unidentified. Too much field work to be done for such mundane things as unpacking.

One identifiable new arrival is his dog which came home with him. Large dog. Large white dog with long, shaggy hair. A hundred-pound Great Pyrenees named Chessie.

Make that a large white — and black — dog. Chessie takes shortcuts on her walks around the farm through a belly-deep corner of the manure pit. Then she scratches at the door to come in the house, to nap in front of the kitchen sink.

Chessie's been nicknamed The Manure Queen. Or, the Great White Tomato Stomper, another honor she earned while keeping me company in the garden. Fortunately the tomato stems are still young, flexible and bounce back up after being flattened by dog paws.

This newcomer has also left Solomon, our Sheltie, and Monk the housecat with their own identity crises. They're not sure who the king pet on the farm is anymore, though each of the three squabbles with the others at various times trying to claim the title.

My identity crisis really hit home the afternoon I stood at the wash line, trying to identify who owned the half-dozen-plus pairs of jeans dry and ready for folding. The Farmer's and mine are two obviously different sizes. Now we have added entries in a size between the two; it requires paying attention to get them all sorted on the right piles.

Same with the colored cotton tee-shirts they both favor for work during nice weather. Also sweatshirts, quilted flannel shirts, and socks. We may have to resort to color coding.

Think I'll stock up on pink stuff.

The Farmer's Decoy

DOVER, Del. — The Delaware Agricultural Museum and Village is proud to display its new exhibit, The Farmer's Decoy. This special month-long exhibit will feature working decoys, decorative decoys, items relating to the hunt such as rifles and advertisements, and photographs picturing scenes related to waterfowl hunting and decoy carving.

Items on display date before 1950 and include artifacts from the Museum's collection as well as items on loan from private collectors. The Farmer's Decoy opened May 1 and runs through May 31.

The Delaware Agricultural Museum and Village, a private, nonprofit organization, is located just south of Delaware State University on Rt. 13 in Dover. Admission is charged. Information on this exhibit and other events at the Museum is available by calling (302) 734-1618.

Cows And Caring

"You'd think environmentalists would be working with the farmers. Instead they are making so many regulations that don't make sense at all."

Joe said that he previously used a pesticide on his corn that is no longer allowed but is allowed to be sprayed three times stronger on alfalfa than what he had used on corn. The reason it is not allowed on corn is because it isn't printed on the label. The company said that it costs too much to go through all the hazzle and expense of incorporating it on the label. Now it costs the Lusbys three times as much money to purchase an approved pesticide.

"It doesn't make sense that it can be used on one crop and not on another. It all goes to cow feed," Joe said.

"Government restrictions are putting us (farmers) out of business."

The family laments the plight of many family farms.

Sandy said, "Sometimes we wonder whether or not we should sell building rights to keep the farm in agriculture. But then, we fear that it would give the government more control over farming."

The Lusbys try not to let government restrictions infringe on farming's enjoyment.

Sandy said, "Sometimes I get tired at the end of the day, but I still think the dairy farm is a good place to raise children — they are never out of a job."

And neither are the parents.

Consuming Thoughts

by

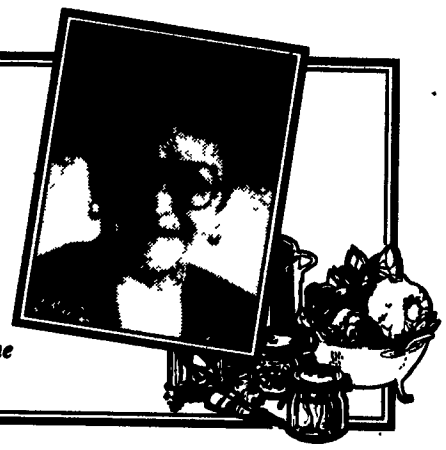
Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.



Barbecuing is a great summertime activity but be sure the foods you choose are healthy and the methods of food preparation are safe.

We all know that meals cooked outdoors increase dramatically during the summer months. A race is on to find fancy recipes and unusual grilling methods for all kinds of food.

With this variety, there is an increased need for awareness of safe food handling practices. Some recipes and grilling methods may not be safe, especially in warm weather when foodborne illness rates increase anyhow.

Use these simple guidelines for a safe outdoor meal, whether it's marinated shish kababs, smoked fish or your favorite grilled franks.

The smoking of meat and fish is one method of food preparation that has become increasingly popular. Smoking is a grilling technique used to add flavor to large cuts of meat, using a slower cooking method. Depending on the size of the product you're smoking, the process can take up to 8 hours.

Use high quality charcoal to build a hot fire. Pile about 50 briquettes in the center and when they are covered with grey ash, push them into two piles. Center a pan of water between the two piles.

Chips, such as mesquite or hickory, are used for additional flavor. Using dry chips at the start creates a fast smoke, wet them late for sustained heat. Center the food over the water pan and close the lid. Keep the grill vents open.

The temperature in the smoker should be maintained between 250°F and 300°F for safety. Add about nine coals every 1 to 2 hours during the smoking process. Smoking times vary considerably with the outside temperatures, so monitor the smoker temperature carefully in colder weather. Meat is done when it reaches an internal temperature of 160°F; poultry should reach 180°F.

Remember return to cook everything thoroughly. Rare or medium rare meat or poultry can harbor harmful bacteria. Fish should always be fully cooked. For optimal safety, meat should reach 160°F on a meat thermometer, and poultry should reach 180°F for doneness. Since grilled food often browns very fast on the outside, make a "sample cut" to visually check for doneness. The juices should run clear and flesh should not be pink. Be careful also not to overcook, and don't consume charred food.

Barbecuing is an easy way to prepare nutritious tasty low fat foods. Here are some tips to help you brush up on your barbecuing skills.

• When coals turn white, they are ready for cooking.

• Avoid letting the grill get too hot. Food will burn or blacken on the outside, giving it a bitter taste and leaving it less done inside.

• Prevent putting food into the flame. It will be charred, not cooked.

• Clean the grill with a stiff wire brush after each use. Black residue on the grill will make the food taste bitter, and will carry over the flavor of the last meal.

• Don't place cooked food on the same plate that held raw meat, fish, or poultry. Cooked products can become contaminated with bacteria from the raw food that was previously on the plate.

• Marinate meats overnight in the refrigerator for increased tenderness.

Lancaster Dairy Princess Search

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Lancaster County Dairy Princess Pageant will be held on Saturday, June 17, at the Farm and Home Center. A milk punch reception will begin at 7 p.m. The program starts at 7:30 p.m. In addition to the Dairy Princess pageant, there will be a recognition for Dairy Darlings. Any young girl between 8 and 10 years of age is eligible to become a Dairy Darling. These girls are given the opportunity to travel with the princess throughout the county and assist her at various events. Handing out stickers, serving milk punch, and visiting schools are just some of the fun activities for the Dairy Darlings.

Ice cream and light refreshments follow the crowning of the 1995-96 Lancaster County Dairy Princess.

No Time To Sew

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — Two exciting two-hour presentations "Embellishment of the Cloth," and "No Time to Sew," will be presented by Sandra Betzina, nationally known sewing specialisht, author of "Power Sewing" and host of the national television show "Sew Perfect."

Held on Saturday, May 20, from 8:30 a.m.-3 p.m. at the Penn State University, Allentown Campus, Fogelsville, the cost is $50. For a free brochure detailing the workshop, request the "No Time To Sew" brochure at the Berks Co. Cooperative Extension, P.O. Box 520, Leesport, PA 19533-0520.

Rhubarb And Strawberry Time

For a vegetable that has so much going for it, rhubarb has a bum rap. Maybe it's the name, a reflection of its Mongolian origin, or the fact that rhubarb's roots have been used for medicinal purposes.

Kitchen Kettle Village in Intercourse holds a festival every third Saturday in May to celebrate rhubarb's versatility. Today's the day for the rhubarb fest that includes a pie contest and all types food using rhubarb.

"We experiment a lot to develop new ideas and recipes that use jams, jellies, and relishes as a main ingredient," said Pat Burnley, who started Kitchen Kettle Village with her husband more than 40 years ago. "I started collecting recipes since I was old enough to stir my mother's jam kettle, and found that as a flavor enhancer, a jelly or jam can add excitement to just about any dish, and cut down on the preparation time."

Here are some recipes from Kitchen Kettle and from our readers who enjoy rhubarb's distinctively tart taste, a delightful way to celebrate spring.

Although a bit early, strawberry season will be here before we know it. Most of us have plenty of favorite recipes for strawberries. But, don't be hesitant to try new ones such as strawberry cheesecake. It may become your favorite.

RHUBARB CAKE

4 cups rhubarb, chopped
½ cup sugar
3 ounces strawberry gelatin (dry)
1 box dry yellow cake mix
2 cups water

Put rhubarb on the bottom of a cake pan. Sprinkle sugar over rhubarb. Sprinkle dry strawberry gelatin over the sugar and rhubarb. Sprinkle cake mix over the sugar, gelatin, and rhubarb. Pour water over cake mix. Do not stir. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Serve with milk or ice cream.

CHERRY RHUBARB CRUNCH

1 cup rolled oats
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter
4 cups diced rhubarb
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup water
1 teaspoon almond extract
21-ounces cherry pie filling
½ cup finely chopped walnuts

In a large mixing bowl, combine oats, brown sugar, flour, and salt. Cut in butter until crumbly. Pat 2 cups of mixture into greased 13x92x-inch baking pan. Cover with rhubarb. In saucepan, combine sugar and cornstarch. Stir in water. Cook until mixture is thickened and clear. Stir in extract and cherry filling. Spoon over rhubarb. Combine nuts with remaining crumb mixture. Sprinkle over cherries. Bake at 350 degrees for 40-45 minutes. Serves 12-15.

This is a family favorite. It is great with ice cream of with milk.

RHUBARB CAKE

½ cup butter
1½ cups sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
3 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
Pinch salt
4 cups rhubarb, cut in ½ -inch pieces
1 package strawberry Jell-O
½ cup sugar
¼ cup flour
3 tablespoons butter

Mix together first eight ingredients with mixer. Blend well. Smooth batter into large buttered 9x13-inch pan. Mix rhubarb with sugar and Jell-O. Place over batter. Crumble last three ingredients together and sprinkle over mixture.

Bake at 375 degrees for 35-40 minutes.

RHUBARB OATMEAL BARS

1½ cups flour
¼ cup chopped walnuts
1 cup packed brown sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1½ cups rolled oats
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup butter
10-ounces strawberry rhubarb jam

Combine the flour, oats, sugar, cinnamon, and salt. Add butter, and blend to produce coarse crumbs. Press half the crumb mixture into a greased 13x9-inch pan. Spread with the strawberry-rhubarb jam. Top with remaining crumbs and walnuts. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes. Cool and cut into bars.

These cow collectibles, shown by Lou Ann Good, will be given as prizes during the Cow Mania Drawing. Deadline for entries is June 1.

Lancaster Farming Sponsors Cow Mania Drawing

Lancaster Farming is holding a Cow Mania Drawing. To be eligible to win one of the collectible cow items offered, send a recipe using at least one dairy product as a sizeable ingredient.

The recipe may be for an appetizer, dip, soup, bread, main dish, vegetable, dessert, beverage, snack or salad. It must include at least one of the following ingredients: milk, cream, sour cream, whipped cream, butter, yogurt, buttermilk, ice cream, cottage cheese, ricotta cheese, cream cheese, or any hard or soft cheese.

Do not send recipes using margarine or non-dairy substitutes.

Clearly print or type your recipe. Be sure to give accurate measurements, temperatures, times, and sizes of baking dishes to use.

Be sure to include your name, full address, and phone number on the recipe. Please include a few paragraphs about yourself and your family. Although it is not required, we'd like a picture of you or your family to include with the recipe when it is printed during June Dairy Month. Photos will be returned if you mark your name and address on the back of the photo.

This is a popular annual event for our readers who not only enjoy the recipes but also reading tidbits of information about the person who submits the recipe.

Send your recipe, accompanying information, and photo to Lou Ann Good, Lancaster Farming Cow Mania Drawing, P.O. Box 609, 1 E. Main St., Ephrata, PA 17522.

Only one recipe per family. Send it immediately as the deadline for entries to reach us is June 1.

Each year the Pennsylvania Beef Council and the National Live Stock & Meat Board select winning state and national Beef Backers. Winners are restaurants, both large and small, that do an outstanding job menuing beef.

Nominate your favorite restaurant by May 27, and you will receive a recipe brochure, "30 Meals in 30 Minutes," which features 30 beef recipes that can be made in 30 minutes or less. Submit your nomination for the 1995 Beef Backer, contact:

Pennsylvania Beef Council, 4714 Orchard St., Harrisburg, PA 17109.

Also, a brand new new "Grilled Beef" brochure is hot off the press. Write to the address above to request a free copy. Here is a recipe from the brochure.

FAJITAS ON-A-STICK

1¼ pound boneless beef top sirloin steak, cut 1-inch thick
⅓ cup prepared Italian dressing
3 tablespoons lime juice
2 medium green or red bell peppers, cut lengthwise and quartered
2 medium onions, cut crosswise into ½ -inch slices
Salt
8 medium flour tortillas, warmed
Prepared salsa

Soak eight 9-inch bamboo skewers in enough water to cover 10 minutes; drain.

Trim fat from beef steak. Cut steak crosswise into ½ -inch thick strips. Thread an equal amount of beef, weaving back and forth, onto each skewer.

In small bowl, combine dressing and lime juice, mixing well; brush onto beef, peppers, and onions.

Place vegetables on grid over medium ash-covered coals; grill peppers uncovered 12 to 15 minutes and onions 15 to 20 minutes or until tender, turning both once.

Approximately 10 minutes before vegetables are done, move vegetables to outer edge of grid. Place beef in center of grid, grill 8 to 10 minutes for medium doneness, turning once.

Season beef with salt, as desired; remove beef from skewers. Serve beef and vegetables in torillas with salsa.

GRAMMY GROFF'S RHUBARB STRAWBERRY PIE

½ cup sugar
½ cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 cups rhubarb, chopped
½ cup strawberries
1 egg
10-inch unbaked pie shell

Mix together ingredients. Place in unbaked pie shell.

Crumb topping:
⅓ cup butter
¾ cup flour
½ cup brown sugar

Mix ingredients and spread evenly over pie. Bake at 400 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes.

Kitchen Kettle

DIET STRAWBERRY CHEESECAKE

2 tablespoons butter
½ cup graham cracker crumbs
8-ounces low-fat cottage cheese
⅓ cup evaporated skim milk
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin, divided
2 tablespoons sugar, divided
½ cup orange juice
½ teaspoon grated orange rind
2 egg whites
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons water
1 cup fresh strawberries, crushed

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Melt butter in a 9-inch cake pan. Add crumbs, mix and press into the bottom of pan. Bake 5 to 7 minutes.

Remove and cool.

Puree cottage cheese in blender, add milk and stir until smooth. Chill.

In a saucepan, mix 1½ envelopes of gelatin and 1 tablespoon sugar. Add juice and rind. Heat over low heat, stirring constantly until gelatin is dissolved. Remove from heat. Let stand at room temperature.

In medium bowl, beat egg whites with salt until stiff.

Fold in gelatine and cottage cheese mixture. Pour over crumbs. Refrigerate until set before adding glaze.

Glaze:

Mix remaining ½ envelope of gelatin with the 2 tablespoons water. Heat until gelatin is dissolved. Stir in strawberries.

Pour mixture over cheesecake and spread with spatula. Refrigerate until firm.

Yields 8 wedges. Calories 128, Cholesterol 15, protein 8, fat 4.

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — Nancy Price, Jarrettsville, would like a recipe for fruit sauce such as they serve with ham at Horn and Horn Restaurant. She has tried other recipes but none is as good as Horn and Horn's.

QUESTION — A Potter County reader would like a recipe for sweet gherkin pickles.

QUESTION — Dick Taylor, Allentown, N.J., would like a recipe for hot pepper sauce using lime juice and carrots as opposed to the traditional method of using vinegar and tomatoes. He writes that lime juice enhances the pepper flavor more than vinegar.

QUESTION — Dee Crowder, Gettysburg, is looking for a recipe similar to Rotel or Chi-Chi's Tomato and Green Chilies. Also, she'd like salsa recipes.

QUESTION — Ellen McComrey, Oxford, is searching for a baked pineapple recipe.

QUESTION — Mrs. King writes that she had a recipe that she lost for delicious peanut butter marble brownies. Chocolate chips are sprinkled in the batter, placed in the oven to melt a few minutes before swirling the chocolate with a knife to marble it.

QUESTION — Lena Hoover, Shippensburg, would like recipes for instant vanilla, chocolate, and butterscotch puddings.

QUESTION — Andy Andrews, Brownstown, would like the recipe for pecan collision, a dessert served at a local smorgasbord.

QUESTION — Nancy Pacitti, Philadelphia, writes that she recently visited Lancaster County and enjoyed the lima beans in tomato sauce that is found in most area Pennsylvania Dutch smorgasbords. She would like the recipe.

QUESTION — Fannie Stoltzfus, Christiana, would like a recipe to make rice cakes.

QUESTION — Gina Hawbaker would like to know how to make a salad dressing similar to the house dressing at Atrim House Restaurant in Greencastle.

QUESTION — Gina Hawbaker's brothers want to know how to fix chestnuts by roasting and other ways.

Day 10 - Add 1 cup flour, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup milk. Put 1 cup batter into three separate containers and give them, along with a copy of the directions to three friends.
Day 11 - Add the following to the remaining batter:
1 cup oil
1 cup sugar
2 cups flour
3 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon baking soda
4 eggs
1 small box vanilla instant pudding
1 cup raisins or nuts (opt.)
1 cup pineapple crushed (no cinnamon)

Stir well, pour batter into two loaf pans or one bundt pan, greased and sugared. Bake at 325° for 1 hour.

Options: (1) 1 cup chocolate chips and chocolate pudding instead of vanilla pudding (2) 1 cup applesauce, vanilla pudding, 1 cup raisins and cinnamon (3) Chocolate pudding, Heath Bar chopped.

RHUBARB COBBLER WITH OAT DUMPLIN'S

Fruit:
¾ cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup water
½ cup orange juice
4cups fresh or frozen rhubarb, sliced

Dumplings:
½ cup flour
½ cup rolled oats
⅓ cup sugar
¼ cup whole-wheat flour
1½ teaspoon baking powder
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons vegetable oil

Topping:
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. In a medium saucepan, stir together sugar and cornstarch. Stir in water and orange juice.

Cook and stir over medium-high, beat until mixture is thickened and bubbly.

Add the rhubarb pieces. Cook and stir until mixture returns to boiling. Remove from heat and keep it warm.

To make dumplings. In a medium bowl, stir together flour, rolled oats, sugar, and baking powder.

Combine milk and oil, stir into dry ingredients until mixture is moistened.

Transfer warm rhubarb mixture to 13x9x2-inch baking pan or 2-quart casserole. Immediately spoon the dumpling batter into 8 mounds on top of rhubarb mixture.

For the topping: combine sugar and cinnamon and sprinkle over the dumplings.

Bake uncovered in 425 degree oven for about 20 minutes or until done. Makes 8 servings. Serve warm with low-fat whipped cream or low-fat ice cream.

Helen "Grammy" Groff shows off her famous strawberry-rhubarb pie, which is available for purchase today at Kitchen Kettle's famous Rhubarb Fest.

STRAWBERRY RHUBARB SAUCE

½ pound rhubarb, cut into ½-inch pieces
½ pound sliced fresh strawberries
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
Pinch salt
1 tablespoon cornstarch dissolved in 2 tablespoons water

Cook rhubarb, strawberries, sugar, cinnamon, and salt until soft. Add cornstarch and cook until thickened. Use as is or in desserts.

Filling:
1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
4 cups sliced fresh rhubarb, sliced
2 pints fresh strawberries, sliced
1 tablespoon butter

Dough:
1¾ cups flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup butter
1 cup milk

Topping:
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon

Heat oven to 400 degrees for filling. Combine sugar, cornstarch, cinnamon, salt, and nutmeg in large bowl. Add rhubarb and strawberries; toss to coat. Spoon into 11x17-inch glass baking dish. Cut butter into small pieces and sprinkle over fruit.

For dough, combine flour, sugar, baking powder, and salt in medium bowl. Cut in butter with pastry blender until mixture is the size of small peas. Add milk, stir with fork until dry ingredients are moistened. Dough will be lumpy. Drop in a mound over fruit. For topping, combine sugar and cinnamon; sprinkle evenly over dough. Bake 30 to 35 minutes or until golden brown and filling is bubbly. Cool on wire rack.

To make this recipe extra special — top with half and half or a generous scoop of vanilla ice cream.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Everything is growing fine here on our farm, especially the weeds. I've been weeding my large iris beds and also the rhubarb. This year I expect to have more rhubarb than I can use. Of course, I'll freeze some and give some away. Soon our strawberries, on the hill behind our house, will be ready to pick. Allen has weeded them several times.

When we babysit our grandchildren, who live on the dairy farm, I feel as though I have returned to my youth. On a recent evening, Bradley suggested that we play hide-and-seek. It was almost like playing with my six younger sisters many years ago. We were only allowed to play at dusk after we had all of our chores finished. Bradley and I hid in bushes, behind the car and under the porch. It really was a lot of fun for both of us.

While we were doing this, the younger boy was being pulled in the express wagon by his grandfather. They get along fine and both like to sit in a rocking chair and nap.

Recently, we were invited for an evening meal by a couple who live in one of the most elegant retirement homes in Lancaster County. There are dozens of these communities in our area but this one outdid all of the rest. On our tour of the facilities, we saw not only big, big sitting rooms and a large swimming pool but also a post office, a pharmacy, a woodworking shop, a bank, a stock-market center, an enormous auditorium and several dining rooms.

It certainly was living in the lap of luxury and it was much more than I would ever want for myself.

Third Graders Learn To Be Caretakers

FRYSTOWN (Berks Co.) — Increasing students' awareness of agriculture was one lesson taught to 108 third grade students and their teachers who participated in the Tulpehocken Elementary Agriculture Science Adventure recently.

A "Caretaker All" theme was applied to the event, with students divided into six groups that rotated through caretaker sessions. The event was hosted on the Mor-Dale Dairy Farm, operated by Ralph and Crystal Moyer, located near Frystown, Berks County.

Students discovered that "Caretakers of Animals" might include Staci Hytrek and Ralph Moyer. Staci, a DVM, who recently completed her master's work in comparative medicine, brought along Tommy, the family retriever. Utilizing the dog she demonstrated and spoke on the importance of preventative health care.

Using a little "guillotine" type nail trimmer, a dog's nails can be trimmed. But you must watch for nerve and blood tissue.

"Ouch," listeners responded to that comment.

Why do dogs develop ear infections?

Yeast and bacteria grow inside the ear; therefore they must be cleaned once a week.

How does a dog develop a heart worm problem?

No one could answer that question. But if they listened, they were told that an egg-carrying mosquito that bites the pet could infect the dog.

Additionally, the listener discovered that it takes six months before the infection gets to the heart. But it is treatable and can be detected through a blood test.

Trevor Fessler offered his thoughts on the medication, "My dog has to take heart medicine. She doesn't like it though."

While holding a guinea pig, Hytek asked, "Why does a young one need its mom?"

To keep it warm and provide nourishment were the correct answers provided by those eager to cuddle the animal.

Ralph then took the floor and suggested that his cows receive a more balanced diet than most of you. He compared a newborn calf's quart bottle to a human baby bottle. "Wow," most observers responded.

Dairy cattle are also fed many ensiled or pickled products, comparing silage to pickles. A TMR or total mixed ration is fed to the cows at the Moyer farm. The TMR provides all the vitamins, mineral, protein and energy that the animals need, the listeners were told as they viewed a sample.

Feet (hoof) care is also important to cows. Large animal trimming equipment was made available to all participants to see.

If you were a member in the group led by senior agriculture student Amy Phillips, you met Caretaker of Plants for the day John Falter at the second session. John explained to the kids that seeds have several basic needs including: moisture, warmth and air. Soil must provide those basics for the plant.

Stephen Cotton expressed that best when he said, "Yum yum supper for my seed."

Each student had the opportunity to plant a marigold seed in a container of soil which was then taken back to school where they will await its germination and growth.

"Marigolds are easy to grow and some people claim their odor acts as a repellant," Falter said.

Students also learned the various techniques of gardening as they planted the Moyers' garden. Using string they prepared straight rows, sowed seeds, or transplanted.

Janelle Ackenbach, Staci Hytrek, Larry Ulrich, and Derick Readinger discuss taking care of pets.

Brandi Light uses a microscope to observe critters that live in the water.

Third Graders

The discussion on lady bugs, friends of the garden, got more interesting after Sara Zerbe exclaimed, "It got on me!"

"Little critters live in ponds," Buzz Frances, Caretaker of Water told his audiences. Buzz is the Erosion Control specialist for the county conservation district.

Water is a home for a variety of life. Utilizing a microscope, students observed organism that live in the water for at least part of their life.

Using a variety of "experiments," Frances demonstrated the answers to various questions of his own. How does water evaporate? Students watched water boil and steam rise.

How does condensation form? It's like pouring a glass of ice water in the summer and touching the moisture that develops on the outside of the glass. What is pH? Ask a student after they volunteered to taste the vinegar, observed the Alka-seltzer fizz or read the litmus paper. They would tell you it is a measure of the materials acidity. Organisms require a desirable pH to live. Pollution causes the acidity level of the water to change.

Dave Varone, recycling coordinator of Berks County and Caretaker of Resources, put students' knowledge of recycling to the test. "What's the difference between a #2 plastic bottle and a #2 solid container?" he asked. "It's in the shape," he responded.

Students were told to recycle bottle shaped containers and use others to store leftovers, in other words, recycle necks not nonecks.

"How can I tell if my can, which looks like tin is really tin and not aluminum?" asked the caretaker. "With a magnet," was the correct answer offered by several knowledgeable participants.

"Why shouldn't you put a plastic oil can in the recycling containers?" Varone asked. According to Daniel Levengood, "Because it's advertising for a bad race car driver." "Good answer, but because the oil might spread to other containers is more correct," laughed Varone.

What can newspaper, even the shinnies be used for? Ceiling tiles, copy machine paper, newspaper and paper bedding can be manufactured from it. Students had the opportunity to place paper bedding into an animal pen.

Caretakers of Soil, Cory Dreibelbis and Jason Zerbe, high school juniors, used their expertise learned in the environmental agricultural courses. "What is soil made of?" they asked. Each student was directed to take a handful of soil and observe the various parts. They listed rocks, roots and worms as possible answers. Students then placed the soil in jars to which they added warm water. After shaking it, they watched as layers separated in the jar. Heavier particles of sand settled to the bottom, followed by silt and clay, with organic matter resting or floating on top.

"Which will water flow through faster — sand, silt or clay?" Cory asked. He selected three students who poured an equal amount of water through a container of each. It passed through the sand first, since sand does not hold much moisture, then through the silt and finally the clay, which has a high water holding capacity.

Tammy Balthaser, Caretaker of the Community and Beef Council representative, tied it all together. She had students list what they were caretakers of. Ashely Deck listed her home, brother, and watching him while Nathan Manbeck wrote farm, cows and feed.

As caretakers, students were reminded that they also had needs for survival. Students shared some of their needs: water, air, food, love, friends and communications. Utilizing their needs, Tammy tied their written comments together using a web effect.

"When do we eat?" was a favorite question of the third graders and adults after the smell of the grill food filtered through the air. A break mid-day from the educational sessions provided students with the opportunity to see a milking demonstration, tour the farm and play games. The lunch provided a cheeseburger grilled by Charles Snyder, superintendent; Linda Misterkiewicz, high school principal; and Dale Light, assistant to building and maintenance. Organized by Raeanne Grumbine, cafeteria manager, the lunch provided students with a picnic setting.

Serving as group leaders were high school students: Laura Phillips, Heather Nichols, Brandy Huey, Michael Gross, Kim Eckenrod and Amy Phillips, Ethan Beard and Carol Knepp served as program assistants for the day.

The school day event was sponsored by Penn-Bernville and Bethel PTO, Tulpehocken Adult/Young Farmer Organization, PA Beef Council, and the Tulpehocken FFA and Agriculture Education Department reported instructor Christine Williams.

KUBOTA HAS YOUR SIZE

B2150HSD (18 0 PTO HP)

L2350DT (20 5 PTO HP)

GARDENING FOR YOUR HEALTH

Looking for a health food store? Look no further than your vegetable garden.

Studies have shown that fresh-grown produce can be higher in vitamins and minerals than store bought produce. Part of the reason for this is that nutritional content declines over time, and when you pick up your produce from the garden just before you eat it, the vegetables retain higher levels of nutrients. A fresh-picked, vine-ripened tomato can have up to three times the ascorbic acid (vitamin C) content of a supermarket tomato, depending on how it was grown. "The fresher the better" really is true.

If you do pick your produce from the garden in advance of using it, be sure to refrigerate it right away. At room temperature (70°F), vegetables lose up to 50 percent of their vitamin C content after 24 hours. Refrigeration at 43°F slows that loss down to about 10 percent over 10 days.

Health experts (and mothers) are constantly reminding us to eat lots of fresh vegetables, and that often means we have to get them at the supermarket, which is fine. But during the summer, home gardens can provide fresh picked vegetables that can yield higher nutrient levels. You probably grow vegetables because you thought they simply tasted better. Well, they do, and they also are better for you, so take advantage of the summer's harvest.

To help you realize how smart you are for cultivating your own health food store, included is a chart of some essential vitamins and minerals and the food sources they come from. Listed are the common garden vegetables you can grow and harvest for your healthy eating. For each element listed, the vegetables are listed in order of highest to lowest content, but all listed vegetables are a ready source of the vitamin or mineral given. Source: National Garden Bureau, Suite 310, Butterfield Road, Downers Grove, IL 60515.

Mineral or Vitamin — Sources include:

Calcium: For strong bones and maintaining blood pH balance — Parsley, Broccoli, Looseleaf lettuce, Celery, Green beans, Cauliflower.

Copper; For elasticity of blood vessels, strength of connective tissues, health of cardiovascular system — Most vegetables if grown in a properly mineralized soil.

Iron: Carries oxygen to cells — Parsley, spinach, butterhead lettuce, Looseleaf lettuce, green peas, broccoli, green beans, Tomatoes.

Magnesium: Essential for nervous system — Spinach, beet greens, broccoli, parsley, summer squash, celery, cucumber, green beans, looseleaf lettuce, tomatoes, sweet peppers.

Manganese: Needed to metabolize proteins and fat — Beans, peas, lentils.

Potassium: Maintains proper fluid level in cells — Spinach, celery, Romaine lettuce, Parsley, Zucchini, Radishes, Looseleaf lettuce, Cauliflower, Winter and summer squash, Tomato, Cucumber, Eggplant, Green beans, Sweet pepper, Carrots, Broccoli.

Selenium: A major anti-oxidant (protects cells from harmful oxidation by free radicals), strengthens immunity — Corn, Legumes, vegetable, when grown in a proper soil.

Vitamin A: Anti-oxidant, strengthens immune system — Carrots, spinach, red sweet pepper, Butternut squash, Romaine lettuce, Parsley, Looseleaf lettuce, Green pepper, Zucchini.

Vitamin B6: Needed to metabolize protein — Spinach, Cauliflower, Broccoli, Sweet pepper, Parsley, Zucchini, Tomato, Summer squash, Romaine lettuce, Beans, Eggplant.

Vitamin C: Anti-oxidant, protects against cancer, cardiovascular disease, strengthens immune functions — Red sweet pepper, Green pepper, Parsley, Cauliflower, Broccoli, regular Cabbage, Romaine lettuce, Brussels sprouts,

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know whom to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible.

QUESTION — Patricia Varchol, Reinholds, writes that she started plants from seed for her large garden. She used a commercial planting mix for starting the seed, grew the plants under lights for 15 hours a day, watered from the bottom and watered only enough to keep them from drying out. She had a great germination rate, but since then has lost almost all the seedlings to damping off. Every time she has tried to start seeds, the seedlings met the same fate:

She knows it's too late this season, but are there tips or tricks to try next year to keep this from happening?

QUESTION — Kay McGrath, 68 Hunter St., Tamaqua, Pa., writes that she found an old antique in the attic of a deceased relative. She believes it is a spinning wheel loom. She has a picture of it if someone collects such objects.

QUESTION — Paul Early, R.R. 1, Box 632A, Annville, Pa. 17008 has a hopper to a wheelbarrow grass seeder that was made in the 1920s. He would like to hear from someone who has the wheelbarrow part or he would be willing to sell the hopper.

QUESTION — A Lehighton subscriber was given an appliance called Merit Quik Chef Fast Grille. She did not receive the card and plug with it. Does anyone know where she could purchase a plug or have the address of the company that makes the grill so that she could purchase some instructions?

QUESTION — A Lebanon reader would like to know where to purchase a Kistka, an instrument that resembles an old-time fountain pen that is used to apply the wax for egg decoration.

QUESTION — Betty Bixler, 2710 Maytown Rd., Marietta, subscribes to "Country Woman," but did not receive the Nov.-Dec. 1994 issue. The company is sold out. Betty is collecting the issues and will pay cost of the magazine and postage to someone who no longer wants their copy.

QUESTION — Linda Miller, Lancaster, would like to know what she can do to produce nice thick rhubarb stalks instead of pencil-thin ones.

Md. Sheep And Wool Festival Attracts Thousands

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

WEST FRIENDSHIP, MD (Howard Co.)—They came from everywhere...sheep farmers, and their numerous related cottage industries to the annual Maryland Sheep and Wool Festival held at the Howard County Fairgrounds.

Located near the highly populated cities of Baltimore and Washington D.C., thousands of spectators and shoppers filled the parking lot and overflowed the fairgrounds on a bright blue weekend in May.

It marked the 22nd year for this growing event and chairman, Gwen Handler, had done a super job of bringing a multitude of wool-related events together.

Musical notes of the Scottish highlands and the lush green hills of Ireland filled the air heavily scented with barbecued lamb. Highlights were Maggie Sansone on a hammered dulcimer, Bob and Sue Esty, a Scottish folk duo, a hammered dulcimer band, harp music, traditional folk singers, and Bonnie Rideout, a National Scottish Fiddle Champion.

City folks, intrigued by the wide variety of sheep breeds, "oohed," and "aahed," as they petted and cooed over newborn lambs or docile sheep.

Other wool bearing animals were also on display including llamas angora rabbits and goats.

Wool-related craftsmen presented the results of their multiple talents in the form of scarves, blankets, coats, sweaters, hats, gloves, slippers, wallhangings, jackets, and throws.

Side-related cottage industries included basket weaving, countryside paintings with a passel of white fluffy sheep, and jewelry.

Spinners taught others the art of spinning; weavers taught weaving. And handmade spinning wheels, shuttles, bobbins, beaters, and shuttles were of prime interest to the newly created wool artisans.

While an assortment of food ranging from giant frosted eclairs to the good old American hamburger was available at the end of a long food line, fresh lamb was the call of the day.

A chain of humans extending for twelve or more feet was constant at a food stand offering fresh barbecued lamb or freezer lamb for those with home culinary skills.

A building dedicated to marketing lamb was filled to capacity as spectators waited patiently to try the results of lamb raised by David and Nancy Greene.

The Greenes run a mail order business selling freezer lambs from their 100 ewe, mostly Polypay flock.

Lamb offerings on the site included barbecued lamb, sliced lamb with mint sauce, lamb burgers, lamb sausages, and lamb hot dogs.

There were competitions of various breeds of sheep, fleece, a sheep to shawl contest, a shepherd's lead contest and the fine arts of weaving, spinning, knitting, art and photography.

Nathan Mooney demonstrated his working sheep dogs. Those doubting the tastiness of lamb could have their doubts tested at the lamb cookoff.

Folks like James Finn had traveled all the way from Vermont to bring two of his rare breeds, the Scottish Blackface and a Black Welch Mountain ram. Jim comes to the festival on a regular basis. "My Scottish Blackface don't do that well against other breeds," he says. "I hope we get a special class for them someday."

Elaine Shirley had her Leicester Longwools from Colonial Williamsburg on display.

A new attraction this year was a shepherd's hut from the Republic of Kazakhstan, one of the new emerging countries since the breakup of the Soviet Union, with a large agricultural sector centered around grain and livestock.

It was an event filled to capacity for shoppers, competitors, artisans, and just lookers.

The Greens of White Hall, Maryland, were kept busy cooking lamb for a steady stream of customers.

Eastern Emu Expo Offers Latest Information For Making Emu-Raising Profitable

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — About 170 persons attended the Eastern Emu Expo held last weekend in Lancaster.

Workshops included the latest information on the emu industry — from setting up to marketing and preparing emu meat.

Philadelphia Eagles' trainer Otho Davis said that in 1994 he began using emu oil on team members who are injured. Emu oil is considered effective for everything from skin problems to a muscle injuries. Steve Mummu, also a certified athletic trainer, said that he has had great success in treating runners with tendinitus and shin splits with emu oil.

"It doesn't cure but relives inflamation, soreness, and pain," he said.

Zoann Parker, extension agent, explained how breeders should market themselves, their farms, and their birds to be profitable.

She stressed the importance of obeying government regulations and advised marketing strategies.

Chef Harold Marmulstine from Polo Grill in Baltimore taught emu meat preparation. He advised preparing emu as game meat by marinating in oil and garlic and seasoning with rosemary, thyme, juniper, and onions. Do not use vinegar in emu preparation and always cook to medium rare for best flavor.

Rhubarb

RHUBARB PIE

3 eggs, separated
1¼ cup sugar
3 tablespoon orange juice
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup flour
2½ cup chopped fresh rhubarb
Uncooked pie shell

Beat egg whites with ¼ cup of sugar and set aside. Beat the yellows with 3 tablespoons of orange juice. Mix together butter, 1 cup of sugar, salt and flour, and stir in rhubarb which has been mixed with the egg mixture. Put this in the pie shell and top with egg white mixture. Bake at 375 degrees for 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 325 degrees and bake until done. Usually it takes about 30-35 minutes depending on oven.

RHUBARB BUTTER CRUNCH

3 cup fresh rhubarb, cut up
1 cup sugar
3 tablespoon flour
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup rolled oats
1½ cup flour
½ cup butter
½ cup other shortening

6x10" or 8" square pan
375 degrees
40 minutes

Combine rhubarb with 1 cup of sugar, and 3 tablespoons of flour. Place in greased baking dish. Combine 1 cup brown sugar, 1 cup rolled oats, and 1½ cup flour, then cut in butter and other shortening. Sprinkle over rhubarb mixture and bake. Serve warm with ice cream. Serves 6

STRAWBERRY PIE

1½ cup water
4 tablespoon strawberry Jell-O
1 guart strawberries
3 tablespoon cornstarch
1 cup sugar
Baked pie shell

Mix ingredients (except strawberries) together and cook until thick and clear. In pie shell, place strawberries, sliced, and pour mixture on top. Cool and serve with whipped cream.

STRAWBERRY-RHUBARB PIE

1½ cup sugar
¼ cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
3 cup rhubarb, cut in small pieces
1 cup sliced strawberries
Pastry of 2-crust pie
1 tablespoon butter

Combine sugar, flour, salt, and nutmeg. Add fruit, mix well. Let stand 20 minutes. Spoon in pie pan. Dot with butter, moisten edge and cover with top crust. Bake until done at 400 degrees. 40-50 minutes.

RHUBARB PUDDING

2 cup chopped rhubarb
1 cup drained, crushed pineapple
1 egg, beaten
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoon flour
2 tablespoon lemon juice
Topping:
1 cup flour
½ cup sugar
½ cup butter

8x8" pan
350 degrees
50 minutes

Combine rhubarb and pineapple and put in baking dish. Mix beaten egg, sugar, flour, and lemon juice together and pour over rhubarb and pineapple. Mix topping ingredients together until crumbly and put over top of all.

STRAWBERRY DESSERT

Crust:
2 cup pretzels, crushed
¾ cup melted butter
3 teaspoon sugar
Middle layer:
1 cup sugar
8 ounce cream cheese
1 large container cool whip
Top layer:
1 large package strawberry Jell-O
2 cup boiling water
2-10 ounce pkgs frozen strawberries

9x13" pan
425 degrees
8 minutes

Mix crust ingredients together; press into pan and bake at 425 degrees for 8 minutes. Mix middle layer ingredients together and place on top cooled crust. Mix top layer ingredients together and place on top of cream cheese mixture. Refrigerate.

Former Alternate Takes Dairy Princess Title

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Jennifer Davis wears the Berks County dairy princess crown with pride. She is no newcomer to dairy promotion as she was a former alternate dairy princess.

Crowned at the Berks County pageant held at the county Agricultural Center on Saturday, May 6, Jennifer will be assisted in promotional duties by Carrie Hetrick and Sherry Hoffman.

The 19-year-old princess helps her parents Ray and Frances Davis of Leesport on their 350-acre JMJ-Springpond Farm where they milk 61 Holsteins. She also is employed by Way-Har Farms in Bernville and is a student at Penn State Berks Campus.

Somehow Jennifer finds time to participate in Ontelauness Grange, Northern Berks 4-H Club, and WISE (Women in Sciences and Engineering). She is the teen leader and vice president for the Berks County Junior Holstein Club.

Alternates Carrie Hetrick and Sherry Hoffman and Li'l Miss Dairy Princess Margaret (Maggie) Heller will help with promotional duties.

Carrie Hetrick is the 19-year-old daughter of Randall and Cynthia Hetrick of Boyertown. She helps with milking 100 Holsteins on the 300-acre farm owned by her grandfather and managed by her father.

She is also attending Penn State Berks Campus, where she is majoring in agricultural science and is a member of the Ag Club. Carrie was active in FFA before graduating from Oley Valley High School in 1993. She is now a candidate for state office.

In 1993-94, Carrie spend a year in Germany as an exchange student.

Sherry Hoffman, the 17-year-old daughter of Barry and Karen Hoffman of Oley, helps with the family's 360-acre Holsteing farm.

A senior at Oley Valley High School, Sherry plans to attend Kutztown University in the fall.

Berks County Dairy Princess Jen Davis is congratulated by her parents, Ray and Frances Davis, during the pageant.

Maggie Heller, left, is the new Li'l Miss Berks County. She takes the role of Megan Phillips, the former Li'l Miss for the county.

Li'l Miss Dairy Princess Maggie Heller is the 5-year-old daughter of Keith and Sandra Heller of Fleetwood. Her father is a milk truck driver for Clover Farms Dairy. She has a twin brother.

Rep. Sheila Miller served as toastmaster during the banquet.

Cheming, N.Y. Crowns Kathleen Jenkins

CHEMUNG, N.Y.—Kathleen Jenkins is Chemung County's 1995-'96 Dairy Princess. She is a junior at Corning-Painted Post West High School. Kathleen enjoys making new friends, meeting people, walking, doing crafts, and working with children. She especially has enjoyed showing cows and caring for them at the Chemung County Fair.

Kathleen is a member of the Rainbow Kids 4-H Club, president of the Junior Holstein Club, the Ambassador 4-H Club, and a member of the Caton United Methodist Church.

Kathleen is 16 years old and is the daughter of Timothy and Lois Jenkins. She has one brother, John. She is sponsored by the farm of Earl and Rosanna Audinwood. Kathleen helps with chores on the Audinwood's farm: from milking to caring for the Jersey cows she shows at the fair.

4-H'ers Meet Legislators At Capitol Days

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Approximately 140 4-H members from across Pennsylvania gathered at the state's capitol to learn more about the departments of agriculture, education, and other resources recently during the State 4-H Capitol Days.

The event, held late April in Harrisburg, brought together 4-H'ers from various county clubs in the two-day program. The event shows how the state government works and helps 4-H'ers understand their responsibilities as citizens. Each 4-H member chooses a particular state agency for an in-depth visit.

During the first day of the program, Friends of 4-H donors were recognized with a banquet. The donors were seated with the 4-H'ers so they could learn about different 4-H programs. On the second day, 4-H'ers were joined by senators and representatives at a legislative breakfast. The day ended with a tour of the state's capitol and visits to legislators' offices.

For more information about 4-H, contact your local cooperative extension office.

New Penn State Major Explores Environmental Economics

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.)—What does it cost to preserve a species of owl? How much money could a company save by using a cleaner manufacturing process? And how much will it cost a company to comply with new environmental rules?

A new major in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences will prepare students to answer these types of questions by using economics to analyze environmental problems and their possible solutions.

The Environmental and Renewable Resourses Economics (ERRE) major will serve an important educational need while addressing issues that students are very concerned about.

The major's core courses will apply economic theory to current issues in environmental policy, natural resource use, legal aspects of resource management and environmental management.

Basic courses in the program provide mathematics, communication and reasoning skills, as well as a strong background in the physical and biological sciences.

For more information about ERRE, write to the Department of Agriculture Economics and Rural Sociology, 103 Armsby Building, University Park, PA 16802, or call (814) 863-3536.

HOW BIG A COOLER DO I REALLY NEED?

Depends on a lot of things. But one thing's certain. Mueller makes the milk cooler that's right for your operation. And it's built to last. So it'll have high resale value the day you need a bigger cooler. For help deciding how big a milk cooler you need, contact your local Mueller dealer.

MUELLER THE MILK COOLING SYSTEMS SPECIALISTS

York County Holds Ag Skills Day

More than 200 York County Agriculture Education students recently participated in the Annual York County Ag Skills Assessment Day activities held at Dover Area High School.

The students represented Dover, Eastern, Kennard-Dale, Northern, and Red Lion and selected from these seven different events: agronomy, ag mechanics, ag sales, dairy foods, forestry, land, or wildlife.

The winner of the agronomy contest was Lester Baney, a student at Dover Area High School. Lester correctly identified weed, crop, and insect samples and made accurate agronomic recommendations from the Penn State Agronomy Guide. Cale Leiphart from Eastern York and Angela Gable from Dover Area placed second and third, respectively.

The ag mechanics contest was conducted in two sessions with the morning session testing student skills in engines, electric motors, building construction, and cost and tool sharpening and fitting. The afternoon session tested electricity, plumbing, and machine operation.

Curt Ross of Dover High School received first place in the morning session and Nathan Hersey of Kennard-Dale placed first in the second session. Chad Garrett from Dover and Jim Farrell from Kennard-Dale placed second and third in the morning session, and Scott Zellers and Chad Garrett from Dover Area placed second and third in the afternoon session.

The 1995 YCASA day winner in ag sales was Kristi Ryder of Dover High School. Kristi excelled in product knowledge, sales techniques, and product presentation. Following her in the awards ranking were Drew Bankert, Red Lion, and Regina Shelton, Red Lion.

At Pinchot Park, Carrie May of Northern correctly identified species of trees in the forestry contest. Joining Carrie from Northern with second and third place finishes were Share Lehman and Shane Albert.

Pinchot Park was also the site for the wildlife contest, where students were required to identify birds and mammals and bird calls. Additionally, students needed to identify wildlife foods, wildlife signs, animal tracks, and evaluate wildlife habitat sites. With the assistance of the Pennsylvania Game Commission, results were first place, Lucas Wolf from Eastern York; second place, Jed Smyser from Dover; and third place, Jesse Greenwood from Eastern York.

The dairy foods contest required students to correctly identify off-flavors in milk samples, identify cheese samples, and correctly distinguish between real and artificial dairy products. Rick Ridgeway, quality control manager for Rutters Dairy served as official judge and prepared the milk samples for this year's event. Laurie Bish from Dover Area High School out-placed the other 50 contestants to win this event. Joanna Newcomer, also from Dover, placed second. Stacey Badger from Northern York placed third.

Lester Baney (double winner - first place in agronomy, too) from Dover was top land judge in the event in which students evaluated soil characteristics, land capability classes, and conservation practices. This event was held on the Smysers RichLawn Farm with assistance from the Soil Conservation Service. Places second through fifth were Jed Smyser, Dover; Jeff Metzler, Northern; Cale Leiphart, Eastern; and Marc Laflamme, Dover.

HAPPENINGS

4-H Trail Riding Club Formed

On Tuesday, May 2, a 4-H Horseback Trail Riding Club was organized by Penn State Cooperative Extension in Dauphin County.

This group will focus on teaching youth a variety of life skills as well as horse skills. Parents are encouraged to be involved.

The next meeting will be Saturday, June 17, at the Greenlands. Any youth ages 8-18 with an interest in trail riding should bring a parent and their horse and join us. Parents are welcome to ride along. If you can't bring a horse and are interested, come anyway.

For more information about this new club, contact Dee Miller at (717) 362-8565 or Fred Rudy (717) 921-8803 (days) or (717) 896-8486 (evenings).

Berks County Beef Club News

The April meeting of the Beef Club was held at the Berks 4-H Center on April 25. Eighteen members attended. Members of the club participated in a community service event by cleaning up the kitchen in the 4-H center and the meeting room.

Members also worked on a project activity book, entitled Skills for Life, Animal Science Series, Beef 1 which will be handed in to the club leaders in October to be judged for the beef banquet. Beef promotion was discussed which will take place at the Leesport Farmers Market on June 21.

A field day was held at Troy Gelsinger's home in Wernersville for the members' May meeting. Each member brought a covered dish for a picnic and in the afternoon a demonstration of fitting and grooming your animal to show was presented by Susan Smith, a professional fitter. New clipping procedures wer explained to the members present.

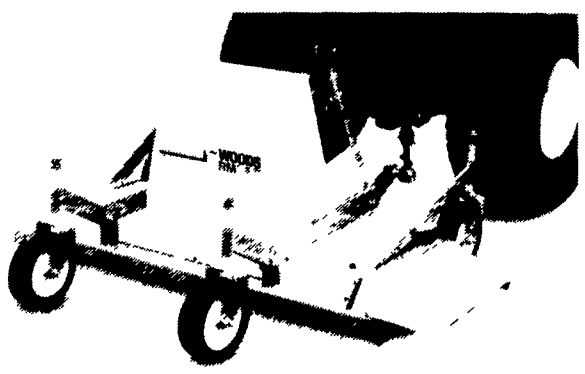
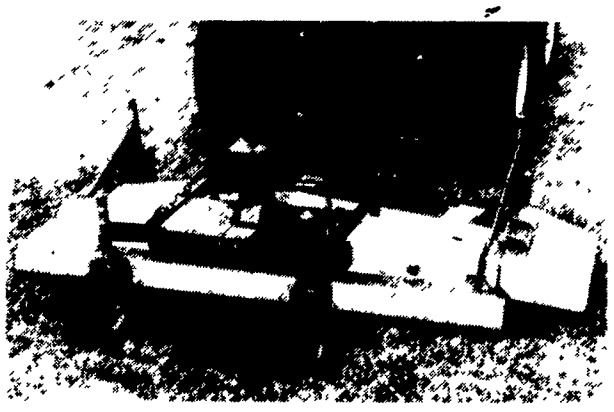
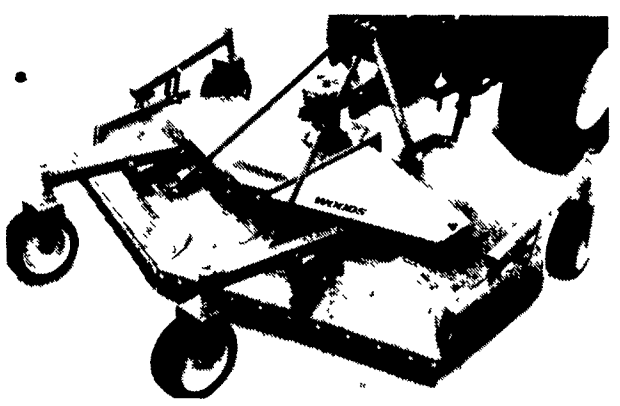
Woods rearmount mowers

The standards for rearmount mowers were set in 1971 when Woods introduced them... Now we've redefined the cutting edge with our Woods rearmount grooming mowers







Woods reputation for trouble-free performance has been earned with features like...heavy-duty gearboxes, designed and manufactured by Woods...Single V-Belt drive with automatic belt tension take-up...industrial quality blade spindles with lubricated tapered roller bearings..high velocity side discharge deck design... "high-lift" blades.... easy-on, easy-off 3 -point hook-up. All these features and more guarantee that clean, even, well groomed look every time you mow so you spend more time enjoying your lawn and less time caring for it.

If your tractor is in the 16 to 50 horsepower range, there's a new Woods rearmount lawn mower for you. And like all Woods products, your Woods rearmount mower will be "worth more in the long run." We've been around since 1947 and during that time Woods has been keeping promises and making mowers that keep on working years after most others "can't cut it."

Choice of Models - Only Woods offers the choice of belt-driven or gear over belt drive models in 5 ft and 7 1/2 ft cutting widths.

Woods vee-forward deck design features a high-velocity air tunnel that moves cut material out fast and distributes it evenly. Woods RM mower decks are formed from 8 ga. steel plate. Tunnel and deck are one piece which adds strength by eliminating the need for high stress weld areas.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 8

Lancaster Society No. 8 of Farm Women met at Reich's Church in Marietta on April 12. They entertained Society No. 15. Mildred Arndt gave devotions and hostesses were Doris Batton, Catherine Aument, Anna Mae Ney, Carol Compton and Mildred Arndt.

The program was given by the "Bag Lady" whose theme was about the homeless. The May 10 meeting will be at Evelyn Russell's home in Ronks.

By now you may have heard the slogan "Eat 5 a Day for Better Health..." What's it all about? Over the last decade or so a large number of health research articles has been published that point to the benefit of eating more fruits and vegetables. Less risk of certain types of cancer has been found among people eating more fruits and vegetables.

For example, my own research in New York pointed to less risk of ovarian cancer among women eating carrots more than two times per week. It was just one piece of the research behind the making of recommendations for more healthful eating.

The National Cancer Institute recommends eating five or more servings daily (5-a-Day) of a combination of fruits and vegetables to help prevent cancer. Two servings of fruit and three servings of vegetables as recommended in the Food Guide Pyramid by the U.S. Department of Agriculture will fulfill the 5-a-Day recommendation.

The 5-a-Day campaign being waged by the Produce for Better Health Foundation in cooperation with the National Cancer Institute has as its goal the reduction of cancer and heart disease among American adults. Eating more fruits and vegetables with a low-fat, healthful style of food preparation is the way to go about it. Fat-laden french fries don't count toward 5!

When I think about 5-a-Day meal planning for myself, a 6-ounce glass of 100% fruit juice or a half grapefruit goes first on my menu for 1 serving. Apple cider, and fresh, frozen or canned orange, pineapple, and grapefruit 100% juice could be taken as a serving toward 5-a-Day. 100% fruit juice is fruit juice without the addition of sugar or extra water.

In the afternoon I'll often have a snack of an apple, pear, or banana. A whole fruit can be counted as one serving of fruit for 5-a-Day. Sometimes I'll have a half cup of my home-canned peaches as dessert after a meal—that's another serving.

When leafy greens are served raw in a salad, each 8-ounce cup counts as one serving toward the five daily recommended servings. Cole slaw in a half cup paper container would be 1/2 serving. Salad can be one of the fastest servings to prepare, especially with some help from the children to wash and break up lettuce leaves. Lowfat dressings to give pizzazz are plentiful in the stores now.

Pennsylvania Dutch cooking brings rich memories of flavorful food. Cooked dried corn, stewed tomatoes, green beans, and succotash (corn and lima beans mixed together) are high on the list of favorites. When cooked without fat or with minimal added fat, two half-cup servings of vegetables would be two more tickets toward "5-a-Day" eating.

Potatoes and sweet potatoes—the mainstay of meals that graced Pennsylvania tables through the years—are included in the 5-a-Day plan for eating. Eat 1 cup of boiled or baked potato and you'll have eaten two servings toward 5-a-Day! Because of their vegetable origin, baked dried beans are yet one more of the foods that contribute "5-a-Day" servings to your lunch or dinner.

Keep in mind that eating 5-a-Day for Better Health is the beginning of eating more fruits and vegetables. The recommended amount to eat ranges up to nine servings a day, especially for those with larger appetites. According to the Food Guide Pyramid, fruit servings could be four and vegetable servings could be five—a total of nine. These are guidelines for healthy Americans, to stay healthy. If your doctor has given you a special diet, consult your doctor or dietitian to be sure these recommendations are suitable.

Berks Society 9

Six members attended the Everybody's Birthday Party, held by Group 9, Berks County Society of Farm Women. It was held at Snuzzle's Restaurant. Donations will be made for a display at the Boyertown Times Homemakers' Day, and for the Berks Heim Volunteer Dinner.

Two members will attend the Spring Rally at Dickinson College.

York Society 11

The April meeting of Group 11 met at the home of Betty Kincaid with 16 members present. President Arlene Miller called the meeting to order.

Several Easter songs were sung, followed by Scripture and prayer. Roll call response question was "The first flower of the season" and the response included dandelions in January to all of the Easter flowers blooming now.

The minutes of the previous meeting and treasurer's report were given. Committee reports were given and plans to entertain Group 21 from Airville were discussed.

Suggestions were given to help Potosi Church with their expansion program and suggested whatever we do should be in Mary Carman's memory. Mary was pianist and organist in the church for many years and also provided and arranged the altar flowers.

Members accepted Colleen Bankert as a new member. Then we viewed a video "Is there life after housework" which the program committee secured from the Extension office.

The Guess Box was won by Edith Delp. The next meeting will be at Blanche Myers' home.

Asparagus Tips

What's the difference between good asparagus and great asparagus? Time — from harvest to table.

Asparagus is one of those crops — like sweet corn and peas — that start to lose quality immediately after picking. There are various techniques used by commercial growers and retailers to retain quality as long as possible. But the supermarket product, good as it may be, can't compete with farm market asparagus. The difference is also why people go to the effort to grow it themselves.

For complete information on growing asparagus, request a copy of "Asparagus Tips for the Home Garden;" send SASE to RCE, Agriculture Dept., 4 Gauntt Place, Flemington, NJ 08822.

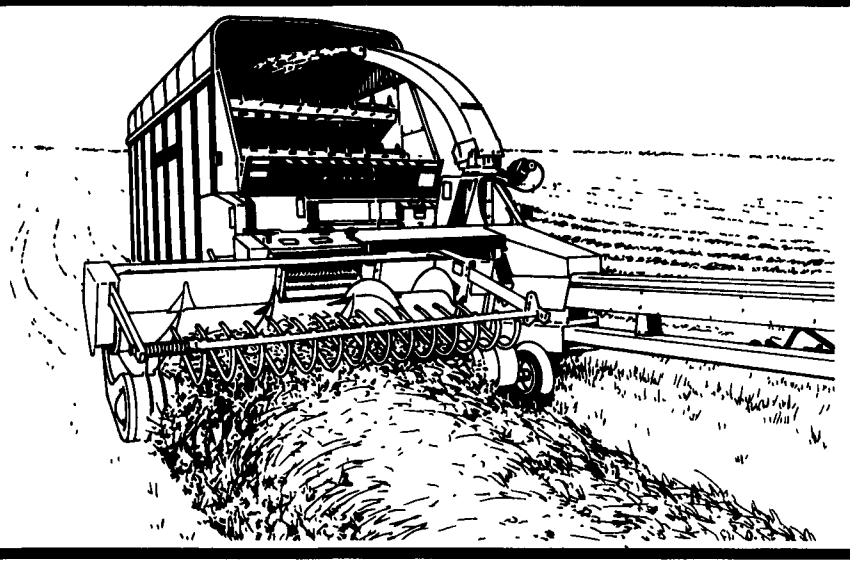
FINALLY...



NEW HOLLAND

YOU'RE IN CONTROL

The Model 900 forage harvester puts you in control of your harvest:

- Rugged 21-inch, 12-knife cutterhead for a uniform chop.
- Exclusive flip-up feedrolls provide convenient access to the shearbar and smooth roll scraper.
- Electromagnetic clutches provide instant response in controlling feedroll and attachment drives.
- Optional Metalert® II metal detector protects cutterhead and your valuable animals.

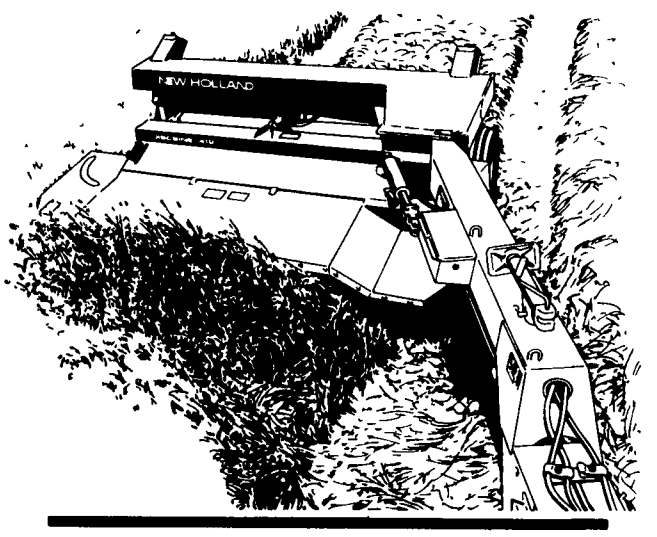
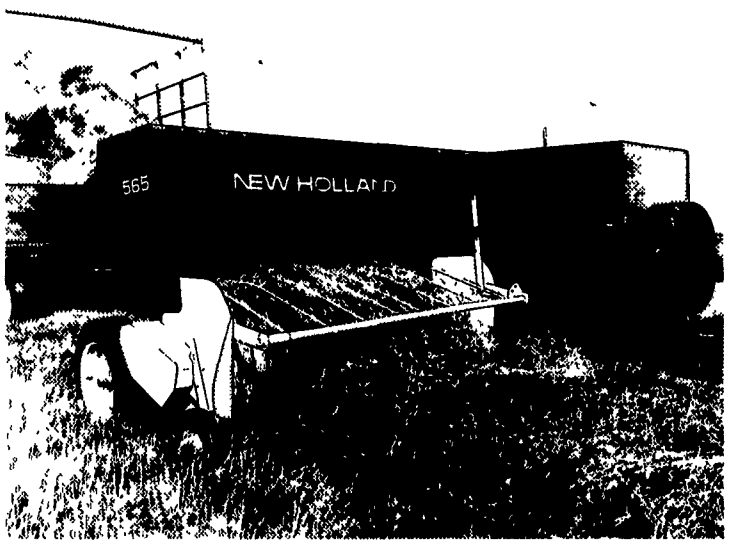
DISCBINE PERFORMANCE



ECONOMICAL FLAIL CONDITIONING

The Model 412 Discbine® disc mower-conditioner gives you a 9'9" cut and uses an economical flail conditioning system that scuffs plant stems for fast drying. And, the "412" has the responsive header flotation you've come to expect from a Discbine. See it for yourself.

NEW HIGH CAPACITY



MORE OF THE THINGS YOU WANT

More capacity, improved reliability and better bale shape.

- Big Capacity. Wide, Super-Sweep™ pickups get the short fine hay ordinary pickups miss.
- Efficient Feeding Systems. A rotary system on the two larger balers adds capacity and improves bale shape. The "565" has a beefed-up Flow-Action® feeder.
- Increased Reliability. Heavy-duty materials in the bale case and plunger, and accurate knotters or twisters, complete the story.

Check out the New Holland "565," "570" and "575" square balers... from the hay-baling experts.

HAY OR SILAGE

You can make both with the Model 640 Silage Special. Here's how:

- The heavy-duty feeder has a position designed especially for silage baling.
- Steel-welded loops and a heavy-duty sharpened steel scraper on the sledge follower roll and tailgate nose roll eliminate crop residue buildup.
- Endless belts provide added durability in tough crops.

For dense, uniform 4' x 5' bales in dry or high-moisture crops, stop by and see the 640 Silage Special.

HERMAN CAKE

2 cups Herman
¾ cup milk
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup sugar
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
2 eggs
⅔ cup oil
1 cup raisins (optional)
1 cup nuts (optional)

Bake in a 13" x 9" greased and floured pan at 375° for 30-35 minutes.

Put topping on cake before baking.

Topping: Cream together 1 tablespoon cinnamon, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 cup brown sugar and ¼ cup margarine.

SOURDOUGH STARTER

Feed every week or it will die.
1 cup flour
1 cup milk
½ cup sugar

Do not use same day as you feed. Take out what you want before feeding. Never let dough get less than 1 cup.

BISCUITS

1 cup sourdough
1¼ cups flour
¾ teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup margarine or oil

Drop by tablespoon on greased sheet. Bake at 350° for 10 to 15 minutes.

PANCAKE

1 cup sourdough
1¼ cups flour
¾ teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup margarine or oil
1 egg

Add enough milk to pour easily.

COFFEE CAKE

1 cup sourdough
1¼ cups flour
¾ teaspoon soda
¾ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup oil
1 egg
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Cover dough with topping:
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon flour
½ cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon flour

Add any of the following: raisins, candied fruit, mincemeat.

Pour into greased square pan. Bake at 350° for 20-40 minutes.

Starter
1½ cups buttermilk
1 cup unbleached flour

Heat buttermilk to warm. Add flour and beat until smooth. Cover with plastic wrap; store in warm place 3 days, stirring twice each day. Stir before using.

POTATO SOURDOUGH BREAD

1 envelope active dry yeast
1 tablespoon sugar
2 teaspoons salt
About 6 cups unbleached flour, divided
1½ cups hot tap water
1 cup warm mashed potatoes prepared without salt (instant may be used)
Starter (see recipe above)
Cornmeal
1 egg white beaten with 2 tablespoons water

Mix yeast, sugar, salt and 2 cups flour in large mixer bowl. Add the tap water and beat at medium speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl as necessary. Add potatoes, starter and 1 cup more flour. Beat 2 minutes at high speed. Stir in enough flour to make a firm dough. Turn out on lightly floured surface and knead 5 to 10 minutes, until smooth and elastic. Put in oiled bowl; turn to grease top. Cover with plastic wrap and let rise in warm place 45 minutes, or until doubled. Punch down; divide in half. Cover with same plastic wrap and let rest 15 minutes. Shape in two 14 inch long loaves; put on greased baking sheets sprinkled with cornmeal. Slash tops diagonally in four places and brush with egg-white mixture. Preheat oven at lowest temperature a few seconds. Place breads in oven. Let rise 15 minutes. Set oven at 400°. Bake breads 30 minutes, or until browned. Remove to racks to cool. Makes 2 loaves. Per 1 inch slice: 124 cal., 4 g pro., 26 g car., 0 g fat, 0 mg chol.

WHOLE-WHEAT SOURDOUGH BREAD

1 envelope active dry yeast
1½ teaspoons salt
About 1½ cups unbleached white flour, divided
1 cup hot tap water
1 tablespoon molasses
Starter (see recipe above)
2½ cups whole-wheat flour, divided
Cornmeal
1 egg white beaten with 2 tablespoons water

Mix yeast, salt and 1 cup white flour in large mixer bowl. Add the tap water and molasses; beat at medium speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl as necessary. Add the starter and 1 cup whole-wheat flour. Beat at high speed 2 minutes. Stir in remaining whole-wheat flour and enough white flour to make a firm dough. Proceed as for Potato Bread, letting dough rise 1 hour for first rising and 30 minutes for second rising. Bake as directed. Makes 2 loaves. Per 1 inch slice: 83 cal, 3 g pro, 17 g car, 0 g fat, 0 mg. chol.

DOCC Program Reaches 20,000 Physicians

CHICAGO, IL. — The pork industry has reached more than 20,000 physicians with positive messages about pork's role in the diet in a checkoff-funded direct mail campaign called DOCC, or Doctor Opinion Correction Campaign.

The industry strongly believes in the producer benefits of reaching physicians with the truth about pork. As a result, DOCC was designed to change physicians' negative perceptions about including pork in a healthful diet to a neutral perception and eventually persuade doctors to recommend pork to their patients.

"We need to educate doctors about the nutritional value of pork and reemphasize the fact that pork is 31 percent leaner than 10 years ago," says Pat Fuchs, R.D., medical education coordinator at the National Live Stock and Meat Board. "However, we are trying to change an attitude, so we need to present physicians with the message again and again. One impression just isn't enough to change how doctors think. Once we change their attitudes toward pork, then we can change their behavior and motivate them to recommend pork to their patients."

The direct mail campaign being conducted by the Pork Industry Group on behalf of the National Pork Board included five waves in 1994 and received an average response rate from doctors of 17.5 percent, which is well-above the norm. The 1995 program includes three mail waves directed to doctors who prescribe hypercholesteremic and hypertensive lowering drugs to their patients. The waves emphasize that pork is nutritionally comparable to chicken and can fit into a healthy, low-fat diet. Most waves offer a fulfillment card, so physicians can send for free patient brochures, posters, tear pads, etc.

About 10,500 physicians are enrolled in the second phase of the DOCC program. These doctors have received the five mail waves, and will receive two follow-up direct mail waves during 1995. This program offers doctors all of the patient materials available from the Meat Board and serves as a reminder to them about the positive attributes of pork.

About 550 additional doctors will be reached through the Adopt-A-DOCC program in 1995. State pork councils have the opportunity to help reach extra doctors with checkoff dollars.

SOURDOUGH BATTER CAKE

1 cup sourdough
1 cup flour
¾ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 egg
⅓ cup oil

Mix above and add any combination:
1 mashed banana plus ½ cup nuts
½ cup drained pineapple plus ½ cup coconut
1 small sliced apple, cinnamon, nutmeg, ½ cup raisins and spices
1 square melted chocolate or chocolate syrup/vanilla
For gingerbread: add 1 tablespoon ginger or add anything you want to try.
Bake in loaf pan.

QUESTION — A Lehighton reader would like to know the market price for goose and duck eggs.

QUESTION — Marian Mosemann, Summit Hill, is looking for a wire jig that can be used for making patterns in any shape and size by bending the wire.

QUESTION — Marian Mosemann, Summit Hill, would like paper puzzles that were sometimes given away by the John Deere tractor franchises. The puzzles were made either out of thin cardboard or thick paper. The puzzle pieces were packaged inside a letter-sized envelope with instructions to solve the puzzle printed on the outside of the envelope.

QUESTION — Marian Mosemann, Summit Hill, would like to know where to purchase gift boxes for jellies and breads. Candy boxes are too small.

QUESTION — Blanche Hertzler, Mt. Wolf, would like to purchase some old readers used in public school in the 1930s. She wants the third through sixth reader of the Baldwin and Bender series, copyrighted 1911 by American Book Company. She has the second reader. One of the readers has the poem "Taming the Colt," which she wants.

QUESTION — Edgar Jackson, Ligonier, would like to know how to puft wheat, rice, and corn for making cereal.

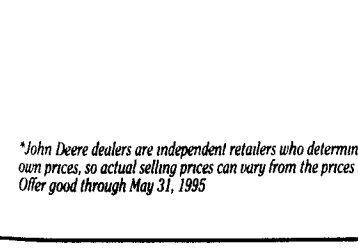
ANSWER — Vickie Davidson, Shepherdstown, W.Va. wanted to know how to make fragrant homemade soap and where to to purchase the oils. Arthur Sweetman wrote that he carries the oils and sopa instructions at his shop, Stone Haus Herbs, 2281 Rehmeyer Hollow Rd., Stewartstown, PA 17363-8940 or call (717) 235-2823.

ANSWER — Both Conny Riggliman, Warriors Mark, and a N.Y. reader wanted to know how to make feather trees from goose feathers. One also wanted to know a wholesale source for goose feathers. The source for the feathers was not sent in but thanks to Pat Sweetman who writes that she will mail instructions if Conny sends a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Pat's address is 2281 Rehmeyer Hollow Rd., Stewartstown, PA 17363-8940.

ANSWER — Evan Weidman, Westfield, wanted to know if there is a company that makes milk can coolers like those used before bulk tanks. Thanks to Christine Timbers, Etlan, Va., who writes that she receives an excellent catalogue that has the milk coolers, black iron kettles, Aladdin lamps, and everything else one can think of in it. The catalogue is $3. Write to Cumberland General Store, Old Time General Merchandise, Rt. 3, Box 81, Crossville, Tenn. 38555 or call 1-800-334-4640.

ANSWER — Louise Graybeal, Renick, W.V., wanted to know where to purchase flaked hominy. She wrote that a company called Pleezing used to sell it. Thanks to Christine Timbers, Etlan, Va., who writes that Pleezing still sells it. Contact Merchants Grocery Co. Inc., 800 Maddox Drive, Culpeper, Va. 22701.

ANSWER — Carol Brown, Halifax, wanted to know where to purchase patterns to make things out of safety pins and beads. She especially would like patterns for an angel and snowman about 10 inches high. Thanks to a Maryland reader who wrote that the patterns are available through Enterprise Art, P.O. Box 2918 Largo, Fl. 34649. And, at Craft King, P.O. Box 90637, Lakeland, Fl. 33804.



While dry clutches absorb and retain heat, PermaClutch 2 cools after each engagement to give disks longer life with less maintenance.

for longer life. And you'll love the smooth engagements for quick and effortless gear changing.

Plus, 6000 Tractors are known for outstanding hydraulics . . . the John Deere-designed pressure and flow compensating system gives you instant pressure, hefty lift capacity, and 3-point-hitch electronic sensing system.

For outstanding loader productivity and reliability, see your John Deere dealer to test drive a 66-hp 6200, 75-hp 6300, or 85-hp 6400 Tractor.

GRADING PROGRAMS

Most serious processors of hogs now have solid carcass grading programs.

Leidy's, Inc. is no exception. Their grade and weight program has been in place since September 1994, and is a result of more than two years of work. It provides the vital components that any good grading program should have — objective measurement of every carcass, a fair and public method for determining base market price, and an attractive incentive for producing high-quality hogs.

Let's take a brief look at the Leidy program.

Principle Of Measurement

The device employed at Leidy's is a Hennessy GP4 probe. After each carcass has been cleaned, split, and is ready to enter the cooler, a stainless steel probe on the Hennessy is inserted into the carcass, between the 10th and 11th rib and about three inches off the midline.

The probe penetrates the backfat layer, the underlying loin eye muscle, until the probe emerges in the intestinal cavity. Then the probe is withdrawn, and during the return stroke, the depth of the loin muscle and backfat layer are automatically measured and recorded.

The principle of light reflectance is what enables the probe to measure the fat and muscle depth in the carcass. A small light at the end of the probe shaft combined with a small light receptor measures the reflection of the light. Much of the light striking the fat layer is reflected due to the white color. While the probe passes by the loin muscle, the reflectance is reduced because the muscle is darker than fat. These changes in reflectance are detected by the Hennessy and converted in the computer to fat, muscle depth and color score.

Accuracy

The accuracy of all optical probes (Hennessy, Fat-O-Meat'er, Destron) is considered fairly similar. While the instruments employ unique light wavelengths and methods for signal transmission, these differences have minimal impact on overall accuracy.

At Leidy's, the operator checks the calibration of the Hennessy probe three times a day against a calibration block. He also inserts a control needle at the probe site on several carcasses throughout the day to be sure the probe location and angle are correct. Both of these quality control checks are documented and monitored by front office personnel.

Prediction

The Hennessy and its computer are set up at Leidy's to calculate the percentage of boneless ham, loin, and shoulder in the carcass. Boneless cuts were judged to be more accurately predicted than bone-in cuts, and therefore chosen for the final program.

The three measurements used in the prediction equation include fat, loin eye depth, and "rib cavity thickness." After the probe passes through the fat and loin muscle, it enters a thin layer of fat and connective tissue lining the intestinal cavity. Leidy's refers to this layer as the rib cavity thickness.

Pricing

Currently the live market price is based on Peoria, St. Louis, and Indiana direct plus $1.50/cwt. The live price is divided by a standard yield of 74 percent to arrive at the base carcass price paid for a hog with 42 percent lean.

For a live price of $40/cwt, the calculated base carcass price is $40 divided by 74 percent or $54.05.

Producers receive a bonus for hogs containing more than 42 percent lean, and discount for hogs under 42 percent. Currently each percentage unit above 42 percent is worth about $1.00/cwt (applied to carcass price). The discounts work on the same principle, but are twice as great as the bonuses.

A hog with 1 inch of backfat and a 4.5 square inch loin eye would be considered average (42 percent lean) on the Leidy program. A hog with .60 inches of fat and a 6.5 square inch loin eye would be at the top of the scale (47 percent). And a hog with 1.4 inches of fat and a 3.5 square inch loin eye would be at the bottom (37 percent lean).

Desirable Weight Range

The acceptable carcass weight range is 160 to 200 pounds, or roughly 216 to 270 pounds live. A hog weighing 10 pounds too light (live) would be discounted about $4 per head. A hog with a live weight 10 pounds too heavy would be discounted about $2 per head.

Obviously, as the weight strays further from the desired range, discounts get heftier.

Other Information Provided

As a service to producers, information is provided on lungs, skin, and livers. Also year-to-date historical data on percent lean is supplied along with a comparison to other producers selling to Leidy.

Comparisons

Producers from the beginning have been making the inevitable comparison between the Hatfield and Leidy program. Actually there are more similarities than differences. But for sake of argument, here are the major contrasts between the two programs.

Type of Device Used. Leidy's uses the Hennessy probe, Hatfield uses the Fat-O-Meat'er. Both are optical probes and considered to be nearly identical in operating principle and accuracy.

Lean Prediction. Leidy predicts a boneless percentage, Hatfield predicts a bone-in percentage. That puts Leidy's lean value about 14 percent units below that of Hatfield. Which method is more accurate? The boneless prediction may be. But it's probably better to ask which is more useful. In general, for further processing, the boneless yield will be more valuable to the packer.

My guess is that as grading programs evolve, more and more packers will be predicting boneless pounds or percentages, rather than bone-in cuts.

Hatfield uses two measurements (fat and loin eye depth) for their prediction. Leidy's uses three (fat, loin depth and "rib cavity thickness"). The additional measurement and the boneless prediction contribute to a slightly higher rate of accuracy on the Leidy system.

Bonuses and Discounts. Each company uses a discount rate that is twice as large as the bonuses. Currently, the magnitude of both the bonuses and discounts is slightly higher with Leidy's. But because these values are derived differently, they could change with the market. Hatfield bases their bonuses on wholesale cut values. Leidy multiplies the base carcass price by a straight percentage to arrive at a bonus level.

Related to the issue of bonuses is a comment that I have heard from several people recently. And that is, these programs "pay for the absence of fat." In a sense they do, since leaner hogs are worth more than fat ones, and clearly fat has a bigger impact on price than does muscle.

But these relationships are more coincidental than intentional. Here's why.

Both packers at the onset purchased optical probes with the understanding that these devices could measure the carcass and predict something. And for both packers, the prediction component is really what counts.

What did they want to predict? The percentage of ham, loin and shoulder (the lean cuts). Admittedly, one company wanted bone-in, one chose bone-out, but that has little bearing on this argument.

Now, if you want to predict the percentage of lean cuts, what single measurement in the carcass would maximize your accuracy of prediction? Backfat. Yes, muscle measurements will help improve the reliability of prediction and so

Farm Bureau Sponsors Safety Poster Contest

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — Each year, more than 300 people die in farm-related accidents.

Approximately 130,000 farmers suffer disabling injuries on U.S. farms every year. Children and elderly are at increased risk of injury and death. In 1994, 15 percent of all farm accidents involved children 18 and under.

These sad statistics are staggering. In order to promote awareness and understanding about one of the most dangerous occupations in the world, the Adams County Farm Bureau Women's Committee has teamed up with Nationwide Insurance to promote the 1995 Safety Poster Drawing and Slogan Contest.

Nationwide provides insurance for Farm Bureau's accidental death and dismemberment program.

"Over the years, we have seen many tragedies affecting fram families caused by accidents on the farm. Our young people can help carry the message that 'Safety on the Farm' is an absolute necessity for the well being of our farm community," said Vicki Gittlen of Nationwide's agribusiness division. The contest is open to all youth 16 and under who are children or grandchildren of Pennsylvania Farm Bureau members.

Youth should submit a heavy black and white, pen or pencil drawing of a farm safety procedure to the county women's committee. The drawing should be on a 8½ -inch x 11-inch piece of paper accompanied by a slogan of 10 words or less. There are three age categories: 8 years old and under, 9 through 12 years old, and 13 through 16 years old. Deadline for entries to be received by the women's committee is June 1.

Entrants may only win one time in each age category. Drawings must be originals. Tracing is not allowed.

The winners at the county level will be announced in the July newsletter and will be awarded a $50 U.S. savings bond at the annual summer picnic to be held August 6. Each winner at the county level will also receive a Nationwide T-shirt.

The county will submit three winners to the state office. Out of the entries received, 12 winners will be selected to receive a $100 U.S. savings bond and a Nationwide Insurance personalized jacket. One finalist will be chosen to receive an additional award.

Submit the entries to the Women's Committee chairperson, Tina Wilkinson, 880 Old Carlisle Rd., Aspers, PA 17304 no later than June 1.

Pork Prose

will carcass weight, but their influence is pretty minimal compared to that of backfat. So it stands to reason that the payment program will be influenced most by backfat. This isn't by design, it's just part of life.

Base Price Determination. Leidy's uses Peoria, St. Louis, and Indiana direct plus $1.50/cwt. Until recently, Leidy's base market price was slightly higher than that of Hatfield. However, Hatfield recently changed to a high/low average of Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and southern Minnesota plus $1.75. This change will probably narrow the difference.

Company Size. Both companies pride themselves on their service to the producer and the industry. Because Leidy's is a smaller company, they are probably in a better position to provide personal service to the producer. The smaller size may also enable Leidy's to be more selective in the producers from whom they buy hogs. But both are strongly committed to the industry.

Summary

1. In September 1994, Leidy's, Inc. instituted a carcass grading program that provides an incentive to produce good quality hogs.

2. Each carcass is measured by the Hennessy optical probe that is used to predict the percentage of boneless ham, loin, and shoulder in the carcass.

3. Hogs containing more than 42 percent lean are given a bonus. Those under 42 percent are discounted at a rate twice that of the bonuses.

COMPACTION COMMANDERS
DESIGNED FOR YOUR CONSERVATION NEEDS
3-5-7 Shank

Brillion introduces their new Compaction Commander...designed to break up hardpan and compaction as deep as 20". CCD 500
The standard V-shaped alloy point and wear strip leaves residue on the surface with minimal soil disturbance. Auto-rest shanks with 20" of trip height allows for non-stop tillage. Parabolic shanks lift and fracture the soil. 39" of underframe clearance assures trouble free operation even in heavy residue.

TAKE COMMAND OF TILLAGE PROBLEMS
3 - 9 Shank

Brillion's Landcommander gives you total command over the problems of compaction, soil erosion,residue management, and rough fields.
The front disc gang has 22" x 1/4" disc blades on 15" spacings. They are designed to cut residue and work the ground to a depth of 6". The Landcommander has the ability to till from 8" to 20" deep. The rear disc gang has 20" x 7 ga. disc blades on 7.5 spacing. The 6"x4" mainframe is designed to handle the stress from the deep till shanks and disc gangs.

Checkoff Pushes Beef Sales

DENVER, Colo.—To boost sale of U.S. beef and veal in the Caribbean islands, the U.S. Meat Export Federation (USMEF) is using beef checkoff dollars in a new marketing campaign.

USMEF's Caribbean Manager Liz Wunderlich explains that the new program focuses on the specific training and marketing needs of key buyers in the region. It's a more labor-intensive approach, she said, but it's paying off. After several years of declining sales in the Caribbean, U.S. beef exports in the region are already up 18 percent in the first two months of 1995.

Since the start of this year, Wunderlich has coordinated dozens of one-on-one training sessions and small-group seminars on critical points for the proper handling, storage, defrosting, and cutting of U.S. beef and veal. She has also developed an information "blueprint" of marketing and merchandising ideas and tips which she tailors to the needs of individual restaurants and supermarkets.

Another important goal of the program, according to Wunderlich, is to educate buyers on the product mix that is available from U.S. suppliers, and the economics behind the various purchasing arrangements available to them.

These steps are necessary, she believes, for the U.S. to increase sales in the region. The Gulf War and the economic recession in the United States in the early 1990s combined to curtail tourism in the region, giving rise to "all-inclusive" vacation packages that combine hotel and airfare prices. In turn, restaurants increasingly turned to lower priced, banquet-style meals to cut costs.

"The trend toward banquet-style meals has reduced the number of U.S. beef and veal items on menus throughout the islands," Wunderlich said. In the past, purchases have been limited to a small range of cuts, with price the predominant consideration.

"We need to expand the range of U.S. cuts sold in the islands and impress on buyers the value of U.S. products," said Wunderlich. "Education and service are the keys, even if we have to do it one restaurant or supermarket at a time."

USMEF hosted a team of importers and meat buyers from supermarkets and top hotels in the Caribbean, Bahamas, and Bermuda on a six-day tour of ranches, feedlots, and packing plants in the United States. Funded partly with beef checkoff dollars, the team will get a good look at the food safety assurances and the quality attributes of U.S. beef and veal.

Several product handling and marketing seminars are also scheduled later this month for importers, chefs, and restaurant managers in Nassau and Grand Cayman Island.

"The trade teams and seminars are representative of the work we are doing down here to increase U.S. beef and veal sales, " said Wunderlich. "In many cases, we're working with small groups, and even one-on-one in what I call 'desk-side seminars,' to educate buyers and users about how to buy, use, and sell our products."

The Caribbean islands were the ninth largest foreign market for the American beef industry in 1994, purchasing $21.5 million worth of U.S. beef and beef variety meats. Worldwide, U.S. beef exports hit a record $2.8 billion in 1994, up 17 percent in volume from the year before.

Why Bush Hog Squealers Mow Down The Competition

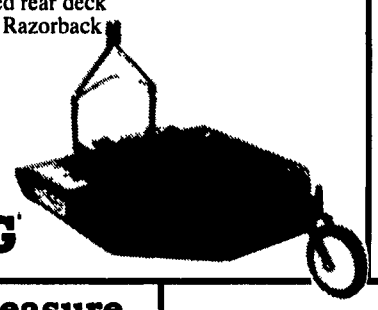
There are two basic reasons and quality is the first. Each Squealer model is equipped with Bush Hog's tough gearbox that carries a 2-year warranty. All models, except the 42-inch wide cutter feature oval blade pans, and the 60 and 72-inch wide models have an "in-line" shear bolt with ball bearing protection that can be replaced in a snap. An optional slip clutch is available.

The second reason for the Squealers popularity is price. Select any of 5 models, 42 to 84-inches wide, and compare prices with the competition. With a true price/quality comparison, it's easy to see why Squealers mow down the competition.

BUSH HOG

AFFORDABLE

The Bush Hog Razorback gives you plenty of performance - plus features for fast and better rotary cutting. Like a full 5-foot cutting width and a cutting capacity up to 1 - inch diameter. Like the protection of a shear pin and oval blade pan as standard equipment. Like 11-ga. steel construction and a tapered rear deck for faster discharge. The Razorback is ideal for use with 18-30 HP tractors.... and it's ideal for your pocketbook - because it's plenty affordable.



BUSH HOG

For Pastures, For Roadsides, For Stalks...Here's The Rotary Cutter You Need

Bush Hog's medium duty 270 Series Rotary Cutters are excellent tools for the widest variety of land maintenance chores. And they're built tough, built to withstand rugged cutting in material up to 2-inches thick. Decks are 10 gauge steel, continuous welded and braced at all stress points.

Select from three models, in cutting widths of 5, 6 or 7-feet. A threee-point hitch is standard, and for the 7-foot model an economical semi-mount hitch is available.. Round bladeholders and laminated wheels are also standard on all models.

Clark Slothower, right, is service manager of the tractor service department at C B Hoober & Son Inc. He replaces Eby Hershey, left, who is manager of Hoober's recon department.

Service Management Changes At Hoober's

INTERCOURSE (Lancaster Co.) — Charles Hoober, Jr., president of C B Hoober & Son Inc. has announced the appointment of Clark Slothower as the service manager of the tractor service department, replacing Eby Hershey, who moved into the new position of manager of Hoober's recon department.

Clark Slothower joined C B Hoober & Son Inc. in April 1993 as assistant service manager, tractor service. A graduate of Iowa State University, he was employed by Sperry New Holland from 1980 - 1992. From 1992 until joining Hoober's, Clark was the business administrator at Lancaster Covenant Church.

"Used equipment preparation and reconditioning is also critical to the success of our business," said Charlie Hoober, "and we asked Eby Hershey to accept the challenge of managing this new department. Eby has worked for us since 1964 and managed the tractor service department since 1979 His experience will be essential to making the needed improvement in used equipment turnover."

Nitrogen Soil Test Saves Money

LEOLA (Lancaster Co.)— Nitrogen management has always been a key concern for farmers. Some of the previously used management strategies farmers have employed involve soil testing to monitor organic matter levels in the soil, crop rotations, and manure management.

Since it is known that given amounts of nitrogen will become available from decomposing organic matter in the soil, using soil testing to measure organic matter levels can help predict nitrogen that will be released over the growing season.

Today we have new technology that takes the art of soil-available nitrogen prediction and brings it even closer to a true science. This involves the use of a hand-held digital readout meter called the Cardy meter, which is about the size of a standard pocket calculator and is available from Gro-Mor Plant Food Co. in Leola, (800) 270-0047. These handy meters can provide instant, accurate nitrate readings from water, liquid fertilizer, liquid manure, and soil samples.

All the operator needs to do is place a drop of a solution on the meter's lens and observe the digital readout to determine the PPM (parts per million) of nitrate. To test a field for available nitrogen, a standard soil sample is taken representatively throughout the field, mixed in a bucket, and scooped into a specially designed filter bag that comes with the Cardy meter. It is then mixed in the bag with about one cup of a distilled water solution and shaken for one minute before the bag is squeezed at one end to allow several drops of clear solution to drop onto the meter's lens (the muddy water stays in the bag) through the built-in filter opening in one corner of the bag.

Those who wish to purchase a meter for their own use or have this service provided for them should call Gro-Mor today for the name of a representative in their area.

Signs Present Opportunity To Manage Medullary Bone

ROANOKE, Va.—The onset of sexual maturity signals a "window of opportunity" to manage a pullet's medullary bone before she "roars into production," according to management consultant Gil Dedrick of Global Poultry Marketing, Burnsville, Minn.

Managing the medullary bone, from prelay through the laying cycle to molt or cleanout was the theme of Dedrick's presentation at the Virginia Poultry Health and Management meeting here recently.

"During the early stages of lay," Dedrick said, "pullets are in a negative calcium balance which can't be alleviated simply by raising calcium levels. Since feed intake is low at this stage, to produce a good eggshell the bird must mobilize medullary bone to meet her calcium needs."

Dedrick said the onset of sexual maturity signals a physiological process that induces the formation of medullary bone. "You won't pick up these signals on the laptop computer," he said. "Look for swelling and color changes of the comb and wattles.

"This is the time to add some oyster shell to the diet and step up calcium levels to 3.3 to 3.5 of the ration to form adequate reserves of medullary bone."

Dedrick said he uses the percent "floaters" in a room-temperature salt solution of 1.08 specific gravity as a guideline in making adjustments in the level of oyster shell needed rather than making changes simply based on the age of the bird.

According to the speaker, feed samples taken at the hopper outlet, the far turn, and the return side of long cage rows often show a wide range of calcium levels. Some birds may be getting too much calcium, while others are deprived of enough to make a strong eggshell. A calcium source such as oyster shell with a specific gravity similar to that of a typical corn/soy layer ration is less apt to settle out in long feeder lines.

Fretts Becomes Fair Executive

UNIONTOWN (Fayette Co.) — Donald C. Fretts of Scottdale has been awarded the status of certified fair executive (CFE) by the International Association of Fairs and Expositions.

The certification is based upon a rigid scorecard of management skills, education, and leadership. The award designation was made in Little Rock, Ark., during the IAFE membership's Annual Spring Management Conference.

Drawing from more than 3,200 organized fairs in the United States and Canada, 12 fair executives qualified for the coveted CFE award in 1995. Since 1979, only 152 persons have qualified for CFE status, seven of which now have been awarded to Pennsylvanians.

Fretts is a native of Scottdale, and has served the Westmoreland Agricultural Fair since 1975 as a director, treasurer, president and most recently as executive director/manager. Fretts is consulting with the Westmoreland Fair and others in the southwest Pennsylvania area.

In January, Fretts joined the staff of Penn State as extension agronomist, and works in Fayette, Greene, Washington and Allegheny counties.

Bendorf Receives AFGC Award

SHAWNEE MISSION, Kan. — Hank Bendorf, general manager of private brands for ABI Alfalfa, was recently honored by the American Forage and Grassland Council during its annual awards banquet in Lexington, Ky.

Bendorf received the prestigious AFGC Merit Award for his numerous contributions and years of service to forage-based agriculture. One of Bendorf's nomination supporters wrote, "Hank is a totally honest seedsman who is dedicated to the welfare of the farmer who depends upon forages for a living."

As general manager of private brands for ABI Alfalfa, Bendorf works with numerous and diverse seed companies to provide them with marketing support and high-quality alfalfa seed to sell under their own label. Bendorf also works closely with ABI research and development staff, including Dr. Jim Moutray in Napier, Iowa, to continuously develop and refine alfalfa varieties with better winter-hardiness, increased disease and insect resistance, and higher yield potentials.

Bendorf's contributions and service to agriculture began some 50 years ago during his childhood on a general crop and livestock farm in Eastern Iowa. Bendorf continued with his agricultural training at Iowa State University, where he received a bachelor's degree in agronomy in 1961. Over the years, Bendorf has contributed heavily to agriculture both in the work place and with consistent association support. He is the chairman of the farm seed division of the American Seed Trade Association (ASTA), the development officer for the Forage and Grassland Council, a member of the Kansas Forage and Grasslands Council, and is on the board of directors for the American Forage and Grasslands Council.

Air Drill Offers Strength, Durability

ASSARIA, Kan. — The new Great Plains 1150 Air Drill offers strength and durability without excessive weight. Its 28-inch underframe clearance and three ranks of hoe openers easily handle residue in chem-fallow fields.

Single point depth control sets the planting depth for the entire drill and the star wheel metering system delivers even and consistent seed flow. Central filling and an optional auger make loading and unloading the bin faster and easier.

The 1150 Air Drill is available in 45-foot and 34-foot widths and folds hydraulically to 20 feet for transport. For more information, contact Great Plains Mfg., PO Box 218, Assaria, KS 67416, (913) 667-4755.

Dairy Specialists Complete Program

SHIPPENSBURG (Cumberland Co.) — David Livermore of Shippensburg and Gerry Potter of Carlisle, both dairy specialist, at Cumberland Valley Co-op successfully completed the recent Penn State Dairy On-Farm Problem-Solving Teleconference. "Dairy On-Farm Problem Solving: The Process," is a satellite program in which ag professionals learn a systematic approach to on-farm problem-solving. The day-long program provided the opportunity to review farm records and inspect animals, housing, and feeding facilities. Introductory techniques in a cooperative problem solving process were demonstrated and applied to assist in identifying, quantifying, and developing responses for a client's problems. The satellite program format allowed for dialog between extension specialists at Penn State University and participants at the downlink sites.

Grain Systems Recognizes E.M. Herr

WILLOW STREET (Lancaster Co.) — Grain Systems, Inc. (GSI), a leading manufacturer of grain storage and handling equipment located in Assumption, Ill., has recognized E.M. Herr Equipment, Inc. for outstanding sales and service in 1994.

E.M. Herr was recently presented with the Gold Award and State Award for premier sales in GSI equipment.

We hear you.

We know that making hay can be one of the hardest, hottest, dustiest jobs a farmer has to face. And a big gamble, too, when bad weather is on the horizon.

So when you asked for a tractor with the power and versatility to handle every haying operation from cutting and conditioning to baling and transporting, we heard you.

When you said you needed a tractor with a full complement of features, yet sized just right for utility applications, we heard you.

And when you told us you needed the kind of reliability and durability that'll never leave another windrow stranded in a wet field, we heard you.

And we responded with even more improvements to the industry's most advanced mid-range tractors, the Case International MAXXUM® 5200 Series.

That's why you'll now find a handy "neutral" position built into the standard full-power MAXXUM shuttle shift, allowing you to put the tractor in neutral without using the foot clutch - a real convenience when tying off round bales.

The MAXXUM cab is now more monitor-friendly than ever, with easy rear-window cable access and two new mounting points in the cab - a definite advantage when working with productive, monitored haying equipment.

And as always, every MAXXUM is built big-tractor heavy, with 2 1/2 in. thick cast frame rails, 7700 lbs. of rear-hitch capacity, and an expansive cab with 44 sq. ft. of glass - an indispensable benefit when keeping an eye on the windrow or working with high-productivity tools like the Case International 8312 Disc Mower Conditioner.

What size MAXXUM is right for you? With four models ranging from 80 to 112 PTO hp, you'll have a lot to discuss with your Case IH dealer. And remember to ask about Total Product Support, our commitment to the service and parts that turn a sale into a true partnership.

Maryland DHIA Report For April

The April 1995 Dairy Herd Improvement information for dairy herds from the DHI processing center in Provo, Utah. The list includes herds from Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia. The information is listed by herd name, county association, number of cows in the herd and the average production per cow in the herd. To be included, the herd must have 10 cows averaging 65 pounds or more of 3.5 percent fat corrected milk per cow, per day. All herds reported are on official DHI or DHIR test.

Also listed are the top eight herds in Maryland for the Brown Swiss, Guernseys, and Jerseys, and the top six herds for Ayrshires.

UPDATE: AVIAN INFLUENZA IN MEXICO!

Dr. Michael Hulet
Associate Professor
Poultry Science

Avian Influenza (AI) is caused by a virus. Even though it is similar to the human influenza virus, AI only infects the avian species.

Poultry producers learned more about avian influenza than many wanted to know in the 1983-1985 outbreak of AI in Pennsylvania and Virginia.

Recently, highly pathogenic forms of AI have been isolated from flocks located over quite a large area in central Mexico. The disease has been affecting flocks in the Mexican states of Pueblo, Jalisco, and Queretaro.

The disease has not entered into the U.S. However, the risk of its entry is great because of the many exchanges of workers between the U.S. and Mexico. Further, the path taken by many migrating waterfowl and other wild birds, which are known carriers of AI, leads from central Mexico through many poultry producing states in the U.S. Therefore, the possibility of workers and others tracking the disease while traveling between the two areas is a major concern.

The disease that is causing high mortality and egg production losses in Mexico started as a low pathogenic (low mortality) strain of H5N2 and then mutated to a highly pathogenic (high mortality) disease epidemic, and in that sense is very similar to the 1983 situation in Pennsylvania. Another isolation of a different strain of AI virus (H7N2) has been found in Utah, which is not thought to be related to the current outbreak in Mexico.

The Utah outbreak is in turkey flocks and is considered to be stabilized and under control through isolation and vaccination of flocks in the immediate vicinity of the infected flocks. Utah has many range flocks of turkeys and the disease was thought to have entered by migrating waterfowl that fed and watered with domestic turkeys.

Periodically, other isolations of low pathogenic AI have been isolated from birds in the live bird markets in New York, New Jersey, Baltimore, and Philadelphia.

Disease does not respect people or locations. It can cause a problem in your flock if you are not completely aware of the proper biosecurity and management practices.

Some of the clinical signs of AI found in commercial poultry are marked depression, ruffled feathers, decreased feed consumption, decreased egg production, watery diarrhea, and respiratory distress. In high pathogenic AI cases, high mortality as well as cheesy exudate in the sinuses of turkeys and swellings of the head and neck of chickens are other diagnostic lesions.

Because these same lesions are typical of other diseases, serological tests and virus isolations are the main ways of obtaining a accurate diagnosis of the disease. Currently, most commercial poultry companies participate in an AI surveillance program that samples eggs and blood from commercial flocks. The surveillance programs are to detect AI in our commercial flocks. It does not prevent AI, but if isolated it can be typed for potential pathogenecity.

It will also help with determining the extent of spread amoung flocks. Delays in the detection of many types of AI that may not be showing symptoms or lesions can allow time for mutations and the risk of a more serious disease threat. This is what happened in Pennsylvania in 1983-1984 and is happening in Mexico.

If you have any questions about the health status of your flock, contact your service representative or qualified poultry health official, or have birds submitted directly to one of the three Pennsylvania diagnostic laboratories.

Again, it is important to remember that the major routes of infection for AI are from migratory waterfowl and wild seabirds. Waterfowl have been shown to carry the disease and can infect ponds or other water sources where the virus will remain viable for extended periods of time. The virus can then be spread by humans, domestic poultry, or anything that comes in contact with the feces or contaminated water and then comes in contact with commercial poultry.

The prevalence of ponds and migrating waterfowl in an area near commercial poultry facilities represents an increased risk that must be countered with increased vigilance and sanitation requirements. Poultry managers must maintain strict biosecurity and keep visitors or animals away from your buildings, especially if they might have come in contact with ponds, standing water, or migratory waterfowl.

Educate employees to stay away from live-bird markets and flea markets that may sell poultry. If you sell birds to the live market, make sure the sanitation of trucks and coops are maintained at a high standard.

Moving birds to coops at a location off the farm instead of allowing trucks and coops into your facilities where other birds are housed is recommended. Cleanup after load-out is completed is essential to prevent the possibility of disease spreading to other flocks.

Employees should also be questioned and told of the potential risk and problems associated with waterfowl and the current disease outbreak in Mexico. Because the virus is maintained and carried by waterfowl, the likelihood of eradicating the disease is not reasonable.

However, it is possible to eradicate the disease from your premises. If you do not make efforts to prevent the disease from entering your flocks, the expense of destroying birds, cleanup, downtime, as well as isolation from other friends and family who have poultry flocks is the risk you take. Don't gamble with AI.

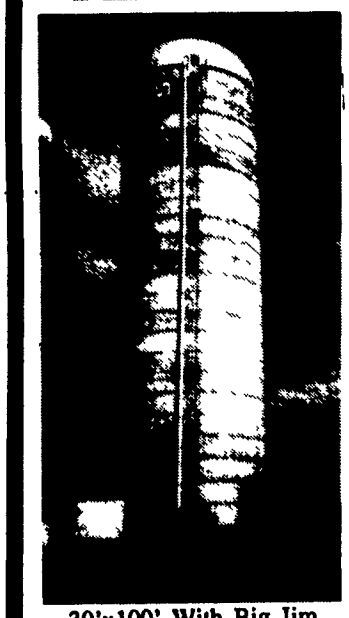
"THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING FEED STORAGE"



30'x100' With Big Jim Drive Thru

"The Big Jim is doing a fine job bringing the feed down. We really believe the drive-thru, Big Jim System is worth anyone's consideration. It is costing more every year to grow forages and we feel our minimal quality and quantity losses are easily paying for the additional initial cost of this investment compared to that of a bunker. We are throwing no feed away and the cows are milking the best they ever have." (over 90 lbs. per cow.)
Signed/Atwater Farms
Rick Atwater

Drive your truck or mixer-wagon under the 12' high floor for fast and efficient delivery of your wilted hay or silage. Eliminate conveyors from silos to mixer.

Call for an appointment to discuss your storage needs and assistance in completing the "Cost Analysis Worksheet" developed by the Crop Storage Institute.
Bob Francis - (717) 264-9588

Also available in 20' and 24' diameter silos to store from 400 to 3,000 tons of forage.

BUILDING & FACILITIES PLANNING

MAY Rural Economy SPECIAL

Cost-efficient Centurydrain™ roofing and siding is on some of the best looking buildings in the country.

Build with Centurydrain roofing and siding and you've built a money-wise structure. Full-hard, high tensile galvanized steel, and an exclusive drain channel for a dry interior give you a building that'll handle years of hard duty and hard weather. Good looking, too. Crisp lines and plenty of bright, long-lasting colors make Wheeling Centurydrain as handsome as it is economical.

ORDERS CAN BE PLACED: MAY 1, 8, 15, 22 & 29

A 1st Class Team Together For 25 Years!

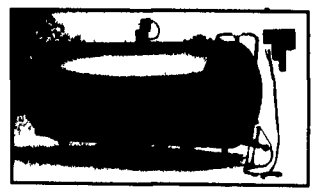
Milk's got more!

RUFUS BRUBAKER REFRIGERATION

And...

MUELLER DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT

Scroll-Compressor Technology
New in 1994



You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment price is not the only cost of cooling milk

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31 000	$28 000
Cost of electricity @ 08 kW for 12 000 lbs milk/day for 10 years	$17 550	$22 850
Total operating cost for ten years	$48 550	$50 850
Savings	$ 2 300

INTRODUCING...

SWEETCAKE 16NU

FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

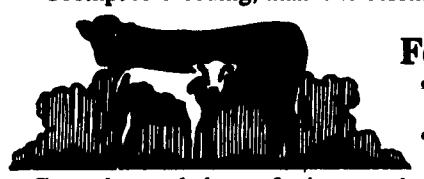
• High Natural Protein • No Urea • Fat Enhanced
• Balanced Supplementation • Safe For All Livestock Classes

Sweetcake Advantages

- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake

For Dairy

- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation, producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems
- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients



For Beef

- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates
- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf

- AVAILABLE IN 200 LB. SIZE -

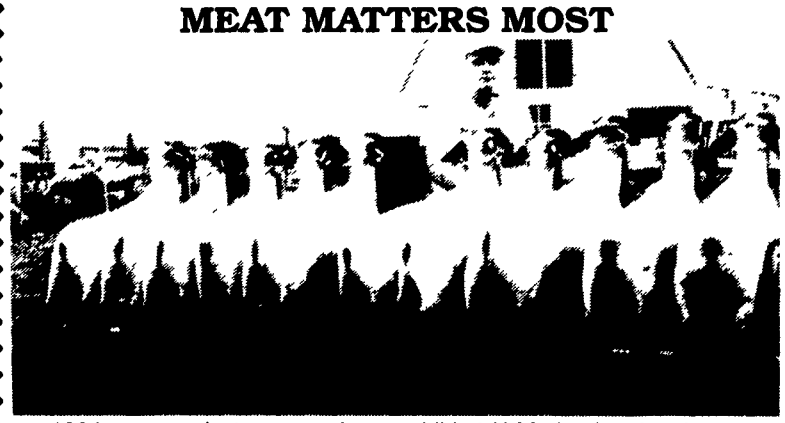
MEAT MATTERS MOST



1994 was my last opportunity to exhibit 4-H Market Lambs. I am now a Pre-Vet Major at the University of Kentucky. I may be "too old" for the showring but I haven't lost my enthusiasm for the club lamb business. I still have the same powerful ewe base that has produced the winningest market lambs in the Mid-Atlantic area. And, I intend to keep on producing winners for others.

In 1993 I purchased the National Champion Wether Sire at the Midwest Stud Ram Sale in Sedalia, Missouri. He has worked even better than I expected on my flock. I call him "LIMO". You will call his lambs L-O-N-G, SMOOTH, and TIGHT. These pretty profiling lambs with high tail sets will not disappoint!

Consider the record of DINSMORE bred market lambs in the last 11 years. Why not select your show prospects from the flock with a proven track record?

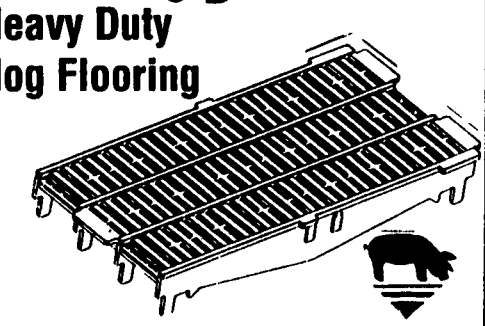
Polygrate ™
Heavy Duty
Hog Flooring



Time Tested and Proven
This style of POLYGRATE was first introduced in 1981. Over the years Farocx has continued to refine this product. POLYGRATE is one of only a few "World Class" floors that has stood this test of time.
Outstanding Traction
POLYGRATE'S unique "high-low" finger design provides outstanding traction for pigs of all sizes, while enhancing safety and comfort.
◆ POLYGRATE'S rounded corners minimize injuries. The edges are beveled providing a smoother, safer surface that promotes comfort, too.
What Does This All Add Up To?
◆ More piglets survive until weaning
◆ Less splay/spraddle leg problems
◆ Heavier piglets at weaning
◆ Better conditioned sows at weaning

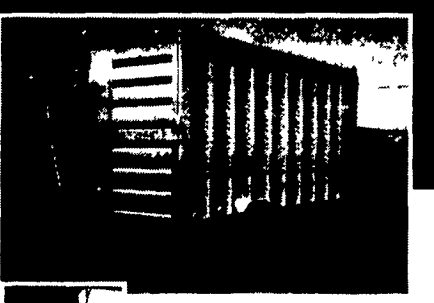
Agriculture Moves on EBY Bodies



M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- LIVESTOCK BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of heights and widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24'; landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer custom options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business- building bodies to haul it is ours.

Let EBY custom build one for you.

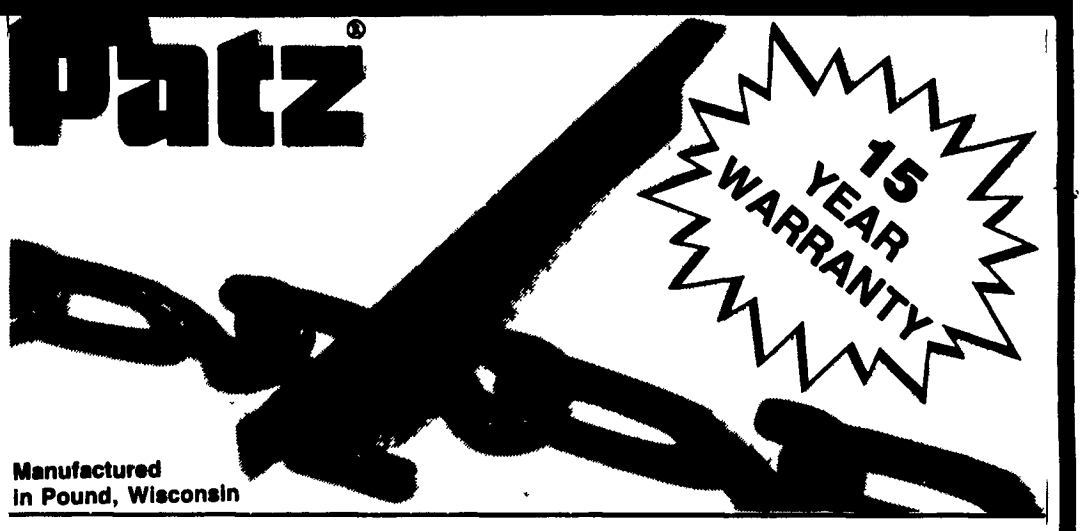
Patz®



Manufactured in Pound, Wisconsin

Here is something often overlooked...

Only Patz gives you 45 years of experience with hook-and-eye chain, resulting in a chain so good that others are attempting to copy it.

Many Patz Gutter Cleaner chains are still working well after more than 30 years of use.

After the Patz patent on hook-and-eye chain expired, some other companies have attempted to copy the Patz chain. Some promote 10- and 12-year warranties on chain—but they have not yet had 10 or 12 years of experience with hook-and-eye chain.

Patz has continued to improve its chain for 45 years with special-formula steel, special forging techniques and special steel hardening processes.

Rely on the proven, long-life chain. Patz provides a 15-year chain warranty because so many chains are working well long after 15 years of use.

Better yet, your Patz chain warranty is backed up by a solid, reliable company that has been serving farmers for 45 years with the same family ownership.

Insist on Patz chain!

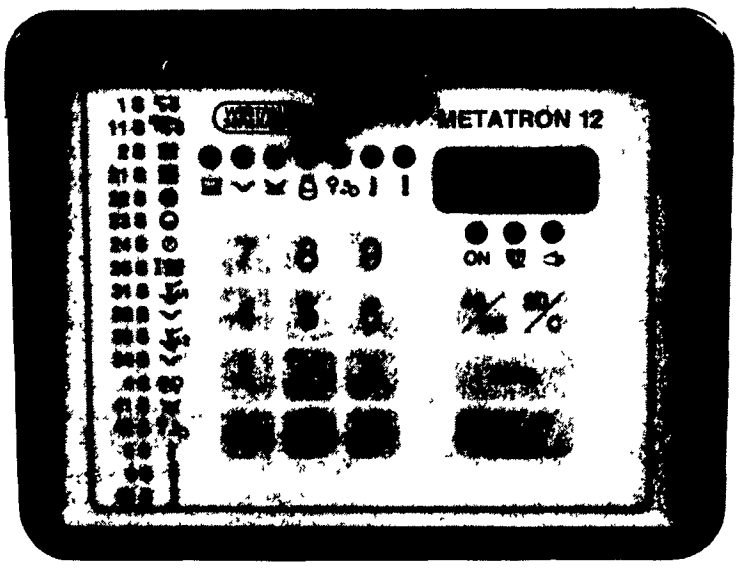
PARLOR AND MANAGEMENT SYSTEMS FOR THE 21ST CENTURY

Better Management Today Means Higher Profit Tomorrow



Metatron Control

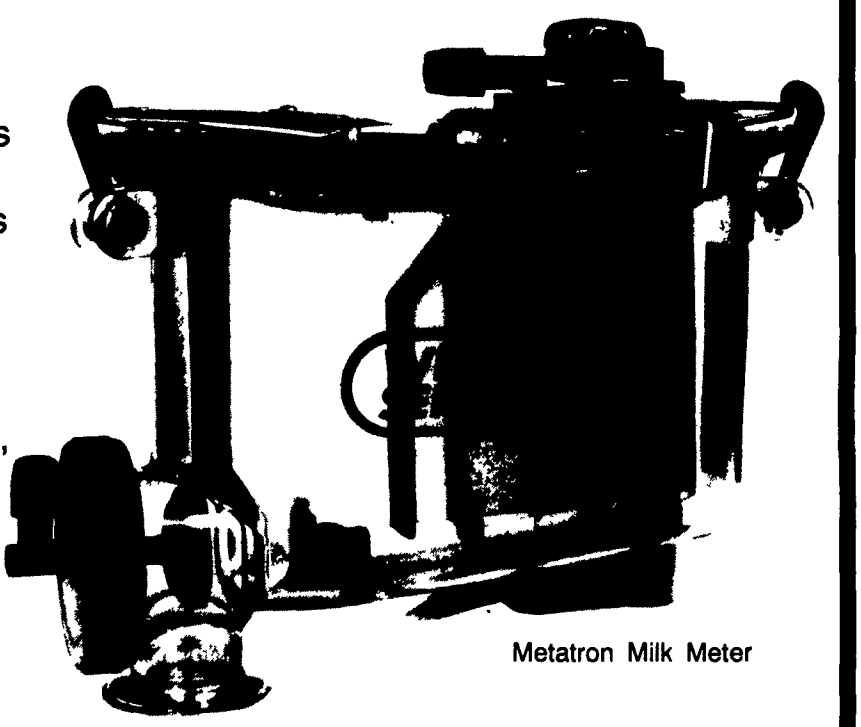
METATRON PROVIDES A MANAGEMENT LINK

Westfalia's Metatron gives you the edge in effective, economical herd management. This DHIA and USDA approved cowside milk meter provides milk metering on an individual cow milking for in-parlor evaluation. Vital information of milk produced, maximum milk flow, average milk flow and milking time is also available at cowside. Aids you to better manage each individual cow.

AUTOMATIC CLUSTER REMOVAL

Automatic cluster removal is another built-in feature of Westfalia's Metatron. Dependable and durable, the Metatron performs with accuracy and precision when removing the cluster from the cow's udder.

The Metatron Milk Meter is transparent for visible operation and designed to take years of use. The unrestricted, full 1" milk outlet takes into account all air flow and milk flow requirements for high producing dairy cows of today and tomorrow. It's convenient, too, and can be on line mounted, or remotely mounted out of the operator's way.



Metatron Milk Meter

RELIABLE
- Vacuum operated
- Controlled by low DC voltage

CONSISTENT
- Cows are always milked the same

ACCURATE
- Precision milk weights 2, 3 or 4 times per day

FLEXIBLE
- Programmable milk-out
- Built-in Take-off

MANAGEMENT
- Know your cow's milk production
- Cull efficiently
- Know individual cow's milking time
- Feed for production - get optimum efficiency
- Allows cows to reach their true genetic potential

EXPANDABLE - OPTIONS
- Personal Computer (P.C.) Interface
- Pre-milking Stimulation/Pulsation
- Parlor Walk-Thru Cow Identification
- Computer Control Feeding

COMMON POISONOUS PLANTS

While most plants are beneficial, some are hazardous to animals and human life. Pennsylvania has about 100 toxic plants and some of these are responsible for deaths of domestic livestock every year.

The number of cases of toxicosis (plant poisoning) in livestock far outweighs those reported for humans. Accurate statistics are not available, but it is estimated that several thousand animals die annually in the U.S. from plant toxicosis.

With houses springing up everywhere in southeast Pennsylvania, the rural/urban interface is dramatically increasing. Many farm neighbors are unfamiliar with the plants that are toxic and many of them are found in our home landscapes. Homeowners bordering farmland or pastures should not throw yard waste over the fence or onto cropland without consulting the farmer or landowner.

Following are some common plants that are poisonous to farm animals.

• Garden Iris - Grown around the home as an ornamental plant, the iris contains an irritant in the leaves or root stalks which can produce gastroenteritis if ingested by livestock in sufficient amounts.

• Holly - Common holly, a favored ornamental in landscapes around the home, has berries that are poisonous and cause vomiting, diarrhea, and stupor in animals if ingested in large amounts.

• Morning Glory - Hogs, sheep, cattle, and goats are especially susceptible to poisoning from overdoses of the hallucinogenic seeds produced by the morning glory.

• Bracken Fern - This plant is poisonous in a fresh or dried condition causing rough hair coats, listless attitudes, and mucous discharge in ruminant animals such as sheep, cattle, and goats. Elevated temperatures, swelling of the neck, and difficult breathing may occur. Monogastrics, like swine may show anorexia and incoordination.

• Rhubarb - The flat leaf blade is the toxic part of the rhubarb plant that causes staggering, excessive salivation, convulsions, and death in most classes of livestock.

• English Ivy - All species of livestock have exhibited toxicosis from English Ivy with symptoms including local irritation, excessive salivation, nausea, excitement, difficult breathing, severe diarrhea, thirst and coma.

• Wild Cherry - As far as plants go, wild cherry is probably the most common cause of livestock poisoning known. The most common exposure occurs when limbs are blown down or are trimmed and thrown into a fenced area. The wilted leaves are toxic and cause anxiety, staggering, falling down, convulsions, rolling of eyes, tongue hanging out, loss of sensation, and dilated pupils. The animal then becomes quiet, bloats and dies within a few hours of ingestion.

• Yew - This popular, needlelike shrub grown around the home contains poisonous alkaloids. Symptoms of yew poisoning are gastric distress, diarrhea, vomiting, tremors, dilated pupils, respiratory difficulty, weakness, fatigue, collapse, coma, convulsions, circulatory failure, and death. Survival after yew poisoning is rare.

• Oaks - Acorns and young shoots can cause severe poisoning, especially if eaten in quantity. Cattle, sheep, horses, and swine will display anorexia, constipation that develops into diarrhea, gastroenteritis, thirst and excessive urination.

• Mountain Laurel - Native or wild Mountain Laurel, rhododendron and azalea are all considered poisonous and highly toxic to ruminants. Symptoms of poisoning include anorexia; repeated swallowing; profuse salivation; watering of the mouth, eyes, and nose; loss of energy; slow pulse; low blood pressure, incoordination; dullness and depression. Death is preceded by coma.

Controlling Fly Populations

There are more than 10 million horses raised in the United States for pleasure riding, breeding, and racing. There are also 3.2 million horse owners, who provide their horses with proper housing facilities. They must also maintain proper environmental conditions for their horses, but the fly can cause many problems for horse and other types of livestock production enterprises.

Housing facilities for horses basically consist of tiestalls, box stalls, or open sheds, and large amounts of sawdust, or wood shavings are typically used as bedding. The numerous edges and corners in the stalls, and the large amounts of bedding soaked with urine and manure provide an ideal fly breeding habitat.

Also, a horse produces about 40 pounds of manure per day, and this, combined with bedding, spilled feed, and water, provides an excellent environment for fly breeding. The time-consuming and difficult task of cleaning out stalls with hand tools also presents a disposal problem. If the manure is piled, the piles can support large amounts of fly breeding.

Other livestock such as sheep and goats present similar problems of fly control as horses because housing is similar. Sheep and goats are usually housed in open sheds or indoor pens with ample bedding, spilled feed and water, and accumulated urine and manure providing ideal conditions for fly production. Manure removal and disposal for sheep and goats is also a problem because manure removal is practiced less frequently than in horse enterprises. Sheep and goats also spend more time sleeping and eating in their shelters than horses and therefore they create a larger fly breeding problem.

Housing for sheep, goats, and horses should be located on well-drained sites and graded so that surface water does not enter the sheds. Improper drainage and leaking waterers are the major contributors to wet bedding, which encourages fly breeding.

Potential major fly breeding areas:

- Corners and edges of stalls
- Under feed mangers
- Under waterers
- Margins and under stored hay and grain
- old feed in bunkers
- wet spilled feed
- Piles of manure and bedding
- Wet bedding due to entrance of surface water.

Control measures:

- Clean stalls frequently
- Ventilate well to dry bedding
- Compact and cover piles of removed manure and bedding
- Clean up spilled feed frequently
- Grade to prevent infusion by surface water
- Residual insecticide spray on surfaces and adjacent vegetation
- Mist for adult fly control as needed
- Fly bait stations
- Larviciding.

4-H Regional Driving Clinics Set

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.)—Well-known carriage driving judge and clinician Lore Homer will conduct a series of 4-H regional driving clinics in June.

A registered judge for both the American Driving Society and the American Horse Shows Association, Homer has been successful in all phases of pleasure and combined driving. She has shown the Morgan Open Competition Champion for several years and the 1989 World Champion Morgan in Carriage Driving. Last year, Homer won both the Devon Horse Show Single Horse 4-Wheel Division and Single Horse Championship.

Clinic participants will learn correct procedures for training, harnessing, and driving horses and ponies, with emphasis on proper turnout and safety techniques for handling and driving. Current 4-H driving rules and procedures will also be discussed.

Clinics will be held on June 19 at the Lawrence County Fairgrounds in New Castle, June 20 at the Centre County Fairgrounds in Centre Hall, June 21 at the Montanvale Farm in Forksville (Sullivan County), and June 22 at the Berks County 4-H Center Show Grounds in Leesport. All clinics begin at 3:00 p.m. and are limited to 20 horses each. Cost is $5 for 40-H members and $10 for nonmembers with horses or ponies and carts. Spectators will be admitted for $2.

You must preregister before June 15 for these popular driving clinics. Verification of current rabies vaccination is required. For more information or to register, contact Phil Hoy in Lawrence County, (412) 654-2741, Cindy Gray in Centre County (814) 364-9907, Rick Smith in Sullivan County (717) 928-8941, or Deb Dietrich in Berks County (610) 378-1327.

Batcheldors, Stroups National Young Jersey Breeders

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — Two Pennsylvania breeding operations of Jersey dairy cattle have recently been named winners of the American Jersey Cattle Association's national 1995 Young Jersey Breeder Award.

Starpoint Jerseys, owned by John and Cindy Batcheldor, of Quarryville, and Topaz Jerseys, owned by W. Todd and Patricia Stroup, of Greencastle, were named recipients of the award, out of nine made nationally.

The Young Jersey Breeder Award is annually bestowed upon as many members of AJCA who, in the opinion of the AJCA Board of Directors, merit recognition.

According to the announcement from AJCA, the awards will be officially presented July 1, during the several-day annual meetings of the AJCA and the Jersey Marketing Service, National All-Jersey Inc., scheduled to be held in Albany, N.Y.

The Batchelders have owned registered Jerseys for 27 years, and their current rolling herd average on 48 head is 16,849 pounds of milk, 770 pounds of fat, and 625 pounds of protein. The total herd consists of 90 cows.

Star Point Jerseys have received attention by producing four Hall of Fame cows, four bull mothers, and garnering national rankings for milk and protein. Among herds of similar size, Star Point Jerseys was ranked seventh nationally for milk and 10th for protein.

In addition, the Batchelders are enrolled in the AJCA Total Performance Evaluation Program to help keep track of production and appraisal information. The merchandise program is enhanced through appropriate advertising.

Both are also active in community organizations. Cindy has served on the Strategic Planning Committee of the Solanco School Board, and has served as president and vice president of the Pennsylvania District III Jersey Breeders, as director and vice-director for the Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Club, and as director and Scholarship Committee co-chair of the Virginia Tech Dairy Science Alumni Association.

John has served as chairman of the Top of Harvest Sale, and as a member of the AJCA All-American Sale Committee. He has also worked in the sale ring for several state and regional sales.

After having both grown up on farms with Jerseys, W. Todd and Patricia Stroup now milk 108 head of their own and had an end-August 1994 rolling herd average of 14,108 pounds of milk, 688 pounds of fat, and 529 pounds of protein.

The Stroups breed 35 percent of their herd to young sires, and have set a goal of merchandising one bull per year for A.I.

They currently have several bulls in artificial insemination service and have sold embryos and heifers outside the United States.

Marketing their milk through a solids-not-fat premium order, they and the Batchelders have invested in the National All-Jersey Inc. Equity Program, a program offered through AJCA-NAJ, according to a news release.

The Stroups are active politically, and have worked on several campaigns through National Milk Producers Federation and Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative, as well as being involved with many local, state and national organizations.

They have held office on the National Milk Producers Federation YC Advisory Council, the Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Association, and the National Jersey Jug Committee. They have also been on various committees at St. Mark the Evangelist Church.

North Carolina Farm Bureau, North Carolina Young Jersey Dairyman, and Eastern Milk Producers Young Cooperator Leader Couple have honored the Stroups naming them the Young Farmer and Rancher Family of the Year.

Both Star Point Jerseys and Topaz Jerseys consign animals to various state, regional and national sales.

Master Breeder

In other national awards presented by AJCA-NAJ, Edward, Harold and Donald Wright, of Maplerow Farm, in White River Junction, Vermont, are to jointly receive the 1995 Master Breeder Award on June 30, during the annual meetings.

The award is annually presented to the living AJCA member, family, partnership or corporation who, in the opinion of the board of directors, has bred outstanding animals for many years and thereby has made a notable contribution to the advancement of the Jersey breed in the United States.

The Wrights grandfather, Seth B. Wright, brought the first Jersey to Maplerow Farm in 1903. Harold's children and grandchildren are the fourth and fifth generation Jersey breeders on the farm.

The herd has been on test through the Dairy Herd Improvement Association since 1928, and has been enrolled in the DHIR test plan since 1950. Maplerow Jerseys have been classified and appraised since 1948.

The Wrights were supporters of the 5,000 Heifer Project, which helped launch National All-Jersey Inc., and its equity program, according to a news release.

During the 1970s, Maplerow used the sire Milestones Generator heavily and with good success including the Hall of Fame cow, Maplerow Generators Cherry, which classified Excellent 92. The Jersey sire Great Magic is a descendant of Cherry, and at one time, Great Magic was the top bull in the United States, according to rating for Predicted Difference Protein Dollars (PDP$).

Currently two sires bred at Maplerow are in A.I. sampling programs. They are Great Brass, currently on test at Jerseyland Sires, and Reliant Soldier Boy, available through Landmark Genetics.

The farm is also home of the 1986 All-American Jersey Show grand champion cow, Maplerow Mercury Aron, appraised Excellent 96. She has had several lactions with milk production in excess of 20,000 pounds of milk.

The Wrights have sold registered Jerseys to buyers in 30 states and at least five countries.

The also have supported state, regional and national breed sales, having consigned to or purchased consignments from almost every Vermont Jersey Breeders sale, and the New England Jersey Breeders spring sale, as well as consignments to the national heifer sale and the All-American Sale.

Distinguished Service

The winner of the Jersey breed organization's national distinguished service award was auctioneer W.R. Lutz, of Newton, North Carolina. Lutz is to receive the award June 30.

This award is presented to the member of AJCA who has "rendered unselfish service for many years, and in doing so made a notable contribution to the advancement of the Jersey breed in the United States," according to a news release.

Lutz started in Jersey sales management and auction business in 1950, since generating the transaction of millions of dollars in the agricultural economy through the sale of real estate, cattle, dairy equipment, farm machinery and related items.

At the time of the sales, he had co-managed the five largest Jersey dispersals and four of the five highest grossing dispersals in Jersey history.

In addition to managing sales, Lutz has assisted at other prominent Jersey sales including the All American Jersey Sale and the Pot O' Gold Sale. He is also credited with helping to organize the Dixie Classic Jersey Sale, noted as one of the longest running regional sales in the country.

Lutz has also help by assisting people starting out by helping to locate facilities, cattle, equipment, and securing financing.

He is currently on the Agribusiness Committee of the National Auctioneers Association, and has held many offices in professional organizations, such as serving as president of the Auctioneers Association of North Carolina, and chairman of the North Carolina Auctioneers Licensing Board.

In addition to those affiliations, he is a member of the AJCA, the North Carolina Jersey Breeders Association, Farm Bureau Federation, and the New Jerusalem Lutheran Church.

Young Breeders

The seven other recipients of the national Young Jersey Breeder Award include Craig W. and Michelle Aver, owners of Fort Morrison Farm, in Colrain, Maine; Duane and Christina Anderson, of Salvation Jerseys, in Milan, Miss.; Herby D. Lutz, of Sunny Day Farm, in Chester, S.C.; Karl and Candace Steinhauer, of Steinhauer's Jerseys, in Mattoon, Wisc.; Tim and Patti Everett, of Stone House Farm, in Sharon Springs, N.Y.; Eric Silva, Sunset Canyon Jerseys, Turlock, Calif.; and Paul Schirm, of Schirm Farms, in Canal Winchester, Ohio.

THOUGHTS ON FARM ANIMAL WELFARE

Brenda Coe
Animal Welfare
Project Assistant

Brenda Coe

More than 12,000 ago, wolves that approached ancient man's campfire were among the various species of animals which instinctively recognized that association with humans might increase their chances of survival and ultimately their ability to reproduce.

Domestication was a mutually beneficial process, and the interdependence that developed between man and beast still exists on farms and communities around the world.

Today, people depend on domesticated farm animals for food, fiber, and a myriad of by-products used everyday at home and work, and producers work hard to meet consumer demands for an inexpensive, wholesome food source and other quality products.

However, animal agriculture has been increasingly criticized in the last decade by certain members of society who question the practice of raising and using animals for food, fiber, and most other purposes.

Currently, 90 percent of our population live in urban and suburban areas, and only 2 percent — the farmers and ranchers — feed the entire nation. In terms of the American experience, farming has become the exception rather than the rule.

Only a century ago, most people in the United States had ties to farming and domestic livestock; they either lived in a rural area or had relatives involved in commercial agriculture. Now our population has become so removed from the practice of animal agriculture that many people no longer understand the processes by which food finds its way from the farm to the dining table. And studies have shown that the more remote the public is from an issue, the more likely they are to look to generalized mass media for information about the issue.

Inundated with information — and sometimes misinformation — from the mass media, the general public has become more health-conscious and concerned about environmental issues, the use of natural resources, and the well-being of all kinds of animals. At the same time, criticism from organized activist groups questioning the conduct of the agricultural community has increased.

Because the public has been and continues to be misled by these "animal rights" activists, the animal agricultural industry needs to become more proactive in educating the public about the facts of animal production practices.

The public needs to be informed about continuing progress in animal care and about areas being actively researched. For instance, over the years, as new knowledge and information have become available, the industry has voluntarily adopted more humane handling, transportation, and slaughter techniques. Dairy cattle are now routinely provided access to exercise lots or pasture, concrete floors are grooved to reduce slipping, animals are castrated and dehorned at earlier ages, vaccinations are used to prevent disease, stray voltage on dairies is being eliminated, housing designs and space allowances for veal calves and gestating/farrowing sows are being modified, effective veterinarian-client-patient relationships are more widespread, and emphasis is being placed on preventing rather than curing disease.

Improvements also continue to be made in the area of transportation and handling. Some of these improvements result in economic returns that offset the cost of the changes, but the public must also know that a balance must sometimes be struck between the welfare of the animal and cost of production.

The most appropriate response to misinformation is education. Those on the forefront of animal agriculture have identified three general approaches to the challenges of public ignorance and animal rights agendas: (1) the animal agriculture industry must have a well-organized response; (2) guidelines must be established for the care and use of animals in agriculture; and (3) educational materials and programs must be made available to the public.

It is clear that producers and researchers must continue to work together to develop a base of information from which current production practices can be evaluated and, where warranted, realistic changes made. Perceived ethics of producing and marketing animal-derived products are extremely important in the acceptance of these products by consumers. In addition, public perception often forms the basis for legislation and regulation of agriculture production and marketing.

Well-intentioned but unrealistic, unnecessary, and nonconstructive restrictions based on misinformation have been adopted into law in European countries and have had a negative effect on production efficiency and trade economy. A timely educational effort now may prevent the passing of inappropriate legislation in the U.S.

In an effort to educate producers and the public alike, the American Veterinary Medical Association has published a set of animal welfare recommendations. For example, it has taken the position that confinement provides many opportunities to enhance the health and welfare of food animals. Organizations such as the Livestock Conservation Institute, producer and breed associations, universities, and national committees have developed informational materials on appropriate animal care, handling and transportation practices.

Many livestock and marketing groups have developed operational codes of ethics. Colleges are offering new courses on animal welfare and, in other animal-related courses, are devoting more time to animal welfare and its relationship to research and production on animal welfare. Research continues to provide information on how animals perceive their environments and to investigate what constitutes well-being for different species.

The issues of animal welfare, care, and use will not disappear. The goal of animal agriculture must be to bring the issues to the forefront where they can be clearly seen and discussed, and if need be, changes made. In this way, uninformed and misinformed Americans will gain greater understanding and appreciation for the importance of animal agriculture in our world.

Scores Close As Record Number Compete

LOWELLVILLE, Ohio—A record number of competitors came from Ohio, Pennsylvania, Maryland, and West Virginia to participate in Yeo Farms fourth Livestock Judging Contest held in conjunction with Yeo Farms Annual Club Lamb Sale on April 22. Both events took place at the farm in Lowellville.

Sixty-five young people competed as individuals and as members of county 4-H club teams in a tightly contested event. There were 10 junior teams, for those up to the age of 13, and six senior teams.

Each participant was asked to evaluate seven pens containing four animals. There were four pens of cattle and three of sheep. Each contestant was also asked to estimate the weight of a young Angus bull so that, in the event of a tie score in the judging competition, the contestant whose estimate of the bull's weight was the closer would be given the higher placing. As it turned out, several positions in the contest were settled by the tie-breaking estimate of the bull's weight.

Charles County, Maryland swept first place in the team competition in both divisions. On the junior team were Jonathan House, Becky Rice-Overstreet, Katie Roberts, and Angelique White. On the senior team were Beth Braun, Jason Roberts, Sarah Roberts, and Joe Swann.

Edging out the others to win second place in the junior division was the Little Woolies team from Lawrence County, Pennsylvania. The team consisted of Chris Benninhoff of Bessemer, Shawna Kephart of Enon Valley, and Barbie and Jesse Mahosky of Wampum. Second place in the senior division was won by the Mahoning County Livestock Judging Club, Ohio. Participating in this second place team were Melissa Glista of Canfield, Andrea Musser of New Middletown, Matt Petrus of New Springfield, and Richard Ricketts also of New Springfield.

Another team from Charles County, Maryland took the third place honors in the junior division. The team consists of Kim Feaganes, Beth Ann House, Carrie Moore, and Beth Robert. The third place senior team was from Jefferson County, Ohio with Jeremy Fabian, David Hendrix, Ric Hendrix, and Mike McKim.

In the individual competition, Jonathan House of Charles County, Maryland won the blue ribbon in the junior division. Second and third places in that division were both won by contestants from Lawrence County, Jesse Mahosky took the second place by only one point and Shawna Kephart won third on the basis of the tie breaker to leave Alie Matie of Mahoning County in fourth.

In the senior division, Andrea Musser of Mahoning County won the blue ribbon. Second place was won by Beth Braun of Charles County, Maryland. Third place went to Ric Hendrix of Jefferson County, Ohio.

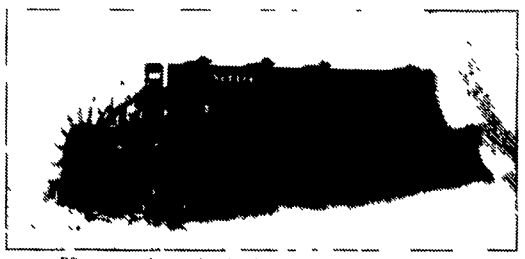
"Binkley & Hurst Bros., Your Rotary Hoe Dealer"

Rediscover The Rotary Hoe!

Farmers rediscover new uses for an old tool

Land hoe!



Effective weed control and soil aeration can be done quickly

Farmers across the country are taking a new look at an old tool, the rotary hoe.

Using a rotary hoe is not only a great defense against weeds, it can also help meet compliance by bringing residue back to the soil surface.

Some innovative farmers have already proven the value of the high-speed rotary hoe in aerating their reduced tillage fields before planting. Used ahead of planting, the rotary hoe breaks the seal or crust that may have formed in the soil. This enables the soil to dry and warm up faster to give you a day or two jump in planting. It also creates a mellow, uniform seedbed for better emergence.

Yetter has designed new models to work specifically in heavy crop residue. These new models operate in row crops or bedding plants with equal ease and without implement modifications.

In many areas, growers are finding rotary hoes can help reduce wind erosion, while others are using rotary hoes to incorporate broadcasted wheat and other small grains. Taking existing technology and expanding its usefulness is what makes innovators successful.

The usefulness of rotary hoes is not limited to farm fields. You might be surprised, but Yetter Rotary Hoes are being used by ski resorts to break up the crusted snow on downhill ski runs.

However, even with all these new ideas, don't overlook why the rotary hoe was originally built. Each pass of a rotary hoe can go a long way in reducing herbicide applications by incorporating the herbicide into the weed root zone to enhance its effectiveness. In fact, many preplant herbicide labels call for rotary hoeing if the weather is dry five to 14 days after application. Check your herbicide labels for details.

This Baler Can Save Thousands Of Dollars With Increased Milk Production In Greatly Reduced Heat Loss Obtained With Our Direct Feed Crop Flow System (Unbiased Testing Has Proven The Facts)

Your Best Buy In Balers is From Binkley & Hurst Bros., Inc.

The Baler That Works!

WHY STRAIGHT IS BETTER THAN SIDEWAYS . . .

Reason #1 Transport width ranges from 7'11" to only 8'88" on our 8550 Model. Conventional balers are generally 1-foot wider in transport.

Reason #2 No need to widen our baler out once you're in the field or narrowing when leaving the field. The conventional baler must be narrowed and widened. Reduced time and effort means money.

Reason #3 Never a need to pick up bales when opening a field and cropping them on the ground — you can even leave the bale thrower on and drop the back chute. Since the baler and tractor straddles the windrow, the bales dropped on the ground from previous rounds never interferes with the operation.

Reason #4 Gauge wheels are mounted on both sides for better performance. Not so with conventional balers.

Reason #5 Our pickup is half the height of conventional balers This means less leaves are lost because less travel distance up and over the pickup is required. An optional hydraulic pickup lift is even available.

Reason #6 Conventional balers use high maintenance cross feeders or sweep arms to move hay to the chamber. Our baler feeds hay from the pickup straight into the chamber by the use of a simple stuffer mechanism. Leaves don't fall to the bottom of the chamber and later fall out the back. Due to our design, leaves are placed evenly throughout the bale — the leaves are not given time to settle to the bottom.

Reason #7 Due to our design, our plunger stroke distance is 25-30% less than conventional balers. Example: John Deere 327, 337, 347 and 467 Models = 30" stroke, Case IH 8520 = 21 6" stroke and a high of 23" on our 8550 The result: Less wear, less side to side stress force and less repairs!

Reason #8 The clearance of our needles from the ground far exceeds conventional balers due to the high position of our chamber This translates to less breakage and bending of the needles due to hitting high places in the field, etc

Reason #9 We have equal baler weight distribution on both carrying wheels for easier handling and less side pull on hills

Reason #10 The distance from the end of our bale chamber to the thrower belts is enough so that the thrower doesn t fight the bale, i e , the bale is not still wedged in the chamber when the thrower first contacts the bale

Reason #11 Our bale edges are sharp and corners are square on all types of hay - excellent when stackers are used or hay is hauled by truck

REMEMBER THE 3 LAWS OF HOOBER RECONDITIONED AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES...

LAW #1- (17) Years Old is not equal to (≠) WORN OUT...
Because of the simple design of the CASE IH Axial Flow Combines, they can be reconditioned by HOOBER'S expert combine mechanics to like-new condition, so they provide 2nd and 3rd owners years of satisfactory and profitable operation.

LAW #2- (4,000) HOURS PLUS (+) HOOBER RECONDITIONING EQUALS (=) YEARS OF DEPENDABLE SERVICE...
(4,000) Hours on a conventional combine usually means they'll be too much trouble to be dependable. Axial-Flow combines with (4,000) hours, reconditioned by HOOBER'S, have proven to run for years when purchased by farmers in PA, MD, DE and NJ

LAW #3- A CASE IH AXIAL-FLOW COMBINE SERVICED BY EXPERT HOOBER COMBINE MECHANICS EQUALS (=) LITTLE OR NO DOWNTIME DURING HARVEST...
When Hoober's expert combine mechanics service and repair AXIAL-FLOW combines in the off-season, they run dependably through the season.

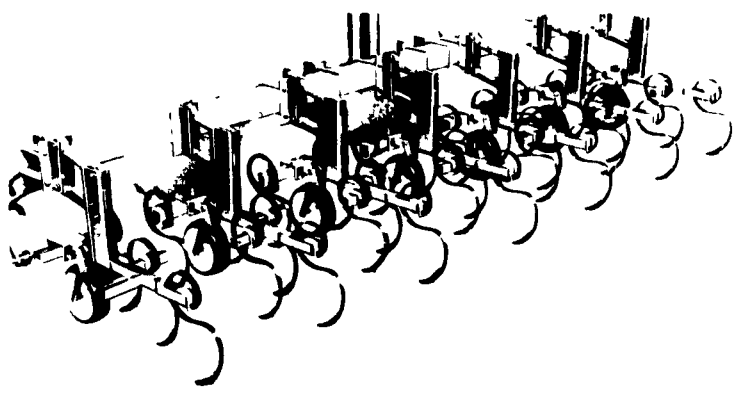
S-TINE RO-CROP CULTIVATORS



THE S-TINE CONCEPT...

The "S" tine has a four-way tooth movement that is designed for high speed cultivation in conjunction with chemical weed control. the spring tines perform well in dry or wet soil, even in rocky ground. The vibrating tines not only kill weeds, but also mulch the soil and level the ground.

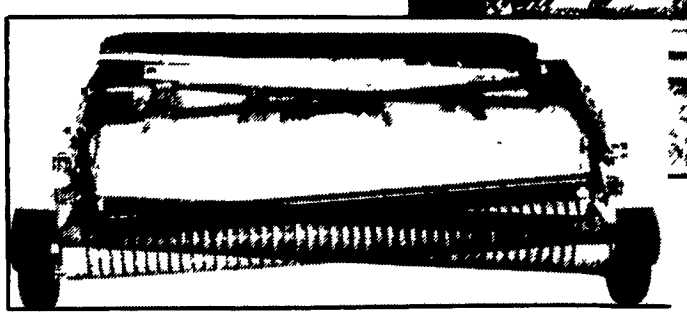
CLAAS

Thorough hard work

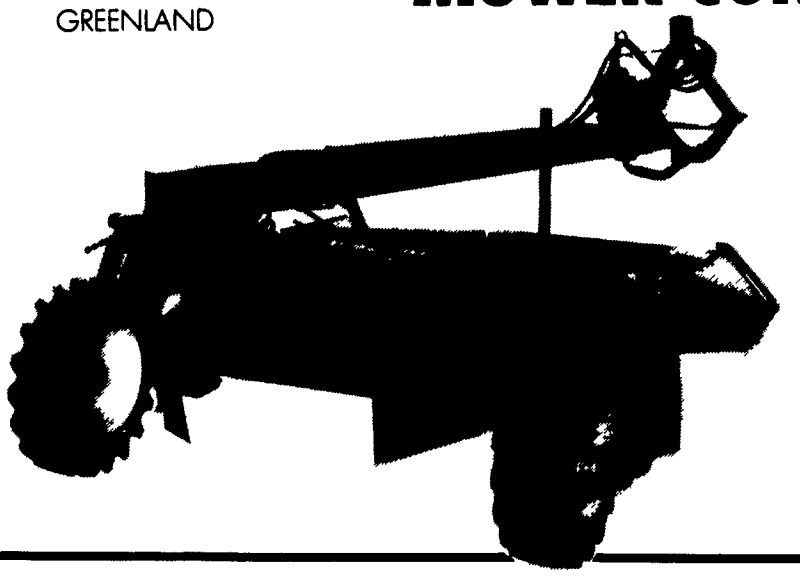
Grass silage is top quality and high energy forage. The CLAAS pickup makes sure that it is clean and none of it is left on the field. Its high power design is characterized by the cranked spring steel tines, the roller crop press and the intake auger with its high auger flights to transport a smooth crop flow to the machine. The CLAAS Contour system keeps the pickup floating over the ground, minimizing wear and tear on it. .



The pickup follows ground countours by means of adjustable support wheels, enhancing a clean, thorough harvest.
Bumps and ground irregularities leave the CLAAS pickup unimpressed. It is flexible and hugs the ground. It compensates in travel direction and laterally, being both spring balaqnced and flexibly mounted.

Vicon GREENLAND

VICON GMR 2400/2800/3200 MOWER-CONDITIONERS



Forage harvesting with a GMR Mower-Conditioner means:
* rapid crop drying as a result of roller conditioning and adjustable swath shape
* preservation of nutritional value
* high harvesting capacity
* greater efficiency of next stage machines (tedder, swath rake, self-loading wagon, baler, etc).

The GMR Mower-Conditioner has a long service life, is simple to operate and easy to maintain.

MF Dynashift™ transmissions get top reviews.

Your left hand controls a 4-speed powershift transmission for smooth, clutchless shifts under load and outstanding productivity.

Your right hand controls an 8-speed synchronized transmission with synchronized forward/reverse shuttle.

MASSEY FERGUSON

Together you get a tractor with 32 forward and 32 reverse speeds that's more productive than a manual shift and more economical and reliable than a powershift. Test drive a Dynashift transmission today on one of these outstanding MF tractors:

Large Selection of New Used & Reconditioned Equipment & Tractors

At Last...

...a Boom Sprayer for multi-crop produce farmer that is affordable and will do the job from sweet corn to melon crops.

With features like...

- 24 ft. one-side boom that allows for 50ft. coverage between drive rows.
- Easy boom height adjustment from 2ft. to 7 1/2 ft. for sweet corn.
- Hydraulic leveling on the go allows uniform boom height from the crop.
- 280 PSI, 15 GPM diaphragm pump with power shaft for quick hookup.
- Adjustable wheel spacing and tongue height.
- Rubber mounted boom to absorb shock

PURINA

SUPER-EXT PERFORMS

Dave and Patti Mclaughlin, along with their son Cole, milk 38 Registered Holsteins in Elliotsburg, Perry County. they purchased the herd from Patti's father in Jan. 1994. The cows are fed corn silage and hay year round, with haylage added to the ration during the summer. A base grain mix and Purina Super EXT 24% provided by Kreiders Mill in Loysville balance the ration.

PERFORMS RESULTS

DATE	RHA	FAT	PRO	LBS. MILK	DIM
JAN. 94	18648	708	696	64.1	169
FEB. 94	18728	710	689	67.8	153 (Started Purina)

Dave's comments include: "Palatability is Wonderful"
"Cows are doing very well with minimal health problems"
" We have improved peaks and sustained persistency"

Purina would like to thank Dave and Patti for sharing their records and wish the continued success in the future
